FOREWORD

To analyze and describe the permanently valuable records of the Federal Government preserved in the National Archives Building is one of the main tasks of the National Archives. Various kinds of finding aids are needed to facilitate the use of these records, and the first step in the records-description program is the compilation of preliminary inventories of the material in the 260-odd record groups to which the holdings of the National Archives are allocated.

These inventories are called "preliminary" because they are provisional in character. They are prepared as soon as possible after the records are received without waiting to screen out all disposable material or to perfect the arrangement of the records. They are compiled primarily for internal use, both as finding aids to help the staff render efficient reference service and as a means of establishing administrative control over the records.

Each preliminary inventory contains an introduction that briefly states the history and functions of the agency that accumulated the records. The records themselves are described series by series, that is, by units of records of the same form or that deal with the same subject or activity or that are arranged serially. Other significant information about the records may sometimes be given in appendixes.

When the record group has been studied sufficiently and the records have been placed in final order, the preliminary inventories will be revised and the word "preliminary" dropped from the title of the revision. Meanwhile, as occasion demands and there is time for it, special reports, indexes, calendars, and other finding aids to the record group will be prepared.

Several finding aids that give an over-all picture of material in the National Archives have been published. A comprehensive Guide to the Records in the National Archives (1948) and a brief guide, Your Government's Records in the National Archives (revised 1950), have been issued. Forty Reference Information Circulars, which analyze records in the National Archives on such subjects as transportation, small business, and India, have so far been published. Records of World War I have been described in the Handbook of Federal World War Agencies and Their Records, 1917-1921, and those of World War II in the two-volume guide, Federal Records of World War II (1950-51). Many bodies of records of high research value have been edited by the National Archives and reproduced on microfilm as a form of publication. Positive prints of some 3,500 rolls of these microfilmed records, described in the List of File Microcopies of the National Archives (revised 1950), are now available for purchase.

NOTE

This preliminary inventory has been updated to reflect (1) the deletion of entries for records destroyed as not warranting continued preservation in the National Archives and (2) the inclusion of descriptions of series of records accessioned into the National Archives since preparation of the original preliminary inventory in 1951.

The position for one or more new entries is indicated by a note in the right margin at the point the entry belongs.

INTRODUCTION

During the period of World War II, from 1939 to 1945, the United States established a number of economic controls and carried on a number of foreign economic operations--the administration of export control, assistance in the relief and rehabilitation of liberated areas, the conduct of economic warfare activities, preclusive buying, the development and purchase of strategic materials abroad, and lend-lease assistance to Allied nations--that were designed to assist Allied nations and to deny to enemy nations various materials and manufactured products of the United States.

In the early part of the war, 1939-41, economic operations of the United States Government included the coordination of purchases of war materials in this country by foreign governments (mainly Great Britain), a function performed by the President's Liaison Committee from December 1939 to May 1941; and the licensing of materials for export from the United States, a function administered by the Office of the Administrator of Export Control (July 1940-July 1941) in cooperation with the Division of Controls of the Department of State.

As the war progressed and the economic controls and operations of the United States increased and became more complex, these earlier organizations were replaced by a succession of agencies. An Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations was created in the Department of State in December 1942 to carry on relief and rehabilitation work in occupied areas. Several Government corporations and parts of other agencies carrying on related economic activities and assisting with the foreign procurement, development, and preclusive buying operations, were transferred to the successors of the Office of the Administrator of Export Control.

Thus, the President's Liaison Committee was followed by a Division of Defense Aid Reports, created in March 1941 to administer the Lend-Lease Act (55 Stat. 31); and the latter in turn was replaced by the Office of Lend-Lease Administration in September 1941. The Office of the Administrator of Export Control and the Division of Controls (of the Department of State) were absorbed in 1941 by the Economic Defense Board, which was followed in succession by the Board of Economic Warfare (Sept. 1941-July 1943) and the Office of Economic Warfare (July 1943-Sept. 1943). Within the period October 1941-September 1943, the Board of Economic Operations and its successor, the Office of Foreign Economic Coordination in the Department of State, were active in coordinating activities of the Government relating to economic affairs in liberated areas and to foreign policy aspects of wartime economic controls and operations.

By an Executive order of September 25, 1943, the functions of all of the above agencies in existence at that time--the Office of Economic Warfare, the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, the Office of Foreign Economic Coordination, and the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations (the last two of which were in the Department of State) were transferred and consolidated into a single agency, the Foreign Economic Administration. They were administered by that agency until it was abolished by an Executive order of September 27, 1945.

