Center for Environmental Health and Injury Control (CEHIC)

Plans, directs and coordinates a national program to maintain and improve the health of the American people by promoting a healthy environment and by preventing premature death and avoidable illness and disability caused by non-infectious, non-occupational environmental and related factors.

Agent Orange Project

(1) Designs, implements, and conducts epidemiologic studies of the health status of American Vietnam veterans exposed to herbicides, chemicals, medications, and environmental hazards or conditions; (2) develops study protocols, including interviewing instruments, and clinical laboratory, and interviewing procedures for research participants; (3) establishes procedures for and maintains a continuing review and monitoring of research efforts; (4) develops data collection systems, including data analyses and interpretation schema and methods, and formats for reporting findings; and (5) analyzes data and prepares reports of study findings. This project will end on September 30, 1990.

1. ROUTINE DATA COLLECTION ADMINISTRATIVE RECORDS--routine administrative records related to the minor aspects of data gathering. The records include such items as error correction sheets, miscellaneous forms, routine status reports, miscellaneous duplicate material, practice questionnaire forms and a variety of other routine records.

2. SCIENTIFIC ADMINISTRATIVE FILES (c. 1983-90)--Records relating to Congressional inquiries, audits and other activities regarding various research efforts. Included are status reports listing the reasons for exclusion of certain men from the study, computer printouts, and general correspondence files. Because of continued strong Congressional, legal, public and press interest in these studies, we are recommending a lengthy retention period for the records.

Destroy when thirty (30) years old.~~ *DISPOSITION NOT AUTHORIZED. RESUBMIT IN 2012 OR AFTER COMPLETION OF LITIGATION, WHICHEVER IS LATER. **

3. STUDY METHODOLOGY RECORDS (c. 1983-90)--These records include study protocols, the supervisor's manual, the interviewer's manual, one copy of blank forms used for the studies, copies of the contracts with each of the 13 contracting agencies and related documentation.

4. DATA COLLECTION FORMS (c. 1983-1990)--Original forms and microfiche of forms containing original information on participants in the various studies on Vietnam veterans (These forms include information derived from pathology review panels, tumor registries, patient interviews, birth records and other sources.) These forms comprise the primary source data which are the basis for all statistical research projects on the effects of Vietnam service conducted by CDC. The records include such items as substantive status reports, completed questionnaires, pathology review forms, clinical information forms, substantive edit sheets, validation reports, and related records. Many of these records were used as the primary input source for the records identified in item 5, Electronic Records. Because of the importance of these studies and the fact that this research is likely to be reviewed in the future for accuracy and scientific approach and methodology, it is required that these original source records be maintained for a substantial period of time.

7. PARTICIPANT MEDICAL FILES (c. 1983-90)--This item supersedes disposal authority of certain accessions in the Atlanta Federal Records Center placed under item 70 of the CDC Records Control Schedule (see note below). Consists of personal medical records of participants in the various Agent Orange studies and certain related records. The records consist of X-rays, medical charts, hospital records, and other miscellaneous records relating to the medical history and status of study participants. Many of these records were used as the primary input source for the records identified in item 5a, electronic records, final data sets. These records contain sensitive medical data on individual study participants and their families. The records will continue to be the subject of interest among the Vietnam veterans who participated in the various studies for many years to come. The retention period of these records needs to be increased from 20 to 60 years because of their long term legal value in protecting the interests of the U.S. Government and the participants in the study.
