1.	Engineering drawings relating to buildings located in Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming. The drawings date from 1929 to 1972 and total approximately five cubic feet in volume. They have been appraised (NN-373-46) as lacking in archival value; however, they do have long-term administrative value for managing the buildings to which they relate. For reasons of convenience, these drawings have been microfilmed, and the microfilm is now in use in the Western Regional Office. However, because of the size and age of some of the drawings, the microfilm copy may not always be an adequate substitute for the originals. Consequently, the destruction of the original drawings cannot be authorized at this time. DISPOSITION: Transfer to the Washington National Records Center. Hold there for 5 years. At the end of that period review for disposal.
