Researching Native American Records at the National Archives

Records at the National Archives made a little bit easier.

The National Archives at Fort Worth has recently received a large quantity of records from the Bureau of Indian Affairs, which will be made available to the public for research purposes. These records include a vast amount of information regarding the lives and activities of Native Americans, particularly those of the Cherokee Nation. The records are organized in a manner that makes it easier for researchers to locate the information they are seeking. The National Archives is committed to providing the public with access to these important historical documents, and we are pleased to announce that the process of researching these records has been made a little bit easier.

The National Archives at Fort Worth (NARA)

The National Archives at Fort Worth is a branch of the National Archives and Records Administration. It is located at 400 North Tarrant Street, Fort Worth, Texas 76102. The NARA at Fort Worth is responsible for the collection, preservation, and access to the records of the Cherokee Nation and other Native American tribes. The records are organized in a manner that makes it easier for researchers to locate the information they are seeking.

Before the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes:

In the matter of the Claim of Elisha Salter for Citizenship in the Chectaw Nation.

The applicant would state for his claim for Citizenship in the Chectaw Nation that his age is 40 years and that his Post Office is Cadde I. T.

The applicant would further state that he is an intermarried Citizen of the Chectaw Nation having married Miss Caroline Stewart a Chectaw Indian by blood in the year of 1874 month of Sept and the 29th day of said month.

The applicant further states that he married according to the laws of the Chectaw Nation governing the marriage of White United States Citizens to Citizens of the Chectaw Nation as will be seen by a certified copy of the marriage License and a certified copy of the marriage Certificate filed herewith and made a part of this application and marked "Exhibit A"

The applicant would ask the Commission to extend Chectaw Citizenship unto him and place him on the roll prepared by them for the Chectaw Nation as a Citizenship roll.
