| 207 Routine Administrative (Non-Mission) Records Common to All Offices 207 | Records documenting routine administrative activities created and/or received by all NARA organizations that do not have primary responsibility for those activities. Records include requests and responses regarding routine office administrative services and activities. Examples of records include, but are not limited to: requests for supplies, credit card purchases, contracts, budget requests, printing requests, travel records, facility work orders, space management requests, recruitment/staffing requests, revised position descriptions, awards, time and attendance records, telework agreements, Employee Viewpoint Survey (EVS) activities documentation, employee exit clearances, and similar records.
This "Administrative (Admin) Big Bucket" disposition covers administrative records created/received/maintained in NARA offices where:
'Administrative functions are not their core mission. Includes locally-maintained copies of records forwarded to primary administrative organizations such as Accounting, Budget, Facilities, and Human Capital;
'Core administrative functions" are being fulfilled on behalf of a primary administrative organization (such as decentralized procurement or other fiscal activities); and
'Non-mission administrative functions are being performed by primary administrative organizations whose core mission is administrative in nature. For example, file no. 207 applies when Human Capital creates procurement-related records while purchasing goods or services, and personnel actions when hiring for its own staff.
The Admin Big Bucket disposition does not apply to records and data created/received/maintained:
'As part of organizations’ core mission duties. These core mission records are scheduled by NARA-specific disposition authorities;
'By primary administrative organizations whose core mission records are covered by the General Records Schedule or NARA-specific disposition authorities. For example, file no. 207 does not apply to personnel-related records in Human Capital components, or contract records maintained by contracting officers in Acquisitions;
'In unofficial personnel files (file no. 303-1); and
'In electronic systems dedicated to performing specific administrative functions. For example, file no. 207 does not apply to records maintained in NARA's travel system or personnel system. | Temporary DAA-0064-2015-0003 Item 1

Case Management and Reporting System and Registry Files
1340-1 | The Case Management and Reporting System (CMRS) manages customer requests for military personnel, medical, and organizational records stored at the National Personnel Records Center - Military Personnel Records (NPRC-MPR) in St. Louis, Missouri. CMRS is used to manage and equalize staff workload; cases are assigned to individual staff members based on resource availability and existing caseload. In addition, CMRS:
- Maintains data regarding each request;
- Helps to locate the appropriate folder for the veteran in question;
- Identifies duplicate requests and groups them for assignment to the same staff member;
- Manages efficient retrieval of folders from the shelves, tracks removed folders, and facilitates folder refiling;
- Processes copies of selected military documents;
- Produces any needed correspondence with the customer; and
- Facilitates document shipment to the customer.
The Registry Files are an automated index to selected Official Military Personnel Folders (OMPFs) and medical records stored at NPRC-MPR.

Presidential Records Act (PRA) Public Release and Special Access Notification Files

Series Description / Item Description

NARA operates Presidential libraries for administrations dating back to President Herbert Hoover (March 1929 - March 1933). As of the start of President Ronald Reagan's term in office (January 20, 1981 - January 20, 1989), the Presidential Records Act (PRA) of 1978 (44 U.S.C. 2201-2209, as amended), has governed records created by the President, Vice President, their immediate staffs, and units or individuals of the Executive Office of the President and Office of the Vice President whose function is to advise and assist the President and the Vice President respectively. NARA's regulations for implementing the PRA are found in 36 CFR Part 1270. As of the approved date of this records schedule, the PRA statute applies to records at the "PRA" libraries for former Presidents and Vice Presidents beginning with the Reagan administration of all future Presidents and Vice Presidents.

