The application file is part of a Grants Management System, and is used in the general administration of the grant review process, statistical research, congressional oversight and analysis of trends. Some data elements include: application year, application number, applicant name, project director, application program and category codes, amount requested, project start and end dates, and Council meeting number.

Each grant has a computerized file containing, but not limited to, the grantee, contact name and address, grant number, amount of money awarded, fiscal year, titles and types of final and supplemental reports, and whether any films or other graphic material was submitted. A 3-15 line abstract describes the scope and purpose of each grant and each grant is indexed by subject areas from a list of over 375 key words.

Temporary. DESTROY individual data elements when superseded or no longer required for program use.

123. AUTOMATED PANEL BANK SYSTEM FILE.
