Records are organized into two groups. The first group is records from FY 1983 through FY 1993, during the period when the AJPO was administratively a part of DDR&E. These records document the actions of the AJPO during the period when the Ada 83 language was being promoted for use in DoD programming. The second group is records from FY 1993 through FY 1998, during the period when the AJPO was administratively a part of DISA. These records document the actions of the AJPO when the Ada 95 international standard was completed, and when efforts to commercialize Ada technology were being actively pursued.
