Background Information The Airborne and Special Operations Test Directorate Network (ABNSOTDNET) is used to provide services to the assigned personnel with authorized access. All the workstations are imaged with the Army Gold Master 8. The network consists of approximately 125 users, 256 workstation, 35 network printers, 12 resource servers, 21 switches, a VPN concentrator and proxy server. The local configuration management is handled by the Computer Support Center. The network is protected with a firewall and monitored with a Network Intrusion Detection System.

The Airborne and Special Operations Test Directorate Network is supported by the U.S. Army Operations Test Command and the U.S. Army Test and Evaluation Command. The system is also used to process and communicate reports of operational testing including research development, force development and test evaluations.
