U.S. Department of Labor
Employment and Training Administration
Office of Foreign Labor Certification
Employment-Based Immigration – Foreign Labor Certification Records in the OFLC National Office and its National Processing Centers

Background:

Employment of foreign workers in the United States (U S) is governed by the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA) The process of hiring foreign workers normally requires approval from several government agencies Under the INA, the Secretary of Labor has certain responsibilities with respect to the admission of foreign workers into the U S in order to perform certain work activities authorized by INA On behalf of the Secretary of Labor, the Office of Foreign Labor Certification (OFLC), an office under the Employment & Training Administration (ETA) provides national leadership and policy guidance and administers the labor certification programs

In most instances where a U S employer seeks to hire foreign workers it must first obtain a labor certification from OFLC before filing a petition with the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), United States Citizenship and Immigration Service (USCIS) The labor certification fulfills the Secretary's statutory responsibility to certify that qualified U S workers are not available for the job opportunity offered to the foreign worker, and that the foreign worker's employment will not adversely affect the wages and working conditions of similarly employed U S workers

OFLC fulfills the following specific objectives on an ongoing basis

- Processing labor certification applications for employers seeking to bring foreign workers into the United States on a permanent or temporary basis
- Processing Prevailing Wage Determination requests that are reviewed to inform employer's of the prevailing wage for occupations being advertised in the area of intended employment
- Responding to Congressional and Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) correspondence regarding such applications
- Maintaining paper and electronic records of applications, data, correspondence, and other material
- Providing information to the public, including aggregate data, through its website

While the National Office of OFLC is located in Washington D C , it is supported by three National Processing Centers (NPCs) located in Atlanta, Georgia, Chicago, Illinois, and Washington, D C respectively, and the State Workforce Agencies (SWAs)

- The Atlanta NPC processes permanent labor certification applications filed since March 28, 2005 under the new, streamlined PERM program, which are submitted directly to the Atlanta NPC and electronically through the Department's PERM Case Management system, including applications for Professional Athletes
- The Chicago NPC processes temporary program applications filed under the H-2A agricultural labor certification program, H-2B nonagricultural labor certification programs, as well as Labor Condition Applications (LCA) including H-1B, H-1B1, and E-3 visa categories. The LCA applications are filed electronically through OFLC's iCert Portal System (<http://icert.doleta.gov/>)

- The National Prevailing Wage Center (NPWC) processes Prevailing Wage Determination Requests submitted directly to the NPWHC and electronically through OFLC's iCERT Portal System (<http://icert.doleta.gov/>). Federalized processing Prevailing Wage Determination Requests (PWD) became effective January 1, 2010 for the following programs: H-1B, H-1B1 (Chile/Singapore), H-1C (if reauthorized by Congress), H-2B, E-3 (Australia) programs, and the permanent labor certification program (PERM)
- The SWAs are responsible for certain aspects of the H-2A temporary agricultural program, which includes
 - Determination of prevailing wage or Adverse Wage Rate for H-2A agricultural program
 - Reviewing ETA Form 790, Agricultural and Food Processing Clearance Order, and
 - Conducting housing inspections
- The Certifying Officer makes the determination regarding the approval of foreign labor certifications

Note: The disposition instructions apply to records regardless of physical form or characteristics. Records may be maintained in any format or any medium. The records are media neutral unless otherwise noted herein
