The National Commission on Intermodal Transportation
Attachment to 115-109

In 1991 the National Commission on Intermodal Transportation was created by Section 5005 of the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act. Appointed by the President and Congressional leadership, the Commission members were charged to make a complete investigation and study of intermodal transportation in the United States and internationally.

The Commission held meetings and public hearings around the country. Each was designed to hear the view of constituents, educators, administrators, and researchers. In addition, the Commission reviewed and analyzed existing documentation on transportation issues.

Through the release of our final report the Commission will make recommendations on how to determine the status of, and problems related to, intermodal transportation today. To identify the resources needed to enhance intermodal transportation, and to make recommendations on how to achieve an efficient intermodal transportation system. The Commission is focusing on passenger and freight traffic, public and private sectors, and all modes of transportation.
