SF-115 Continuation Pages
Bureau of Public Affairs
Department of State Public Website
(www.state.gov)

1. State Department Public Website (www.state.gov)

Description: The state.gov website is intended to inform the American public of international relations and the work of the U.S. Department of State. It is a collection of linked electronic pages and databases including video, audio, etc. The site is managed by the Office of Electronic Information, Bureau of Public Affairs, who receives data from department bureaus and appropriate agencies multiple times a day 24/7 for publication on the website. The website contains U.S. foreign policy and information about the Department per presidential administration.

Primary customers are the general public searching for information about foreign policy and the State Department as well as general information on foreign countries and travel/services information. Another influential external customer is the press who relies upon State.gov for daily press briefings and all other press releases and conveys critical news to the public. Internal customers include 60 bureaus/offices that depend on Public Affairs to review and edit content, develop websites/pages, and post content.

- a. Web content consists of State web pages that contain duplicate information maintained in other department recordkeeping systems.

Disposition: TEMPORARY. Delete these pages as they are superseded or are no longer needed for reference.

DispAuthNo: New item.

- b DipNote Blog Page. Contains information (textual, audio, video) intended to give the public a chance to become active participants in a community focused on world issues. It allows on-line questions and discussion, offers a behind the scene look at the Department, and an official forum for exchanging ideas. Department employees are also invited to tell their stories and share their experiences.

Disposition: PERMANENT. Cutoff and transfer to the National Archives at the end of each calendar year. Initial transfer in 2011 will include the 2010 postings and archived blog postings for 2007-2009. All subsequent yearly transfers will only include postings from the previous calendar year. Records to be transferred to NARA in accordance with the regulations relating to the transfer of electronic records and guidance for web records in effect at the time of transfer.

DispAuthNo: New item.

c. Archive File contains full copy of web content taken at the end of presidential administrations and captured/archived by PA/EI. These archives will remain as live, accessible websites for perpetuity, and can be accessed from the current sites. Covers the period 1989 to present.

Disposition: PERMANENT. Cutoff and retain snapshot of content at the end of each presidential administration. Transfer records to the National Archives upon completion of a four year administration or upon completion of an eight year administration if a president is reelected. Transfer is to be completed in accordance with NARA regulations and guidance on web records in effect at the time of transfer.

DispAuthNo: New item.

2. Website Management and Operations Records

Files consist of documents created or received in the development, design, implementation, operations, and maintenance of the State Public Website.

Disposition: TEMPORARY. Cut off at the end of the calendar year when superseded or obsolete. Destroy/delete 1 year after cutoff.

DispAuthNo: New item.
