Background Information              The mission of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) is to protect investors, maintain fair, orderly, and efficient markets, and facilitate capital formation. A primary means of accomplishing this mission is the disclosure of important company information through the registration of securities. Companies register securities with SEC under the Securities Act of 1933, Securities Exchange Act of 1934, and the Investment Company Act of 1940. The registrations provide essential facts and historical information, including:

- Description of the company's properties and business;
- Description of the security to be offered for sale;
- Information about the management of the company;
- Financial statements certified by independent accountants; and
- Background of the company's formation and various assets

The information contained in these statements is indefinitely valuable to protect the legal and financial rights of the investors, financial institutions, Governments, and other entities affected by the related activities. These registrations have long term legal and historical value; because, their information is often used decades later to investigate and litigate major securities fraud and scandals. This schedule covers related documents to 1933 Act and 1934 Act Registrations previously or currently identified by the suffix tertiaryes, -1; -3; -4, and; -5.
