Series Title:

University of Alaska Anchorage 1954- 2012, Miscellaneous Health Information 1917 – 1951

General Notes:

Administrative History: This collection was donated by the University of Alaska at Anchorage in 1996. It seems that it was culled from one of their donated collections as alienated federal records, but the archivist at the University would not confirm the donor, citing privacy. While they appear to be BIA Health Services records, they were processed as a Donated Materials Group, as there is no provenance to tie them to the BIA.

Series Description: This series consists of census, health, disease, birth, marriage, and death records. Many seem to have been removed from a book that traveled with health professionals, as there are several locations throughout the Aleutians represented. The Killisnoo file has medical and census information mixed together, though it is not always complete. Several villages have anonymous tuberculosis information for the late 1940s to mid 1950s. Files collected appear to have been working files, documenting incidents of venereal disease and tuberculosis.
