OFFICE OF THRIFT SUPERVISION
CONSUMER COMPLAINT SYSTEM

ITEM DESCRIPTION OF ITEM

Under the Federal Trade Commission Act, the Office of Thrift Supervision, as successor to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, is required to have a Consumer Affairs program to resolve disputes between the consumer and the thrift institution. The Consumer Complaint database tracks the status of the complaint investigation and resolution, and is used to generate annual and ad hoc reports in response to Congressional and other inquiries. The information is also used to assess the institution's compliance with consumer protection laws and regulations. Most of the consumer complaints are filed with the regional offices and are scheduled on the Regional Records Retention schedule.

1. Consumer Complaint Tracking Database

This database tracks the status of consumer complaints from the date received through resolution. It contains data relating to the case number, complainant name, dates of processing, type of complaint and the disposition. It may contain supervisory information about the thrift and personal information regarding the complainant.