In accordance with the PRA, NARA's Presidential Materials Division (LM) must formally notify representatives of the incumbent President and relevant former President before Presidential records may be released to the public. The same procedures are followed for proposed disclosures of Vice-Presidential records whereby a representative of the pertinent former Vice President is also formally notified. LM sends formal letters to the representatives, notifying them of Presidential/Vice-Presidential records proposed for opening following a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) access request or completion of a systematic processing project. The PRA allows representatives of the incumbent President, former President, and former Vice President (for Vice-Presidential records only) 60 working days (with one 30-working day extension option) in which to determine if the incumbent President or former President plan(s) to assert a claim of executive privilege. Representatives may respond to LM to officially release the records, or not respond to the notification and simply let the 60-day time period elapse, thereby automatically releasing the records at the end of the time period.

Pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 2205, a court of competent jurisdiction, the incumbent President (if needed for conduct of current business), and either House of Congress or a congressional committee or subcommittee can request access to Presidential and Vice-Presidential records in NARA's legal custody that are not yet available to the public. If documents responsive to these "special access" requests are located, LM provides notice to representatives of the former President and Vice President (for Vice-Presidential records only), as well as the incumbent President (if request is from a court or Congress). Representatives of the former President and incumbent President (as applicable) are given 30 calendar days in which to invoke a claim of executive privilege. The time frame may be less than 30 days depending upon the circumstances of the special access request (per 36 CFR 1270.46[d]). If representatives do not respond to LM by the specified date, NARA discloses the records to the requester.

PRA Public Release and Special Access Notification Files

The Presidential Materials Division (LM) keeps the following records in both public release and special access notification files: correspondence between LM Director/archival policy staff and all other parties (FOIA/special access requesters, PRA libraries, and representatives of incumbent President and former Presidents and Vice Presidents); paper copies of all formal letters sent to representatives and their official responses; and print-outs of case file information from LM Notification Database. For public release notifications only, LM maintains "Library Release Notice" memoranda to notify PRA libraries that they may send copies of responsive records to requesters. This schedule item is not media-neutral because it applies only to paper records.

If representatives do not respond to LM by the specified date, NARA discloses the records to the requester.

Prominent PRA Public Release and Special Access Notification Files of Historical Importance to NARA

Prominent notification files may contain correspondence with the incumbent President and former Presidents, in addition to the same records as public release and special access notification files. Cases in which files are deemed "prominent" are when: (1) a claim of executive privilege has been made by an incumbent or former President; or (2) requested Presidential/Vice-Presidential records pertain to notable persons or subjects in American government, culture, and/or history. Notable persons may hold/have held high-level positions in the executive, legislative, and/or judicial branches at [the] federal and/or state levels. For example, public release and special access notifications may concern Presidential/Vice-Presidential records regarding high-ranking advisers and nominees to the President's Cabinet and the Supreme Court. Noteworthy subjects in Presidential/Vice-Presidential records may cover significant one-time events (e.g., landmark court cases), commissions of high importance (e.g., 9/11 Commission), or complex issues in domestic and international affairs (e.g., homeland security, tax reform, environment, Middle East policies) spanning one or more administrations. Prominent notification files have historical value insofar as they document topics of interest in Presidential/Vice-Presidential records dating from more than 25 years ago. This schedule item is not media-neutral because it applies only to paper records.

Notable persons may hold/have held high-level positions in the executive, legislative, and/or judicial branches at [the] federal and/or state levels. For example, public release and special access notifications may concern Presidential/Vice-Presidential records regarding high-ranking advisers and nominees to the President's Cabinet and the Supreme Court. Noteworthy subjects in Presidential/Vice-Presidential records may cover significant one-time events (e.g., landmark court cases), commissions of high importance (e.g., 9/11 Commission), or complex issues in domestic and international affairs (e.g., homeland security, tax reform, environment, Middle East policies) spanning one or more administrations. Prominent notification files have historical value insofar as they document topics of interest in Presidential/Vice-Presidential records dating from more than 25 years ago. This schedule item is not media-neutral because it applies only to paper records.</td>