Upon the termination of the Foreign Economic Administration, its remaining functions were divided among five other agencies. Its functions with respect to the administration of the Lend-Lease Act, to liberated and occupied territories, to economic and commercial research, and to participation by the United States in the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration were transferred to the Department of State. Its foreign procurement responsibilities (excepting those relating to food) and three of its subsidiary corporations were transferred to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The Export-Import Bank of Washington became an independent agency under provisions of an act of July 31, 1945 (59 Stat. 527). Functions pertaining to food, including those of the Foreign Economic Administration's Office of Foreign Food Programs, were transferred to the Department of Agriculture. The remaining functions not transferred elsewhere, including the control of exports, technical industrial intelligence, and the facilitation of trade, were transferred to the Department of Commerce.

The Executive order that terminated the Foreign Economic Administration provided that its records (and those of its predecessors) in the United States, which amounted to some 33,200 feet, should be distributed substantially as were its functions, with the Bureau of the Budget having responsibility for determining the details of the records segregation policy. A Bureau of the Budget directive of January 8, 1946, specifically allocated the non-current records of the several major units of the Administration within the United States to the agencies that had inherited, in general, their functions. At the same time this directive sought to provide for the maintenance of the integrity of complete bodies of records by requiring (1) that minor parts of a body of records segregated for transfer to one agency should "not be extracted for transfer to another agency notwithstanding the existence of some relationship as between such segments and a function transferred to another agency," and (2) that records containing "management and program data of historical or future research value shall not be interfiled or consolidated with other records of the receiving agency insofar as it is practicable to maintain them separately."

Guided by the principles set forth in this Bureau of the Budget directive, the Interagency Committee on Disposition of FEA Records allocated portions of the records of the Foreign Economic Administration to the Department of State, the Department of Commerce, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and the Department of Agriculture. In general, the character of the records and the quantities allocated to these agencies were as follows: The Department of State received 12,673 feet of records, relating mainly to the lend-lease program and to activities with respect to liberated and enemy countries; the Department of Commerce received 16,776 feet of records, pertaining chiefly to activities in connection with the administration of export control; the Reconstruction Finance Corporation received 3,210 feet of records, pertaining to foreign procurement and development programs and preclusive buying operations; and the Department of Agriculture received 539 feet of records, relating mainly to food programs.

An undetermined quantity of records outside the United States was transferred to the Department of State, with the exception of records pertaining to the functions of the United States Commercial Company and necessary to the proper conduct of its activities, which were transferred to that company.

The records described in this preliminary inventory belong to Record Group 169, Records of the Foreign Economic Administration. They amount to about 7,300 cubic feet. They were transferred to the National Archives from the Board of Economic Warfare, the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, the Foreign Economic Administration, the Department of Commerce, and the Department of State during the period 1942 to February 1951. The bulk of these were received from the Department of Commerce. The records include those of the Chairman and Executive Secretary of the President's Liaison Committee (1939-40); central files and a number of files of officials (including those of the Lend-Lease Administrator, the BEW Executive Director, and the FEA Administrator) of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, the Office of the Administrator of Export Control, the Economic Defense Board, the Board of Economic Warfare, the Foreign Economic Administration, and the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations (of the Department of State); extensive series of export licenses and related correspondence (1940-45), most of which are now in the Records Center in Alexandria; export reports and lend-lease reports (1941-45); records of the Historian of the Foreign Economic Administration; "History of Lend-Lease" and its extensive compilations of supporting documents (completed in the Department of State in 1947); and various other records of special types such as technical data licenses, economic warfare studies, committee minutes, and the like that were maintained by the above agencies.

The inventory has been organized as nearly as possible on an agency basis, and the records are therefore described as records of the constituent part of the organization that created them, except in cases where they were incorporated among the records of its successors. For each agency and major subdivision there is an introductory statement concerning its establishment, functions, and termination, which is intended to assist the user of the inventory in relating the records to the history and functions of the organization; and following each of these there is a general statement concerning the records inventoried, records transferred to successor agencies and described in other sections of the inventory, and records in the custody of agencies other than the National Archives. Descriptive entries for the series of records in the custody of the National Archives follow.

In the case of series of general correspondence and correspondence arranged chronologically, the descriptive statement in the series entry has been made very general. Whenever more detailed treatment has appeared to be merited, lists of folder headings intended to serve as subject-matter guides have been included in appendix I of this inventory. A list of historical monographs on the Administration prepared by the Records Analysis Division, with an outline of the most extensive one, "The Procurement and Development of Strategic and Critical Raw Materials," appears in appendix II.

