

“History Talks” - DOE and NARA sponsored evening author programs

As part of a special program hosted by the New York City Department of Education and the National Archives at New York City, educators are invited to attend a book signing and presentation by select authors as part of the “History Talks!” learning series.

Talks take place at various dates. Please check the NYC DOE website for these programs at:
<http://schools.nyc.gov/Teachers/Resources/Other/ProfessionalDevelopment/AllSchools/default.htm>

The list of speakers currently includes:

- Carol Berkin: Revolutionary Mothers
- Cindy Lobel: Urban Appetites
- Tanya Bolden: Maritcha: A Nineteenth-Century American Girl
- Ed O'Donnell: Ship Ablaze: The Tragedy of the Steamboat General Slocum
- Michael Adas: Dominance by Design: Technological Imperatives and America's Civilizing Mission
- Terry Golway: Machine Made: Tammany Hall and the Creation of Modern American Politics
- Annette Gordon-Reed: The Hemingses of Monticello: An American Family

About the New York City Department of Education

The New York City Department of Education (DOE) is the largest school district in the US, serving 1.1 million students in over 1,800 schools.

About the National Archives at New York City

The National Archives at New York City maintains the historically significant records of Federal agencies and courts in New Jersey, New York, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands, dating from 1685 to the present. It also holds select microfilm publications of the National Archives and provides access to a variety of online historical resources. Since 2012, NARA NYC has been headquartered at the historic, 107 year old Alexander Hamilton U.S. Custom House, which is a designated National Historic Landmark and also listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

For more information about the National Archives at New York City, visit: www.archives.gov/nyc