In 1975, the final act of the Helsinki Accords obligated all signatories, which included the United States, to "encourage the study of foreign languages and civilizations...". In response, the U.S. Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe adopted a resolution that the President of the United States appoint a commission to make recommendations on how to strengthen and improve language and area studies in the United States. On April 21, 1978, President Carter signed the Commission into existence, assigning its responsibility to the Commissioner of Education in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The Commission was made up of twenty-five members comprising representatives from the Federal government, Congress, academia, trade unions, business, and the media. The Commission met for over a year and published its final report in November of 1979. The Commission was terminated approximately one month later.
