| | BACKGROUND: TAMIS is the Army's single automated system for determining training ammunition requirements for inclusion in POM and 5 year defense budget; for distributing annual authorizations to MACOM and firing units; and to control the expenditure of ammunition consumed in training. Centralized databases are stored on a commercial computer with dial-up access by 400 Armywide users. Vendor proprietary software supports database accessing. Army-owned COBOL programs are used to produce the account balance report. Required elements for scheduling automated information systems are on the attached sheet. Further information on the system can be obtained from Mr. Ralph Sterns, DAMO-TRS, (804)734-2982. | | | | | | |
