See attached table 125-1, rules 36 and 36.1 which modifies the disposition instructions for rule 36, column D.

Experience has proven the importance of retaining initial activity inspection reports. These reports provide an essential reference for comparing follow-up and annual inspections. They are equally essential in tracking activity progression and should be retained throughout the activity's life cycle. It also adds a new rule 36.1 to provide disposition instructions for copies maintained by inspected activities. These instructions will adequately serve all Air Force requirements.
