4051. “Hudson Dogtrack” (Special Prosecutor) Files [Trust]. These files consist of Department of the Interior documents provided to Independent Counsel (Special Prosecutor) Carol Elder Bruce, who was tasked to investigate charges of corruption and perjury against Secretary of Interior Bruce Babbitt, in connection with a decision by the Department in 1995 to reject a request by three Indian tribes and a dog track owner to take land in Hudson, Wisconsin, into trust for the tribes in order to operate a casino on the site of an existing dog track. The investigation stemmed from allegations that Secretary Babbitt rejected the tribes’ request in exchange for campaign contributions, and that he lied to Congress about his role in the matter. The investigation into these charges was begun in February of 1998 and concluded in August of 2000, with a finding that there was insufficient evidence to initiate a prosecution of any parties involved in the controversy. Overall, the investigation involved interviews or grand jury testimony of more than 450 people and 630,000 pages of documents.

This special collection of records contains documents from files maintained by the Secretary’s Counselor/Advisor on Indian affairs. It contains 10 cubic feet of paper records (and associated electronic images of these records) used to compare the proposal for taking land into trust for the “Hudson DogTrack” with comparable proposals, both approved and not approved, for other Indian tribes.

These files are classed as Indian Fiduciary Trust (IFT) files.
