Background Information The Office of Professional Responsibility (OPR) was created by Attorney General Edward H. Levi in 1975 in response to revelations of ethical abuses and misconduct by Department of Justice (DOJ) officials in the Watergate scandal. Pursuant to 28 C.F.R. § 0.39a, OPR reports directly to the Attorney General and Deputy Attorney General. Under Attorney General Order No. 1931-94, OPR has jurisdiction to investigate allegations of professional misconduct by DOJ attorneys that relate to the exercise of their authority to investigate, litigate, or provide legal advice. In addition, OPR has jurisdiction to investigate allegations of misconduct by law enforcement personnel that are related to allegations of professional misconduct by attorneys within the jurisdiction of OPR. OPR also investigates other matters when requested by the Attorney General or Deputy Attorney General. OPR's mission necessarily requires it to report its findings to other DOJ components, to other governmental departments and agencies, or to Congress. OPR also responds to Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) and Privacy Act requests. OPR creates and maintains files comprised of matters within and outside of OPR's jurisdiction. This schedule addresses files created for inquiries and investigations into complaints within OPR's jurisdiction; intake/correspondence; congressional correspondence; whistleblower matters; non-Department state bar and judicial referrals; referrals of matters outside of OPR's jurisdiction; and OPR Deputy Counsel Records. OPR matters are tracked by an electronic database tracking system (LawManager) and all relevant tracking data will be included with the retention of the related files.

Records Schedule Items

Sequence Number
1	Inquiry, Investigation, and Intake Matters OPR conducts inquiries or investigations of misconduct allegations, which are typically handled by line attorneys (Assistant Counsel), and the resolution of which is determined by Supervisory and Executive Management (Counsel, Deputy Counsel, and Associate Counsel). These matters originate from various sources, including self-reports, component complaints, criticism by the court and other litigation participants, congressional complaints, citizen complaints, and matters referred by the Attorney General or Deputy Attorney General. Inquiry and investigation files may contain the original complaint, notes and evaluations made by inquiring or investigating attorneys, documents collected during the course of the inquiry or investigation, including copies of emails and other electronically-created documents, draft reports circulated for comment, comments that are submitted to OPR about draft reports, and final reports. All OPR matter files are identified by a separate OPR number beginning with the fiscal year in which a file is opened. Depending on the nature of the inquiry or investigation, a file may be pending for several years, and OPR's reporting responsibility may require access to files and disposition information long after final resolution of the matter. Congressional Correspondence: OPR receives correspondence from Congress in which misconduct allegations are raised involving DOJ attorneys or law enforcement personnel working under the direction and guidance of DOJ attorneys. This correspondence is reviewed and, in the discretion of management, sometimes results in the opening of an inquiry or investigation, or the matter is disposed of summarily. For records management purposes, inquiry, investigation and intake/correspondence files are classified and maintained as follows:

Summarily Disposed (Intake/Correspondence)

Disposition Authority Number DAA-0060-2011-0027-0003

The majority of matters received are initiated as intake or correspondence and may never reach an inquiry or investigation stage. Intake or correspondence matters may be resolved by summary disposition because the allegations fall within the exclusive province of DOJ component management to resolve and do not involve professional misconduct issues. Matters involving allegations which do not fall within OPR's jurisdiction are referred to other components. Matters opened as inquiries often are closed after a more summary legal review, rather than after a full investigation. Less frequently, matters opened as investigations have been resolved after summary legal review. These instances are considered "summarily disposed."

Whistleblower Matters

28 C.F.R., Part 27.1 provides the regulatory framework for "Whistleblowers," namely employees of, or applicants for employment with, the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), who report a possible violation of law, rule, or regulation; or report mismanagement, a gross waste of funds, an abuse of authority, or a substantial and specific danger to public health or safety. After the FBI receives a qualifying Whistleblower complaint, OPR and the DOJ Office of Inspector General (OIG) share investigative jurisdiction over any allegation of reprisal made by the employee or applicant resulting from the Whistleblower complaint. Upon receipt of a Whistleblower's complaint of reprisal, OPR and OIG determine which office will conduct an investigation into the alleged retaliation. If OPR conducts the investigation, an investigative file is created, and OPR becomes the Conducting Office. If the reprisal complaint appears to have merit, OPR reports its conclusions to the Director, Office of Attorney Recruitment and Management (OARM). Pursuant to 28 C.F.R. § 27.4 (c), however, a complainant may submit a complaint to the Director of OARM within 60 calendar days of receipt of notification from OPR of the termination of an investigation, or at any time after 120 calendar days from the date a complaint is filed with any designated Conducting Office of an alleged reprisal, if the complainant has not been notified by OPR that corrective action is recommended.

OPR serves as the DOJ liaison with state bar disciplinary organizations on professional misconduct matters. In connection with this authority, the Department has directed OPR to coordinate the Department's response when one of its employees believes that a non-Department lawyer or a judge may have engaged in conduct that should be reported to the appropriate bar or judicial authority. OPR reviews all "proposals from Department employees to refer to appropriate licensing authorities apparent professional misconduct by attorneys outside the Department, and make such referrals where warranted." 28 C.F.R. § 0.30a (a)(9). In addition, any Department referral of a judge to the appropriate authorities must be authorized by the Associate Deputy Associate General.