Some of the records covered by this preliminary inventory are classified for reasons of general security and may be used only by persons who have been cleared for access to such materials.

This preliminary inventory was compiled by H. Stephen Helton with the assistance of Donald L. Goodwin, Leonard A. Rapport, Betty W. Wofford, and Ira Kellogg.

RECORDS OF THE FOREIGN ECONOMIC ADMINISTRATION

RECORDS OF THE PRESIDENT'S LIAISON COMMITTEE (1939-41)

Shortly after the outbreak of the war in Europe in September 1939, various foreign governments, notably those of Great Britain and France, placed with American industry cash orders for munitions of war. Need for coordination between the purchases of foreign governments and the United States Government soon developed. To provide a channel for such coordination the President created, on December 6, 1939, the President's Liaison Committee (also known as the Interdepartmental Committee for Coordination of Foreign and Domestic Military Purchases). The original Committee consisted of the Director of Procurement of the Treasury Department, the Quartermaster General of the Army, and the Paymaster General of the Navy. In June and July 1940 assistants to the Secretaries of the Treasury and War replaced the Director of Procurement and the Quartermaster General; and in July 1940 the Administrator of Export Control joined the Committee as a member without a vote. As the Treasury Department was directly concerned with the purchases being made by the British and other foreign groups, its administrative facilities were used by the Committee in performing its functions prior to the passage of the Lend-Lease Act of March 11, 1941.

Liaison with the foreign procurement missions involved on the part of the Committee (1) making available to them airplanes of modern design and other implements of war; (2) helping the missions place contracts with American suppliers at fair prices; and (3) aiding them whenever necessary in creating new facilities for the production of implements of war in the United States. The Committee also cooperated with several American defense committees concerned with the exportation or procurement of war supplies and established routine procedures for working with them. The most important of these procedures, the forerunner of the lend-lease requisition, was implemented by the "Preliminary Negotiations Reports" (PNR), by means of which a foreign war order was referred for approval to the appropriate defense agencies of the Government in order to determine whether it was in conflict with the American defense procurement program.

After the passage and approval of the first Lend-Lease Act of March 11, 1941, the administrative staff in the Treasury Department that provided services for the Committee continued to function as the liaison between the foreign procurement missions and the agencies of the Government concerned. By a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury on April 14, 1941, the President dissolved the Committee; and by an Executive order of May 2, 1941, he established the Division of Defense Aid Reports, described below, to administer the Lend-Lease Act.

The records of the Committee and of the administrative staff of the Treasury Department that provided services for it, with the exception of those series of records described below, were incorporated in the files of the Division of Defense Aid Reports. These in turn were taken over by the Office of Lend-Lease Administration and consolidated with its records, which are described elsewhere in this inventory. The three series of records of the Committee listed hereunder include the correspondence, memoranda, reports, contracts, negotiation reports, and other papers of the Committee and its Chairman dealing with negotiations of Great Britain and other countries for the purchase of war materials in the United States during the period 1939-41. For records of the Executive Secretary of the Committee, see entries 15 and 16.

File of Capt. H. E. Collins, Chairman of the Committee, consisting of copies of contracts between United States corporations and foreign governments for war materials with related correspondence. The correspondence covers such subjects as the availability of equipment and materials in the United States manufacturing plants and visits to United States plants by foreign representatives. Included are copies of minutes of the Committee, reports on the status of inquiries of foreign purchasing missions, memoranda to the Secretary of the Treasury, and other papers. Arranged according to an alphabetical-subject filing scheme. A copy of the filing manual is present.

CORRESPONDENCE REGARDING BRITISH PURCHASING MISSION ORDERS AND NEGOTIATIONS. 1940-July 1941. 5 ft.

Correspondence of the Committee with the British Purchasing Commission, the War and Navy Departments, and United States airplane and tank manufacturing companies, mainly regarding British orders for airplanes and tanks and the release of United States aircraft and other designs to the British. Included are reports relative to the British requirements for materials, dollar balances in the United States, purchases in the United States, and British production facilities. Arranged alphabetically by subject. A folder list for this file is available.

FOREIGN PRIORITY REQUEST CASE FILES. 1940-41. 5 ft.

Case files containing copies of letters from foreign government purchasing missions requesting priorities for the purchase by the missions from the United States of implements of war and other materials, together with related correspondence between the Committee and other Government agencies, mainly the Priorities Division of the Office of Production Management, regarding approval or disapproval of the requests. Arranged alphabetically by country and thereunder numerically by number of request.

