Background Information TSA established the Environmental Management Program within the Occupational Safety, Health, and Environment (OSHE) Division. Since then the Environment and Energy Branch has taken a proactive approach to assessing the environmental risk associated with TSA activities. To ensure environmental stewardship was integrated into TSA's mission and activities, the OSHE Division developed and implemented the Environmental Management System (EMS) to satisfy regulatory requirements, ensure environmental responsibilities are carried out, and to minimize the potential for environmental incidents. Supporting Authorities: Executive Order 13423, Strengthening Federal Environmental, Energy, and Economic Performance; and Executive Order 13514, Federal Leadership in Environmental, Energy and Economic Performance.
