The Japan-United States Friendship Commission was established as an independent federal agency by the U.S. Congress in 1975 (PL 94-118). The Commission administers a U.S. Government Trust Fund which originates from part of the Japanese Government repayments for U.S. facilities built on Okinawa and returned to Japan, and for post-war American assistance to Japan. Income from the Fund is available for the promotion of scholarly, cultural, and public affairs activities between Japan and the United States.

The Fund and the program are administered by a Commission of eighteen Americans representing the legislative and executive branches of the United States Government and the fields of scholarship, mass media, business, and the arts in the private sector. The Friendship Act provides that the Commission shall be composed of the twelve members of the United States Panel of the Joint Committee on United States-Japan Cultural and Educational Cooperation (CULCON), which includes one representative each from the Departments of State and Education, and the United States Information Agency; two Members of the House of Representatives appointed by the Speaker, and two Members of the Senate appointed by the President Pro Tempore; and the Chairmen of the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Through a series of Commission meetings and widespread consultations with American and Japanese authorities and institutions interested in similar objectives, the Commission has developed five operating areas which have become the bases for evaluating requests, making grant decisions, and stimulating new activities in both countries, in the interest of Japanese-American communication and cooperation.

Requests for grant support will be considered by the Commission under the five program areas of:
1. Japanese Studies (for Americans)
2. American Studies (for Japanese)
3. The Arts
4. Policy-Oriented Research
5. Public Affairs/Education

This schedule covers the program records of the Commission. Disposition of financial, personnel, and office administrative records is covered by the authority of the General Records Schedules.