REPORTS AND RELATED RECORDS CONCERNING PURCHASE
NEGOTIATIONS, 1940-1941.

P-9

This series consists of purchase negotiation reports, correspondence, memorandums, telegrams, lists of purchase items, and other types of documents pertaining to negotiations by foreign governments with the United States Government for purchase of equipment, parts, raw materials, and tools from companies in the United States. Most of the correspondence is from the Department of State, the Department of the Treasury, the Navy Department, the War Department, and other cooperating United States Government officials and officers to the Interdepartmental Committee for Coordination of Foreign and Domestic Military Purchases, also known as the President's Liaison Committee, advising, approving, or objecting to requests. Other communications are addressed to representatives of the foreign governments regarding clarification, approval, or exceptions. [12 boxes]

RECORDS OF THE DIVISION OF DEFENSE AID REPORTS (1941)

The Lend-Lease Act of March 11, 1941 (55 Stat. 31), authorized the President to arrange for the lend-lease of any "defense article" and any "defense information" to the government of any country whose defense he "deemed vital to the defense of the United States." On terms and conditions satisfactory to him, the President was empowered to manufacture or otherwise procure the necessary articles and information through the War Department, the Navy Department, or any other Government agency. To administer this act an Executive order of May 2, 1941, established the Division of Defense Aid Reports within the Office for Emergency Management.

The Division performed four major functions. It provided a central channel for the clearance of transactions and reports and coordinated the processing of requests for aid under the Lend-Lease Act; maintained a system of records and summary accounts, subject to the approval of the Budget Bureau, which was necessary for the administrative and financial control over lend-lease operations and which reflected the current status of those operations; prepared reports necessary to keep the President and Congress informed of the progress of the lend-lease program and served as a clearinghouse of information for agencies participating in the program; and performed other duties subject to the directives of the President.

At first the Division consisted of the administrative staff of the former President's Liaison Committee (which had been abolished on April 14, 1941), with additional personnel from the War Department. By a military order of May 6, Maj. Gen. James H. Burns was appointed Executive Officer of the Division. On August 28, 1941, the President appointed Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., as Special Assistant to the President to act as administrator of the lend-lease program and "to assume general supervision and control over the program as carried out by the Executive Officer of the Division of Defense Aid Reports and his staff." At the same time, Harry L. Hopkins was designated as Special Assistant to the President in charge of all defense-aid activities. Under the direction of the Lend-Lease Administrator and the Executive Officer of the Division, an organization was evolved by September 1941 that included (1) the Office of the Lend-Lease Administrator, his Executive Assistant, a Senior Consultant, and a Special Assistant; (2) the Executive Officer of the Division, his Assistant Executive Officer, the Administrative Assistant, and a Liaison Group consisting of units for the United Kingdom, the British Empire, the allies of Great Britain (excluding the Netherlands), and the Netherlands, China, and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and also a unit for Special Projects; and (3) the Accounting and Fiscal, Production, Operations, Legal, and Forecasts, Traffic, and Storage Sections. This organization functioned for only about 6 months. By an Executive order of October 28, 1941, the Division was abolished and its personnel, functions, and records were transferred to the newly created Office of Lend-Lease Administration.

The records of the Division were consolidated with those created by the Office of Lend-Lease Administration and as such are described below with records of that agency. For records of the Assistant Executive Officer, see entries 15 and 16.

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF LEND-LEASE ADMINISTRATION (1941-43)

By an Executive order of October 28, 1941, the Division of Defense Aid Reports was abolished and the Office of Lend-Lease Administration (OLLA) was created in its stead to administer the Lend-Lease Act of March 11, 1941 (55 Stat. 31). The head of the Office, the Lend-Lease Administrator, was Edward R. Stettinius, Jr. He was directed to exercise the powers conferred upon the President by that act with respect to any nation whose defense the President found vital to the defense of the United States, provided, however, "that the master agreement with each nation receiving lend-lease aid, setting forth the general terms and conditions under which such nation is receiving such aid, shall continue to be negotiated by the State Department, with the advice of the Economic Defense Board and the Lend-Lease Administration." Furthermore, the Administrator was instructed to make "appropriate arrangements with the Economic Defense Board for the review and clearance of those lend-lease transactions which in the judgement of the Board affect the economic defense of the United States."

