A member of the Peronist Council and his assistant were murdered in Buenos Aires Province (BAP). (S)(U)

A University employee with Communist connections was murdered in La Plata, BAP, during a kidnap attempt. (S)(U)

December 9, 1974 (S)(U)

Three badly mutilated bodies were discovered in an empty field adjacent to the Argentine Army Campo de Mayo military base in BAP. Buenos Aires Provincial Police (BAPP) investigation established that the bodies had been dynamited causing the respective parts to be blown over a considerable distance. BAPP investigation also established that the hands had been amputated from each of the bodies prior to being dynamited in an obvious attempt to hinder identification through fingerprints. An Argentine Army intelligence source advised that the bodies were those of three Argentine Army conscripts who were part of an Argentine terrorist organization, the Peoples Revolutionary Army (ERP) cell, and had been collaborating with the ERP in providing data on Argentine Army officers, especially their movements, in order to target them for ERP assassination squads.
