Alternatives to Detention Program (ATDP)

The purpose of the Alternatives to Detention Program (ATDP) system is to meet the information requirements of personnel in the U.S Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE), Detention and Removal Operations (DRO) headquarters and regional offices related to alternatives to detention. ATDP automates many of the clerical control functions associated with the arrest, detention, and deportation of illegal aliens. The ATDP system serves the operational and management needs of Detention and Removal personnel in district and regional offices, service processing centers, and headquarters. The system provides management information concerning the status and/or disposition of individual cases, as well as statistical and summary data of cases by type, status, location, and other attributes.

The system serves as a centralized repository designed to enroll, track, and refer cases to the various alternatives to detention programs offered nationwide by DRO.

ATDP obtains all of its information from the Enhanced Supervision/Reporting (ESR) program, which requires DRO field officers to collect information to enroll alien participants into the program (ATDP).

ATDP also obtains information from the Intensive Supervision Appearance Program (ISAP). ISAP monitors illegal adult immigrants who are pending court or removal proceedings, and would otherwise be held in a secure facility.

The system also generates a variety of information to include post order supervision, asylum seekers, and notices to terminate participation and reasons for doing so. The system will analyze of a wide variety of participants and determine how well various programs are working to ensure that participants appear at immigration court and comply with court orders.

Additionally, ATDP is used to generate ad-hoc reports.