The main function of the Office was to see that the nations authorized to receive lend-lease materials and data received them at the time and place where they would contribute most to the defeat of the Axis Powers. To accomplish this objective the Office obtained additional appropriations from Congress from time to time based on the estimated annual blanket requests for lend-lease aid submitted by the foreign missions and approved by the Office's appropriate divisions. Once sufficient funds were appropriated, the Office of Lend-Lease Administration reviewed the specific requisitions presented by the foreign missions, and, after obtaining the necessary priorities or allocations from the War Production Board, issued commitment letters to the appropriate procurement agencies, that is, the War, Navy, Treasury, and Agriculture Departments (later the functions of the last-named Department in this connection were assumed by the War Food Administration), or the Maritime Commission, authorizing them to contract with manufacturers or producers for the items requested. The Office of Lend-Lease Administration followed through on the requisitions by arranging with the Office of Defense Transportation or the War Shipping Administration for the shipment of the items to ports and by maintaining adequate control of them until they were delivered to the recipients. It further controlled the use to which the lend-lease items were put by the lend-lease nations by means of master agreements and other international agreements, which were negotiated by the State Department with the advice of the Administrator of the Board of Economic Warfare.

During October and part of November 1941 the sections of the Division of Defense Aid Reports continued to function under the Office of Lend-Lease Administration. A series of reorganization orders between November 1941 and January 1942 established the following major units: (1) the Office of the Administrator; (2) the Clearance Division (later the Office of Foreign Liaison); (3) the Division for Soviet Supply; (4) the Expediting, Accounts, and Statistical Division (later the Finance and Statistics Division); and (5) the Transportation and Storage Division. Important additions to these major subdivisions were made during 1942 and early in 1943, including the establishment of the Office of Operations, the Planning and Development Staff, the Missions Section (later the Overseas Missions Division), and the Reverse Lend-Lease and Government Liaison Division.

By an Executive order of September 25, 1943, the Office of Lend-Lease Administration was consolidated with other agencies to form the Foreign Economic Administration.

The records of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration that are separable from the records of its successor agency, the Foreign Economic Administration, include central files of correspondence, memoranda, and reports of the agency, which were maintained by the filing unit of its Finance and Statistics Division; subject, geographical, and other files maintained in the offices of the Administrator, the Senior Deputy Administrator, the two Deputy Administrators for Planning and Development and for Operations, the Senior Assistant Administrator for foreign liaison, the Senior Assistant Administrator for operations, and various other officials in operating offices of the organization; and special series of records such as requisitions, reports on operations, procurement agency reports, and control cards maintained for the most part in units of the Finance and Statistics Division. Interfiled with many of the records of the agency are records of its predecessors, the Division of Defense Aid Reports and the President's Liaison Committee. Other records of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration were integrated with those of the Foreign Economic Administration and are described elsewhere in this inventory with records of that agency.

For a published account of lend-lease activities by the Lend-Lease Administrator, see Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., Lend-Lease, Weapon for Victory (New York, 1944. 358 p.). See also the last section of this inventory entitled "The Department of State's 'History of Lend-Lease.'"

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF THE ADMINISTRATOR

As the head of the agency responsible for the supervision of all lend-lease activities, the Lend-Lease Administrator concerned himself with high policy matters; with dealings with the White House, the Congress, Cabinet officers, and heads of other agencies; and with public relations, allocation letters, legal matters referred to him by the General Counsel, and Soviet supply matters referred to him by the Senior Administrator in charge of the Division for Soviet Supply. He also served as lend-lease representative on the Food Advisory Committee, the Petroleum Board, the Board of Economic Warfare, and the American-Canadian Production Committee. His immediate assistant was the Senior Deputy Administrator, who acted for him whenever necessary and who was primarily responsible for matters concerning the finances of lend-lease countries. There were also two other Deputy Administrators, one responsible for matters relating to planning and development and the other for supervising the operations of the agency. The Special Assistants, including a Research Assistant, analyzed problems presented to them by the Administrator or Senior Deputy Administrator in terms of the whole lend-lease program and prepared progress and status reports based on detailed statistical and fiscal data prepared by the operating divisions.

GENERAL SUBJECT FILE OF THE ADMINISTRATOR. 1941-43. 14 ft. 8

File of Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., Lend Lease Administrator, consisting of correspondence, with related interoffice memoranda, exchanged with the heads of other Government agencies, foreign purchasing commissions, the President, and Congress, dealing with policy matters in connection with lend-lease agreements, interagency cooperation and responsibility with respect to lend-lease, representation on interagency policy committees, procedures, appropriations, and related matters. Included are copies of minutes of meetings of top lend-lease and interagency committees, reports on lend-lease operations to the President and Congress, and materials on the top-level administration of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration. Arranged alphabetically in accordance with a filing scheme of the Office. A list of folder headings for this file is included in this inventory as Appendix I-A.

