1.	The Office of Professional Responsibility (OPR) was created by Attorney General Edward H. Levi in 1975 in response to revelations of ethical abuses and misconduct by Department of Justice (DOJ) officials in the Watergate scandal. Pursuant to 28 C.F.R. §0.39a, OPR reports directly to the Attorney General and Deputy Attorney General. Under Attorney General Order No. 1931-94, OPR has jurisdiction to investigate allegations of misconduct by DOJ attorneys that relate to the exercise of their authority to investigation, litigate or provide legal advice. In addition, OPR has jurisdiction to investigate allegations of misconduct by law enforcement personnel when they are related to allegations of misconduct by attorneys within the jurisdiction of OPR. OPR also investigates other matters when requested by the Attorney General or Deputy Attorney General. Investigative Files (Casetrak). OPR creates and maintains a file for each allegation of misconduct which is investigated by OPR attorneys. Casetrak files include the original complaint, the investigating attorney's notes and evaluation, and any reports developed or documents collected during the course of the investigation. These files frequently contain material which is subject to the grand jury secrecy requirements of Rule 6(e) of	NC1-60-77-6

	the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure; information obtained from confidential informants; and other material obtained under pledge of confidentiality. Some files contain classified information. A record is also made as to the disposition of the matter. The records are identified by number within each fiscal year. Depending on the nature of the investigation and the action taken by the DOJ based on OPR's conclusions, an investigation may remain open for more than one year, and the file may remain active for several years thereafter. The file may also contain, when applicable, printed copies of email and word processing documents described in Item 4. A. Investigative files that meet any of the following criteria: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - The case is regarded as significant in terms of its legal impact on statutes, rules or regulations, or law enforcement policies. - The case is regarded as significant in terms of public interest, expressed by (a) demonstrated interest of a congressional committee or the Executive Office of the President, or (b) a high degree of national media attention. Disposition. Permanent. Transfer to the Washington National Records Center (WNRC) five (5) years after the investigation is closed and all activity on the matter has ceased. Transfer to NARA thirty (30) years after investigation is closed and all activity on the matter has ceased. B. Investigative files that do not meet the permanent criteria in Item 1A. Disposition. Temporary. Transfer to the WNRC five (5) years after the investigation is closed and all activity on the matter has ceased.
