[Text] West Berlin--The conduct of the West Berlin police against the demonstrators caused at least 25 people to be injured during the visit of U.S. President Nixon to West Berlin; three of them had to be taken to the hospital. Thirty-nine of the demonstrators were arrested by the police. Investigating procedures are to be brought against 12 of them.

Most of the people were injured when the police started to hit some 1,000 demonstrators who had gathered in the technical university for a protest meeting after Nixon's convoy had passed. The police forced the demonstrators through closed glass doors and windows.
