	Records under 1340 were generally approved under schedule NNI66-136 (March 14, 1966) This schedule revises the retention period for patent case files and establishes a general correspondence file service-wide. Case files are created from information from Forest Service employees who seek to have their inventions patented. The Office of the General Counsel through the Department of Agriculture is primarily responsible for application approval, filing and prosecuting patent applications. They maintain the USDA official case files for 17 years. The Forest Service retains duplicate case files. The final outcome of a patent application is (1) Patent issued (2) Case abandoned or (3) Inventor-ownership determination. The patent process may take 2-3 years.
