

The Corporate Council provides an opportunity for your organization to support the educational initiatives of the National Archives Experience, a public-private partnership between the Foundation for the National Archives and the National Archives and Records Administration to create greater public awareness of the depth and diversity of America's records and enhance civic literacy among people of all ages.

The generosity of the Foundation's Corporate Council provides the necessary resources to enhance the ongoing activities of the National Archives Experience, including exhibitions, author lectures, film programs, teacher and student initiatives, and family activities that are enjoyed by more than 1 million visitors to the National Archives each year. The Corporate Council provides critical funds to support:

- Traveling exhibitions that bring original documents to diverse communities, increasing our educational impact nationwide.
- The award-winning Digital Vaults, the centerpiece of the new "National Archives Experience Neighborhood" online, which allows people to explore our nation's records in their homes and classrooms. (www.archives.gov/nae)

- The Boeing Learning Center that hosts school and community groups in the "Constitution in Action" Learning Lab and enables families to have their own Archival Adventures.
- The hundreds of year-round public programs and family activities enjoyed by visitors from around the nation.

Members of the Corporate Council take their commitment beyond the ordinary, providing opportunities for people all over the country to interact with the historical records of our country and connect them to our shared history of America.
