Records About Japanese Americans Relocated During World War II

Record Group 210: Records of the War Relocation Authority

The National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) has been accepting electronic records into its holdings since the early 1970s. Technical documentation has accompanied each transfer of electronic records. The documentation is necessary to understand the meaning of the digitized bits of information within the electronic records.

Over the decades, NARA has had different procedures for compiling technical documentation into an organized unit for researchers, and different expectations regarding the

1. Go to the National Archives Catalog Search Page - <http://www.archives.gov/research/catalog/>

2. Search for “Army Serial Number”

The screenshot shows the National Archives website. At the top, there is a logo and navigation links: Blogs, Bookmark/Share, and Contact Us. A search bar labeled 'Search Archives.gov' with a 'GO' button is also present. Below this is a horizontal menu with five categories: Research Our Records, Veterans Service Records, Teachers' Resources, Our Locations, and Shop Online. The 'Research Our Records' section is highlighted, and a breadcrumb trail reads 'Home > Research Our Records > The National Archives Catalog'. On the left, a sidebar titled 'National Archives Catalog' lists various links: Search National Archives Catalog, About National Archives Catalog, Using the National Archives Catalog, Search Tips, Accessibility, Lifecycle Data Requirements Guide, and Contact Us. A red arrow points from 'Search Tips' to the search input field. The main content area is titled 'The National Archives Catalog' with a subtitle: 'Search the online catalog and other National Archives resources at once for information about our records.' Below this is a search box labeled 'Search the National Archives Catalog' containing the text 'Army Serial Number' and a 'Search' button. A link for 'Advanced Search' is also visible. To the right, a 'Most Requested' section lists: The Constitution, Declaration of Independence, and Bill of Rights. At the bottom, an announcement states: 'We're excited to announce that the National Archives Catalog now:' followed by a bulleted list of updates: handles digital images in weekly updates, uses a new search engine for improved relevancy rankings and response times, allows users to transcribe records directly in the catalog, and indexes tags and transcriptions daily.

We're excited to announce that the National Archives Catalog now:

- handles the increasing number of digital images that we're making accessible online in weekly updates
- uses a new search engine to improve searchability — including improved relevancy rankings and response times
- allows users to transcribe our records directly in the catalog
- indexes tags and transcriptions daily — maximizing access all around

3. Click on the second item in the list – “World War II Army Enlistment Records”

The screenshot shows the National Archives Catalog search results for the query "Army Serial Number". The interface includes a top navigation bar with links to Home, Research Room, Contact Us, Statistics, API, and Help. The search bar shows the query and a "Search" button. Below the search bar, it indicates "1 – 20 of 1129 results in 0.35 seconds. Did you mean Army special Number?". There are links for "Show expanded search terms", "Highlight Results", "Sort", "Share", "Export", and "Login".

On the left side, there are three refinement sections:
