Background Information

The Senior Federal Air Marshal (FAM) Program is intended to recognize FAMs who are leaders in the workplace, have a broad knowledge of Office of Law Enforcement/ Federal Air Marshal Service (OLE/FAMS) operations, and demonstrate an outstanding work ethic in flying missions. The Senior FAM Program provides qualified I band FAMs opportunities to be recognized for their service and accomplishments. Senior FAMs are further recognized as “role models” and may be called on to serve in a variety of capacities such as mentors with the FAM Field Training Program, serving in Field Office Focus Groups, where possible; and/or other positions of responsibility.

Candidates seeking to become Senior FAMs are selected by a Senior FAM Panel. The panel is responsible for assessing written responses submitted by Senior FAM candidates and conducting an in-person interview with each applicant. The Supervisory Air Marshal in Charge (SAC) of each OLE/FAMS Field Office then determines those candidates who are accepted into the Program.
