Colleagues,

We are requesting comments on a draft of an upcoming NARA Bulletin that creates a new approach to managing email. NARA bulletins are designed to provide fundamental guidance to Federal agencies who must then determine the most appropriate ways to incorporate the guidance into their work.

This draft Bulletin will provide Federal agencies with guidance about the “Capstone” approach to managing email. It will allow agencies to declare a certain subset of email accounts as permanent and other accounts as temporary. It will allow agencies to manage these accounts instead of managing individual email messages. The Bulletin will identify the considerations for this new approach.

Please make your comments about the draft Bulletin and any suggestions by June 14, 2013. This draft is also being sent to the Senior Agency Officials (SAOs). We will review all the comments we receive. Please use the attached Draft Review Form for your comments.

Denise, Don, Lisa, and Meredith:
Below is a message I received from Peggy Grafeld this evening. She and I also just had about a 60 minute conversation about Capstone and several other major records and information security management issues that are confronting the State Department. I believe Lisa and Meredith are familiar with all of the issues (and thanks to you both for keeping me apprised of their different challenges!).

Because of State's other records management issues, and actually how Capstone impacts or may impact (if implemented at State) these same issues (the Benghazi document production for Congressional oversight committees (b) (5) ), State is going to need much more time to review the policy, and get internal clearance on their comments, before they can get back to us.

After some back and forth (Peggy thought Capstone would be vetted by the end of the summer; I told her that was too long for us to wait for her comments), we agreed that we would complete our analysis of comments, make revisions, etc., and then I would get back with her on where our thinking and implementation is sometime during the week of July 9th.

If I hear anything more about this while I am away, I'll let you know.

Lisa and Meredith - please let Don know if you hear anything from Tashia or anyone else at State about what is going on with Capstone from their perspective. No need to initiate any follow up-- just report back what you hear from Tashia and the others over there.

Thanks - Paul

Paul,

It's been a while since we've gotten together on matters of mutual interest (b) (6)
(b) (6) I hope all is well with you, both at work and at home.

Challenging times for us all!

On behalf of our SAO Under Secretary Kennedy, I wanted to reassure you that the State Department takes the proposed Capstone initiative very seriously and, with that in mind, would like to have an opportunity to give the same fulsome analysis and vetting that NARA did over the course of the months prior to its dissemination for comment. Senior State leaders representing the cross cutting areas of interest and responsibility (including the CIO, records management, the Secretariat, management policy, and the Legal Adviser) are engaged in working through significant issues associated with the proposed Capstone approach. Due to the complexity of the issues associated with its implementation and the significant long term ramifications, I'm sure you can appreciate from your experience in the background effort at NARA that we need additional time for substantive vetting in order to provide a comprehensive response and way forward for the Department that satisfies all the equities and requirements. Additionally, many of us, as well as our senior decision makers, are dealing with the press of other urgent business and must juggle our priorities as we work through our vetting process.

In the interim, we would appreciate your sharing the feedback from other agencies and any revisions to the Capstone approach that you may be considering.

Please don’t hesitate to contact me should you want to discuss this or any records issues.

With best regards,

Peggy

Angela and Paul,
CIA does not have any substantive comments on the draft bulletin, other than we welcome NARA's recognition of this additional approach for managing email and look forward to incorporating this guidance into our email management strategy.