GEOGRAPHIC FILE OF THE ADMINISTRATOR. 1941-43. 8 ft. 9

Correspondence, with related interoffice memoranda, exchanged with other governments, other Government agencies, foreign missions of the Administration, and others regarding policies and procedures, dollar position, requirements, requisitions, commodities, shipping, and other subjects in connection with lend-lease aid to foreign countries. Arranged alphabetically by area and country, thereunder as "General" or "Miscellaneous," or as "Commodities," and thereunder by subject. A list of folder headings for this file is included in this inventory as Appendix I-B.

GENERAL FILE OF THE SENIOR DEPUTY ADMINISTRATOR. 1941-42. 3 ft. 10

Records of the Office of the Deputy Administrator, Operations

This Office was that of the Deputy Administrator who had primary responsibility to the Administrator for the operating offices and divisions of the agency. The Deputy Administrator acted as chairman of the Operations Committee (other members were the Senior Assistant Administrators and the Assistant Administrators), which determined policy matters that arose in the course of operations and decided upon organizational and procedural policy. He represented the Office of Lend-Lease Administration on intergovernmental and interallied committees and boards dealing with economic, supply, and production problems; and authorized the procurement, transfer, and export of lend-lease goods or service.

GENERAL FILE OF THE DEPUTY ADMINISTRATOR, OPERATIONS. Feb. 1942-Sept. 1943. 2 ft. 19

File of A. B. Van Buskirk, consisting of correspondence, memoranda, reports, and other materials pertaining to his activities as Deputy Administrator for Operations and to his former activities as Assistant General Counsel. The subjects treated include the legality of requisitions, policy decisions, procurement procedures, interagency relations, representation on committees, and administrative matters. Arranged alphabetically, for the most part by subject. A folder list for this file is available in the National Archives.

SUBJECT FILE OF THE EXECUTIVE ASSISTANT TO THE DEPUTY ADMINISTRATOR, OPERATIONS. 1942-43. 2 ft. 20

Copies of letters sent, interoffice memoranda, and reports of James N. Pope, relating to his activities as Executive Assistant to the Deputy Administrator and as Assistant to the Assistant Administrator in charge of liaison with the British Empire. More specifically, the records relate to his special assignments on behalf of the Deputy Administrator, his work as chairman of the V-Loan Committee, recruitment of personnel for the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, liaison with the British Empire countries, the problem of drawbacks, and diversion of steel from orders of the United Kingdom. Arranged alphabetically by subject, and thereunder chronologically. A folder list for this file is available in the National Archives.

READING FILE OF THE EXECUTIVE ASSISTANT. 1942-43. 4 in. 21

Copies of letters and interoffice memoranda of James N. Pope, pertaining to his activities as liaison officer of the British Empire Division and as Executive Assistant to the Deputy Administrator, Operations. Arranged chronologically. (Box 358.)

Records of the Office of the General Counsel

This Office was an outgrowth of the Legal Section of the Division of Defense Aid Reports. It handled all legal phases of the lend-lease program, including the drafting of all proposed legislative documents, international agreements, and other legal papers, and reviewed all requisitions, allocation letters, and congressional commitments. Part of the records of this office are described below. Other files were integrated with those of the Office of the General Counsel, Foreign Economic Administration, and are described elsewhere in this inventory. See also entry 19 above.

MEMORANDA ON LEGAL PROBLEMS AND POLICIES. 1941-43. 2 ft. 22

Memoranda of C. P. Noyes regarding legal problems and policies of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration in connection with such matters as master lend-lease agreements, protection of foreign trade channels, reciprocal aid procedures and contracts, the application of the Lend-Lease Act to lend-lease procurement, procurement policy, claimant agency problems, title and risk of loss on lend-lease goods, policy with respect to lend-leasability, the legality of requisitions, title to lend-lease articles abroad, retransfer procedures, and related subjects. Arranged alphabetically by subject. A list of folder headings for this file is included in this inventory as Appendix I-D.

