Background Information Certificates of Confidentiality (CoCs) are authorizations issued by the National Institutes of Health (NIH) that helps researchers and their institutions safeguard the privacy of research participants enrolled in sensitive biomedical and behavioral research by protecting against compulsory legal demands, such as subpoenas for identifying information. Certificates of Confidentiality are issued for research that is funded by NIH, or at its discretion, for sensitive research that is related to the NIH health research mission. Research institutions can use a COC to avoid forced disclosure of names and other identifying characteristics about research participants.

Records relating to CoCs include:

- Correspondence;
- Applications and Certificates of Confidentiality issued for Intramural Research;
- Applications and Certificates of Confidentiality issued for Extramural Research; and,
- Applications and denied Certificates of Confidentiality responses.
