Prime Minister Blair:

E.O. 13526, section 1.4(b)(d)

Samuel Berger: Your efforts to develop the equality agenda seem to us a key in the effort to keep the Republicans in the process. (S)

Prime Minister Blair:

E.O. 13526, section 1.4(b)(d)

The President: I agree. We will continue our contacts and dialogue with Sinn Fein. I also intend to keep seeing Trimble and the other key Unionist leaders when they come to town. (S)

Prime Minister Blair:

E.O. 13526, section 1.4(b)(d)

Thank you again for your continuing help on this critical dimension of the peace process. (U)

The President: Let's turn now to Iraq. What is your assessment after your trip, Madeleine? (U)

E.O. 13526, section 1.4(d)

The President: I agree that their willingness to open eight sites is interesting and offers some hope that our approach could lead to an acceptable formula. ~~(S)~~

Samuel Berger:

E.O. 13526, section 1.4(d)

Prime Minister Blair:

E.O. 13526, section 1.4(b)(d)

The President: Yes, that might be acceptable if a few political people were there in addition to the essential UNSCOM team. ~~(S)~~

The Vice President: In the meantime, we are getting new pressures, especially from Capitol Hill, to go after Saddam's head. (S)

The President: That's right, Tony, and you just heard our press making exactly that point. But that approach is nowhere near as simple as it sounds on the surface. (S)

Prime Minister Blair:

E.O. 13526, section 1.4(b)(d)

The President: That's what is working and will work. (S)

Prime Minister Blair: Our public opinion is not the same as yours, but we are working hard to educate the public. We put out a white paper yesterday on Iraq's WMD programs. (U)

The President: I heard it is an outstanding document. (U)

Prime Minister Blair: We have to educate international opinion so they see the real threat and choices we face. (U)

The President:

E.O. 13526, section 1.4(d)

Secretary Albright: If we do a white paper, it could create a panicky reaction. ~~let~~

The President: But such a paper could also give us a margin of maneuver. It would show how much UNSCOM has accomplished in reducing his stocks and capacity -- but not his future potential. ~~let~~
