Federal Records for Genealogical Research

Laid side to side, pages in our holdings would circle the Earth over 57 times! Only a small percentage is available for research online—or even on microfilm. Our web site offers tools and guides to help locate records that may be useful to you.

Family history researchers commonly use these records, some of which will be discussed in the 2014 Virtual Genealogy Fair.

- 1. Federal Population Census, 1790–1940. Taken every 10 years, census records are the basic building block for tracing a family through time. For more information, see www.archives.gov/research/census. Digital images are available on Ancestry.com, HeritageQuest.com (through public library websites), and FamilySearch.org.
- 2. Compiled Military Service Records (CMSRs) for veterans of conflicts from the Revolutionary War (1775–83) through Philippine Insurrection (1899–1902). Digital images are available online at Fold3.com for Revolutionary War, Civil War (Union—selected states), and Civil War (Confederate). CMSRs for veterans of the War of 1812, Mexican War, Spanish-American War, Philippine Insurrection must be ordered from NARA or viewed in the National Archives Building. For more information about Civil War CMSRs and other records, see www.archives.gov/research/military/civil-war/resources.html. For information about obtaining military records, see www.archives.gov/research/military.
- 3. Military pension records for veterans of conflicts from the Revolutionary War through Philippine Insurrection. Digital images for Revolutionary War pensions, War of 1812 (selected files), and Civil War (Union—selected files) are online at Fold3.com.
Note: Confederate pensions are held by state archives. For more information, see www.archives.gov/research/military/civil-war/confederate/pension.html/
- 4. Military draft registration records.
Civil War. See www.archives.gov/publications/prologue/1994/winter/civil-war-draft-records.html for information. Digital images are available at Ancestry.com.
World War I. See www.archives.gov/research/military/ww1/draft-registration for information. Digital images are available at Ancestry.com.
World War II. See www.archives.gov/research/military/ww2/draft-cards-fourth-registration.pdf for more information.

5. Immigration records. Passenger lists of vessels arriving at seaports and lists of persons crossing the U.S.-Canada (1895–1950s) and U.S.-Mexico (1903–1950s) land borders document the arrival of aliens to the United States. See www.archives.gov/research/immigration/passenger-arrival.html for more information.
6. Naturalization records. Naturalization is the process by which an alien becomes an American citizen. Depending upon when the record was created, the record may provide a researcher with information such as a person's birth date and location, occupation, immigration year, marital status and spouse information, witnesses' names and addresses, and more. See www.archives.gov/research/naturalization/naturalization.html for more information.
7. Federal land records document the transfer of public lands from the U.S. Government to private ownership, whether by cash sale, homestead, or by a military bounty land warrant. See www.archives.gov/research/land/ for more information.
8. Post Office Records about the appointment of postmasters and other Post Office Department employee records. Some records are on microfilm, some are not. See www.archives.gov/research/federal-employees/reference-reports/515-post-office-employees.pdf for more information.
9. Native American records consist of lists, censuses, school records, and other materials about persons who maintained their affiliation with a Federally recognized tribe. See www.archives.gov/research/native-americans/ for more information.
10. How Did Your Ancestor Interact with the Federal Government? There may be a record.

Suggestions and Advice for Family History Researchers

1. Start with yourself. Organize your knowledge. Fill out a five-generation ancestry chart and family group sheet for each ancestral couple. Organize and study any family papers you have.

Five-generation chart: archives.gov/research/genealogy/charts-forms/ancestral-chart.pdf

Family group sheet: archives.gov/research/genealogy/charts-forms/family-group-sheet.pdf
2. Talk with your relatives. They may know information about your ancestors that you don't know.
3. Begin your census research with the 1940 census and work your way backwards. Find all members of the extended family for a complete picture of the family. The more you know about the whole family, the easier it will be to work yourself around “brick walls.”
4. Use the clues you find in one record to help you locate other records. For example, the 1920 census might indicate your immigrant ancestor arrived in the U.S. in 1901 and naturalized in 1907. Those are good clues—but don't expect them to be 100% accurate.

5. Census, military service, military pension, immigration, naturalization, and land records are some of the most useful Federal Records for genealogical research. Other Federal records may be useful to you depending on what relationships your ancestors had with various federal agencies. Read more on the National Archives website, www.archives.gov/research/genealogy/index.html
6. Birth and death records have been kept by state bureaus of vital statistics since “about” 1900. (The year that state registration began varies by state.) Contact the state archives or appropriate state agency. Birth and death records before 1900 may have been kept at county records offices.
7. Marriage, divorce, land, mortgage, tax, voter registration, and other records were kept by county records offices. Contact the appropriate office or state or county archives. Some records may also be available on online or by microfilm rental through local Family History Centers. See <https://familysearch.org> for more information (click on “search” then “catalog” then do a place name search for the county).
8. Libraries have local history and genealogy collections. You’ll find published records of all types, compiled genealogies, and local newspapers on microfilm.
9. Learn... then learn more.... Read books and online articles on how to do genealogical research. Join genealogical societies (national, state, and local, both where you live and where your ancestors lived). Attend your local genealogy society meetings and classes.
10. The name may not be spelled in various records as you expect it to be spelled. Be flexible. For example, Hayford might be Heyford, Hafford, Haford, Hefford, Heford, and so forth. Remember that immigrants’ first names may be in their native language, for example: John might be Jan, Ivan, Iwan, Johannes, Johann, and so forth, depending on his native language—or the native language of the person creating the record.
11. Many people had the same or similar names so don’t assume that the person is your ancestor. Distinguish between same-named people based on all the clues from all the records you find. Does it make sense? If your ancestor “always” lived in Baltimore, he probably didn’t become naturalized in Nebraska...
12. Write your family history as you go.... Don’t wait for someday. Analyzing what you’ve found and writing it down will help you become a better researcher. Share your writings with other family members. Publish in genealogical society publications.