GENERAL FILE. 1941-43. 4 ft. 23

Combined file of the staff of the Office of the General Counsel, consisting of correspondence and interoffice memoranda regarding such matters as the position of lend-lease with regard to use of funds for various purposes, accounting procedures, projects, cash reimbursement procedures, foreign currencies, gifts to the United States, legal title to lend-lease articles, lend-lease regulations, lend-leasability of commodities, the Neutrality Act, lend-lease patents, purchase policy, and other subjects. Included are some memoranda regarding the administration and budget of the Office. This file is a consolidation of subject folders from the files of four or five members of the staff of the Office. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

OFFICE FILE OF JOHN B. CONNALLY. 1943. 4 in. 24

Correspondence, memoranda, and drafts of opinions regarding such matters as extension of the Lend-Lease Act, lend-lease operations in North Africa, and use of the seed stockpile. Included are weekly reports of his activities and assignments handled for the Office. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

Records of Intra-Agency Committees

The Lend-Lease Administrator formed a number of intra-agency committees to handle specific operational and administrative problems. Besides the Operations Committee described under the Office of the Deputy Administrator, Operations, there were eight other operating committees of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration. These were the Requirements Review, Agricultural Products Allocation, General Products Allocation, Raw Materials Allocation, Lend-Lease Food Policy, Lend-Lease Foreign Trade, Foreign Procurement, and Clearance Committees. The first committee reviewed the requirements of lend-lease countries in the light of transportation possibilities, inventories, and current strategic concepts, in conjunction with and at the request of the Office of War Mobilization. The next three committees allocated among the various lend-lease countries the items they received from the War Food Administration or the War Production Board. Future lend-lease food problems were the concern of the Food Policy Committee. The Foreign Trade and Foreign Procurement Committees were concerned with the periodic consideration of problems involving lend-lease foreign trade relationships and procurement of products from foreign countries with lend-lease funds. The last of the eight committees reviewed requests for defense articles when the advisability of approving them had been questioned and determined whether to approve or disapprove the requisitions in question.

Minutes of meetings of lend-lease committees are generally among the records of the lend-lease officials who were members of the committees. Sets of minutes of meetings of the Lend-Lease Clearance Committee, Policy Committee (Operations Committee), and Executive Staff are included as appendixes to the "History of Lend-Lease," the assembled records described in the last section of this inventory. Copies of minutes of the above-mentioned committees are also included in the subject files of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration (see entry 5) and the Administrator (see entry 8).

Records of Interdepartmental Committees

Of the interdepartmental committees in existence in the Government in 1943, the Office of Lend-Lease Administration was represented by the Administrator or his assistants on at least 56. These included over-all programming, special commodities, geographic area, personnel, and miscellaneous committees and boards established by or under the auspices of the War Production Board, the War Department, the State Department, the Combined Raw Materials Board, the Combined Production and Resources Board, the Combined Food Board, and the Petroleum Administration for War.

Separate files of the above committees may be found among the records of the Government agencies that provided the secretariats of the committees. Copies of their minutes are to be found with records of the individuals and divisions of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration that represented the Administration on the committees.

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF FOREIGN LIAISON

This Office (originally the Clearance Division), under a Senior Assistant Administrator, included the geographic divisions that maintained liaison between the foreign lend-lease missions (except that of the Soviet Union) and the Office of Lend-Lease Administration. These were the British Empire, China, Other United Nations, and Liberated Areas Divisions. For their respective areas the divisions obtained economic, military, and political information; helped to develop over-all requirements programs and the justifications therefor, in cooperation with the Requirements Control Division; assisted the foreign missions in preparing the requisitions; examined all the requisitions to determine that the items requested were lend-leasable; worked closely with the Office of the Senior Assistant Administrator, Operations, in expediting the progress of individual requests for materials in urgent demand; and reviewed and passed on all applications for export licenses representing commercial purchases by lend-lease countries. In addition to these functions, the Liberated Areas Division maintained contact with the governments-in-exile, represented the Administration in formulating supply programs for liberated areas, and aided in the establishment of personnel requirements for those areas.

The Senior Assistant Administrator in charge of foreign liaison also supervised the activities of the Clearance Section and the Requisition Control Section of the Office. The first section reviewed all individual requests for lend-lease aid prior to the preparation of the commitment letters to insure the uniform application of lend-lease policy with regard to these requests; and the second section distributed the incoming requisitions to the various units of the agency concerned, controlled the flow of the requisitions within the Administration, and prepared the commitment letters for the signature of the Deputy Administrator, Operations.

The records of this Office other than those described below are interfiled with records of the Bureau of Areas of the Foreign Economic Administration, which are described elsewhere in this inventory. No separate files of the Clearance Section have been found.

