Resolved that the following Articles be proposed to the legislatures of the several States, as the basis, or new structure of the federal government: viz.

ARTICLES

In addition to, and amendment of, the Constitution of the United States, the said Articles shall be proposed by Congress, and, if approved, by the legislatures of three-quarters of the States, to be valid to all intents and purposes as part of the said Constitution, viz.

Article the first. No law shall be enacted respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press. No law shall be passed erecting religious or other establishments into a national religion.

Article the second. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of contracts, or to give preferential treatment to any sect or denomination.

Article the third. No law shall be passed suppressing the free expression of opinion, or prohibiting the free assembly of citizens.

Article the fourth. No law shall be passed to remove a person from his native country, or to deprive him of property without due process of law.

Article the fifth. No law shall be passed to deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law.

Article the sixth. No law shall be passed to punish any person for any act or omission prior to the passage of such law.

Article the seventh. No law shall be passed to deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law.

Article the eighth. No law shall be passed to deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law.

Article the ninth. No law shall be passed to deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law.

Article the tenth. Congress shall not pass any law or any tax or duty which may impair the public credit of the United States, or any tax or duty which may be imposed on any article imported into the United States, or any tax or duty which may be imposed on any article exported from the United States, or any tax or duty which may be imposed on any article produced in the United States, or any tax or duty which may be imposed on any article produced in the United States.

Article the eleventh. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the twelfth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the thirteenth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the fourteenth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the fifteenth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the sixteenth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the seventeenth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the eighteenth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the nineteenth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the twentieth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the twenty-first. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the twenty-second. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the twenty-third. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the twenty-fourth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the twenty-fifth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the twenty-sixth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the twenty-seventh. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the twenty-eighth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the twenty-ninth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.

Article the thirtieth. No law shall be passed to impair the obligation of any debt, or to prevent the collection of any debt, or to destroy the property or the liberty of any person.