SUPPLY CONTROL AND QUANTITATIVE MATERIEL REQUIREMENTS FILES. (RETAIN -- PENDING APPROVAL OF DISPOSITION STANDARDS BY NATIONAL ARCHIVES AND RECORDS ADMINISTRATION)

1. The files described in this category relate to the function of supply control which consists of computing the quantitative requirements for major items, secondary items, and repair parts; directing the accomplishment of procurement, cataloging, rebuilding, and disposal of items; determining optimum inventory levels and economic reorder points; and taking other action pertaining to the management of items. Quantitative requirements for major items are determined primarily by the strategic and tactical military outlook as set forth in military planning documents.

2. Quantitative requirements for Secondary items and repair parts (usually in the form of supply control studies) are determined primarily by anticipated consumption rates and replacement factors. Strategic and tactical military requirements are considered in these computations. Secondary items and repair parts, although purchased by the stock fund, are nevertheless budgeted for by command operating budgets of, and financed by that portion of the O&M appropriation allocated or allotted by the consuming command.

NOTE: Pertinent data directly relating to each item of materiel and supply are assembled in a single folder, or in several folders when the volume or procedures necessitate use of more than a single folder. Folders are filed by item number or alphabetically by nomenclature. Procedures require that each item will be studied at intervals and each document is normally reviewed at this time.
