and such case material was retained along with general cases for seven years, as authorized by records schedule N1-95-10-2, Item 33. Recently, the Agency has determined that there is a benefit to retaining this information. We will review our current holdings of closed case files to determine if any meet the criteria for significant cases. If any found, they will be designated for permanent retention and the approved retention instructions will be applied. This may include some very old case files that were retained for reference purposes.

How frequently will your agency transfer these records to the National Archives?

Unknown
The Agency cannot anticipate the frequency of significant court cases, therefore we are unable to estimate the frequency of transfer to National Archives.
