There is no digital substitute for the experience of holding an authentic historical record. While on-site, learn from professionals how to search records and discover your own connections to our nation's past.

- We sponsor programs that educate the public about archives, history, genealogy, and related subjects.
- We partner with colleges and universities, historical and genealogical societies, veterans organizations, museums, and other archives.
- We host student interns, school groups, educators, and others who want to learn more about archives.
- We recruit and train volunteers, docents, and interns who want to learn more about history while helping researchers.

Access is free—to documents, displays, online genealogy subscription services, workshops, events, and more.

At the National Archives you can…

Look for Your Family History

At our Montgomery Plaza location, we can assist as you search for information about your family. We have access to the Federal population censuses for all states, 1790–1940; censuses of the Five Civilized Tribes—Choctaw, Cherokee, Chickasaw, Seminole, and Creek; selected military service indexes; pension indexes; passenger arrival lists; and naturalization records. Free computer access is available for researchers wanting to view Ancestry, Heritage Quest, or Fold3 for family history.

Consult Our Expert Staff

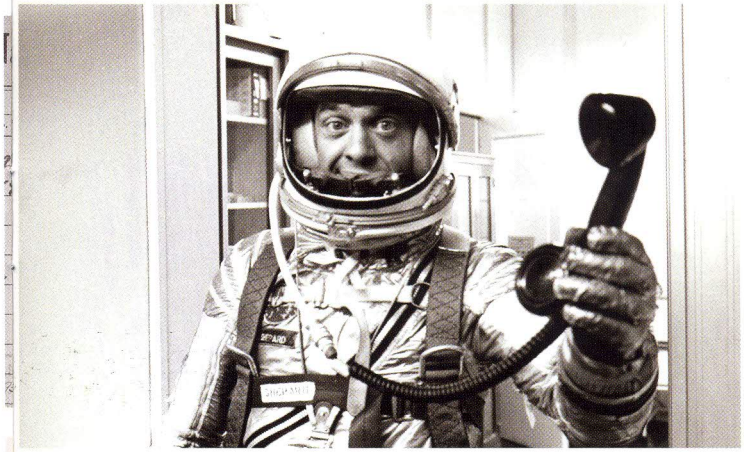
We are here to help you with your research and we encourage you to ask questions. Our staff is here to guide you throughout your exploration. If you do not find the needle in the haystack you are seeking, hopefully you will find something unexpected, unique, or fascinating.

For questions, please contact our staff at Montgomery Plaza at 817-831-5620.

National Archives and Records Administration

Anyone who has cleaned out a family attic knows the importance of keeping family records. You may have military records from relatives who served in one of the World Wars—or even the Civil War. You might also have photographs of your great-great grandparents on the day they became American citizens. Now imagine the task of the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA)—record keepers for all historically valuable records created by agencies of the Federal Government.

From one building on Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington, DC, the National Archives has grown to multiple archival locations nationwide, from sea to shining sea.



Make an Appointment to Use Original Records

Our staff is here and ready to assist you. Please call 817-551-2051 to make an appointment before visiting. Since research is sometimes time-consuming, you may need to visit more than once!

Please bring identification such as a driver's license, passport, or student ID so that we can issue you a researcher card.

Please plan on leaving your personal belongings in a locker. Laptop computers are permitted.

Get Copies of Records

At our John Burgess location, our staff will make or arrange for the duplication of records and provide certified copies for a fee.

Self-service copying of originals records may be allowed depending on the condition of the records.
