1. Financial and Statistical Information Submitted by the Financial Institutions

In order to properly regulate the financial institutions in the Farm Credit System, FCA requires the institutions to submit information about their operations and financial condition. The formats used to request the information have varied through the years. Currently a Call Report is issued to the institutions which specifies the data and forms to be submitted. The major types of information requested by the Call Reports include a statement of condition, statement of earnings, statement of changes in net worth, statement of operating expenses, analysis of allowance for losses, report of accounts and notes receivable, report of accounts and notes payable, collateral position report, loan performance schedules, and uniform loan activity report and reconciliation schedules. Through the years, the data has been submitted on FCA forms, on computer printouts, or in electronic formats. Some of the older data is maintained only in hard copy; more recently, data has been inputted into the Consolidated Reporting System database. After receiving the information, FCA uses it to generate various reports such as the Report of Operations, various loan performance and activity reports, reports on collateral position, and interest rate reports.

The major records submitted by the financial institutions are described below. Prior to implementation of the Call Report format of reporting in June 1986, the various reports were filed as separate series. Beginning in June, 1986, the reports were interfiled in a Call Report folder arranged by calendar quarter. In March, 1988, the Uniform Call Report format was established. The Uniform Call Report consolidated the information required on most of the various reports into one single report.

The quarterly Uniform Call Report is described in item a below. Item b describes the Financial Position Schedule which is submitted monthly by System banks. This report was previously entitled "Addendum: Prospective Financial Information" and was one of the reports submitted by the institutions prior to the introduction of the Uniform Call Report.

The individual reports that were eventually incorporated into the Uniform Call Report are described both as separate series (see items c - g), as well as part of the interfiled Call Report file (item h). The description of the interfiled Call Report file is included to facilitate transfer of the older reports that were physically interfiled in this series to the Federal Records Center.

The present accumulation of the Uniform Call Report information is approximately 25 cubic feet per year.

Production Credit Corporation (FCA 325 F&R, obsolete), 1933-56

Originally scheduled under NARA job number NC1-103-77-1, item 39, which is superceded by this schedule. As the reports are not cumulative, the disposition of the reports for the different reporting periods should be uniform.

h. Interfiled Call Report Records

From June, 1986, until March, 1988, when the Uniform Call Report was established, the various reports required from the financial institutions were interfiled in a Call Report folder arranged by calendar period covered by the Call Report (generally a quarter although periodicity varied depending on the need for supervisory information). This series includes the records described in items c - g above and similar records such as the FICB/OFI Report (used to report loan participations with other financial institutions not in the Farm Credit System). Contents of the folder for any specific period will vary according to the exact forms and schedules requested from the financial institutions.

(1) Record copy - Destroy when 30 years old. Transfer to Federal Records Center when 3 years old.

(2) All other copies - Destroy when no longer needed for reference, normally not to exceed 5 years.

2. Consolidated Reporting System

This database contains much of the data submitted by the financial institutions in the reports described in item 1 above. (As of 1988 all schedules from the Uniform Call Report are input into the Consolidated Reporting System. However, some information collected in the older reports has not been inputted.) The database is used to manipulate the data and generate the reports described in item 3 below. It can also be used as an online reference system to identify institutions having certain characteristics. The database is updated whenever new call reports are submitted; all historical data that has been inputted as well as current information is retained. The input records (item 1) and the output records (item 3) contain all significant information in the database. Therefore, the database may be considered to duplicate the existing hard copy records.

Disposition: Schedule item withdrawn. Disposal not authorized.
