<td>a letter was sent from President Barack Obama and the White House to me in response to a letter I had submitted online to him earlier in 2018 because I wrote the letter from my heart on a sticky note and later deleted that note (assuming there's no way I would ever receive a response), I actually don't have the saved message I sent to then President Obama. I'm wondering if there might be any currently undisclosed record of my letter and its content to Obama that I could see. I am happy to verify my identity if needed. While I was, and am still, thrilled to have received a response four years ago, I would never be fully satisfied not being able to know exactly what I had sent. Thank you!</td>

<td>footage from a presidential trip in 2015. In May 2015, President Obama visited Florida to highlight the issue of climate change. During his visit, he had a Twitter Q&amp;A from his official POTUS account. Later that week, the White House posted some footage from the Q&amp;A in the West Wing Weekly Series. The reason that I am writing then is to see if it is possible to access the entire recording from the Q&amp;A event, because the footage that the White House posted then showed President Obama replying to one person, though as I have already submitted an OMB-FOIA request, I would like to read that all the videos recordings from the Obama White House would become public in 2022. The date we are to expect the release of the video recording is 2022.</td>
