Judicial Review Commission on Foreign Asset Control

The Judicial Review Commission on Foreign Asset Control was created by an act of Congress, Pub. Law 106-120, codified at 21 U.S.C. § 1908. The Commission's mandate was to conduct a review of the current judicial, regulatory, and administrative authorities relating to the blocking of assets of foreign persons by the United States Government, and to conduct a detailed examination and evaluation of the remedies available to U.S. citizens affected by the blocking of assets of foreign persons. In fulfilling its statutory mandate, the Judicial Review Commission held four (4) days of public hearings, as well as receiving written statements from interested persons. The Commission also met with officials from government agencies responsible for implementing asset-blocking programs. Based on its review, examination and evaluation, the Commission was directed to, and did in fact, submit a report to those Congressional committees specified in its enabling statute. By law, the Commission terminates on February 3, 2001. By law, the Commission's records are not subject to FOIA.
