Background Information

The Depot Execution System (DEXS) automates the maintenance process for Army helicopters and provides an online database of work instructions that users can access with a hand held wireless device. The system allows users to capture data via wireless bar-code devices, print customized work instruction, and use web-based forms to input management reports. This system is used at Corpus Christi Army Depot (CCAD), which is industry leader of repairs for Army helicopters, engines and components in Aviation. The inclusive dates for this system are from 2000 to present. Source input data is approved for disposition under RN 25-1kkk and includes maintenance data, critical safety items, and serial numbers. System outputs are covered under RN 25-1mm and include record layouts, specifications, and code books. The proponent for this system is the Deputy Chief of Staff, G-4. Maintenance of Army equipment business function is articulated in AR 700-18, Provisioning of U.S. Army Equipment. The record number (RN) for this system is 700-18b, it is covered under ACRS 700A/0-6
