Background Information Time series indexes, annually from 1970 – 1973, and quarterly from March 1974 to January 1990 are maintained to providing international price comparisons for comparable categories of products exported from Germany, Japan, and the United States

These indexes are based on (1) the official export price indexes for Germany and Japan, (2) specially constructed U S export price indexes of U S export products that are comparable to those of Germany and Japan, and (3) dollar per Deutsche mark and dollar per Yen exchange rates

The data, while on a quarterly basis, are updated at irregular intervals Separate comparisons are made for U S and German products, and U S Japanese products At the time of this writing, comparisons were presented covering some seventy-one manufactured products

At about four of five year intervals, the German and Japanese export price indexes are revised to reflect a more current base year, and other revisions are also made by those countries, which require revisions to these series comparisons
