1	MANAGEMENT ENGINEERING RECORDS (25-1) (Applicable Air Force-Wide) The management engineering table 25-1 has been revised in its entirety to provide disposition instructions for all documentation series heretofore not previously addressed. The Air Force management engineering program (MEP) is responsible for providing management advisory service at base and command level, and Air Force-wide. Air Force commanders use this service to carry out the command mission efficiently. As a basic part of the Air Force manpower and organization function, the MEP contributes to the primary objectives of the DOD Productivity Program: that of achieving the optimum growth of productivity. Through the use of the management engineering discipline, the MEP determines manpower requirements for functional activities. The retention periods will adequately serve all Air Force requirements.
