Check Reconciliation Branch

The Check Reconciliation Branch provides for and maintains the check accounting/processing facilities for all entities disbursing U.S. Treasury checks.

The key function of the branch is to provide for the ongoing operation of reconciliation activities stemming from this system. In addition, several general functions can be conceptualized as stemming from this responsibility. These are:

1. Reconciles and audits daily shipments of check payment data submitted from Federal Reserve Banks (FRBs) and provides correcting accounting entries to clear any differences arising from the reconciliation. In addition, the branch is responsible for the collection of all check adjustment funds due from the Federal Reserve System.
