FEDERAL REGISTER THESAURUS OF INDEXING TERMS

OFFICE OF THE FEDERAL REGISTER

FEDERAL REGISTER THESAURUS OF INDEXING TERMS

Revised January 4, 2021

The Administrative Committee of the Federal Register (ACFR) regulations require that agencies must include a list of subjects for each CFR part affected by a document published in the Rules and Regulations or the Proposed Rules sections of the daily Federal Register. The regulations further require that agencies use the terms provided in this document. (1 CFR 18.20) We chose these indexing terms to be broad enough for use by all agencies while still helping people find specific information. In this revision of the document, we have simplified the overall format, by:

- Updating the list of terms
- Eliminating the broad subject categories that were only used to group these terms in this document
- Eliminating "x", "xx", and "sa" designations

Official indexing terms (which appear in the CFR Subject Index) appear in boldface black type, with all related terms under the subheading "See also." Variations on official terms (which are not in the Index) appear in red italicized text preceded by an asterisk, with the official terms under the subheading "See."

Although you must use official indexing terms, you may also include specific terms that fall under other, more general official terms. For example, you may need to use a more specific term, like "corn", in addition to the more general term "commodities." If the focus of the regulation is actually "corn," "commodities" may not be specific enough.

You may include other terms in the List of Subjects the terms will help the reader better understand the scope of your document. In general, we do not add non-thesaurus terms to this document as either an official indexing term or as a variation.

If you have questions, please contact the OFR at frsubjectlist@gpo.gov.