<td>NARA operates Presidential libraries for administrations dating back to President Herbert Hoover (March 1929 - March 1933). As of the start of President Ronald Reagan's term in office (January 20, 1981 - January 20, 1989), the Presidential Records Act (PRA) of 1978 (44 U.S.C. 2201-2209, as amended), has governed records created by the President, Vice President, their immediate staffs, and units or individuals of the Executive Office of the President and Office of the Vice President whose function is to advise and assist the President and the Vice President respectively. NARA's regulations for implementing the PRA are found in 36 CFR Part 1270. As of the approved date of this records schedule, the PRA statute applies to records at the &quot;PRA&quot; libraries for former Presidents and Vice Presidents beginning with the Reagan administration of all future Presidents and Vice Presidents. In accordance with the PRA, NARA's Presidential Materials Division (LM) must formally notify representatives of the incumbent President and relevant former President before Presidential records may be released to the public. The same procedures are followed for proposed disclosures of Vice-Presidential records whereby a representative of the pertinent former Vice President is also formally notified. LM sends formal letters to the representatives, notifying them of Presidential/Vice-Presidential records proposed for opening following a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) access request or completion of a systematic processing project. The PRA allows representatives of the incumbent President, former President, and former Vice President (for Vice-Presidential records only) 60 working days (with one 30-working day extension option) in which to determine if the incumbent President or former President plan(s) to assert a claim of executive privilege. Representatives may respond to LM to officially release the records, or not respond to the notification and simply let the 60-day time period elapse, thereby automatically releasing the records at the end of the time period. Pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 2205, a court of competent jurisdiction, the incumbent President (if needed for conduct of current business), and either House of Congress or a congressional committee or subcommittee can request access to Presidential and Vice-Presidential records in NARA's legal custody that are not yet available to the public. If documents responsive to these &quot;special access&quot; requests are located, LM provides notice to representatives of the former President and Vice President (for Vice-Presidential records only), as well as the incumbent President (if request is from a court or Congress). Representatives of the former President and incumbent President (as applicable) are given 30 calendar days in which to invoke a claim of executive privilege. The time frame may be less than 30 days depending upon the circumstances of the special access request (per 36 CFR 1270.46[d]). If representatives do not respond to LM by the specified date, NARA discloses the records to the requester. PRA Public Release and Special Access Notifications – Reference Files Reference files include copies of Presidential and Vice-Presidential records held by the relevant PRA library or LM. The copies are provided to the representatives of the incumbent President and former President and Vice President for their review. LM requests copies of records from the libraries and LM's archival team and then provides the copies to the representatives on an on-demand basis.</td>

If representatives do not respond to LM by the specified date, NARA discloses the records to the requester.

Presidential Materials Division (LM) Notification Database

LM maintains a database for tracking public release and special access notification cases pertaining to Presidential and Vice-Presidential records. This database has entries for both temporary release case files (DAA-0064-2017-0002-0001) and permanent ("prominent") case files (DAA-0064-2017-0002-0002). All cases are assigned a case number. At a minimum, the type of notification (e.g., systematic processing project, FOIA requester, special access requester) and requested materials (pages/electronic files/photographs processed, restricted, and proposed for opening) are included in each entry. LM files print-outs in both the temporary and permanent files for notification cases. This schedule item is not media-neutral because it applies only to electronic records.

| Archival Operations in Field 1474        | The Archives Services function is responsible for the accessioning of those records of Federal agencies and other sources determined by the Archivist to have sufficient historical value to warrant continuing their preservation and making them available for reference. At archival operations units in the field, “archives services” activities include:
  · Accessioning records from agencies and other sources;
  · Preparing and publishing finding aids;
  · Providing reference service;
  · Recommending to the Archivist the disposal of records in the custody of Research Services (R); and · Providing assistance to agencies for preparing exhibits and displays.
  NOTE: Training and agency/professional outreach activities are covered in Chapter 16 under file no. 1618, "Regional Outreach."
Accessioning. Records that document the accessioning of agency records to the National Archives. Examples of “accessioning” records include: SF 258s, tracking databases, and correspondence.