Records of the Office of the Senior Assistant Administrator

Photostatic copies of Form C (Commitment Letters), sent by the Lend-Lease Administrator to various Government agencies authorizing them, under Executive Order 8926, to procure the quantities of materials, equipment, or services covered by requisitions submitted by lend-lease countries and to transfer and to reexport and retransfer these materials, supplies, and equipment to the extent and in the manner indicated on the forms. Arranged numerically by number of letter.

date, and actions. The cards cover requisitions from the following countries: Brazil, Belgium, Belgian Congo, Bolivia, Canada, Chile, China, El Salvador, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, the Netherlands, Nicaragua, Norway, Russia, Turkey, the United Kingdom, and Venezuela. Arranged numerically by requisition number. Control cards for United Kingdom requisition numbers 801-1600 appear to be missing.

RECORDS OF THE DIVISION FOR SOVIET SUPPLY

The functions performed by the geographic divisions ("Foreign Liaison Divisions") of the Office of Foreign Liaison for their respective areas, which are described above, were accomplished for the Soviet Union by this Division, under a Senior Assistant Administrator. This Division was the central coordinating agency for the Soviet supply program, and it served not only as the Soviet staff for the Lend-Lease Administrator but also as the secretariat of the President's Soviet Protocol Committee.

No separate records for this Division are among the records of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration now in the National Archives. Most of the records pertaining to this phase of lend-lease operations are in the custody of the Department of State. Records of the President's Soviet Protocol Committee are described elsewhere in this inventory.

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF OPERATIONS

Certain functions of the Expediting, Accounts, and Statistical Division and of the Special Assistants of the Office of the Administrator were removed from them and vested in the Operational Control Division, which was in existence by June 1942. On October 31, 1942, that Division became the Requirements Control Division, which was consolidated with the Transportation and Storage Division to form the Office of Operations, under a Senior Assistant Administrator. A few months before the transfer of lend-lease functions to the Foreign Economic Administration, the Procurement Control and Materials Distribution Division was created in the Office. This Office, through its divisions, cleared the requirements of lend-lease countries with the War Production Board and other allocating agencies, supervised the transportation and storage of lend-lease materials, maintained a proper balance between the items requisitioned and those procured for distribution, and reported those available for redistribution to the War Production Board.

Records of this Office other than those described below are among the records of the Bureau of Supplies of the Foreign Economic Administration described elsewhere in this inventory.

Records of the Office of the Senior Assistant Administrator

SUBJECT FILE OF THE SENIOR ASSISTANT ADMINISTRATOR. 1942-43. 15 in. 44
File of L. J. Martin, Senior Assistant Administrator, consisting of interagency correspondence, memoranda, and reports pertaining to inter-agency liaison with regard to requirements and shipping problems, representation of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration on interagency committees, procedures, administration of the Office of Operations, work on the budget of the Administration, and other matters. Arranged alphabetically by subject. A folder list for this file is available in the National Archives.

Records of the Requirements Control Division

This Division was responsible for the assembly and analysis of data on all nonmilitary requirements for lend-lease areas, the screening of individual requests for defense aid articles to determine technical accuracy and conformance to programmed requirements, and the presentation and support of the requirements before appropriate committees. In addition, the Division represented the Office of Lend-Lease Administration on certain requirements committees of the War Production Board and War Food Administration. Responsibility for the performance of these functions with respect to specific categories of commodities was distributed among the following branches: the Controlled Materials Branch, the Materials and Products Branch, and the Food and Agricultural Machinery Branch. Coordination of the requirements programs was handled by a Program Officer, who also represented the Administration on final allocation committees of the War Production Board and handled matters in connection with priorities and interdepartmental preference rating patterns. Follow-up and investigation of cases pending in divisions of the War Production Board were assigned to a War Production Board Liaison Branch.

Office of the Chief

Copies of reports from United States ports regarding loading facilities, rail conditions, inspections of the water front, wharf inspections, the number of cargoes on load, arrivals and departures of vessels, the cargo available for loading, and port advisory meetings. Arranged for the most part by subject. A folder list for this file is available in the National Archives.

Records of the Procurement Control and Materials Distribution Division

This Division was responsible for maintaining an equilibrium between requisitions, procurement, and the inventory position of lend-lease material that was consistent with lend-lease policy. In this connection it reviewed all requisitions to determine whether or not the requested material could be furnished from available stock, assumed responsibility for the redistribution of excess or immobile inventory or orders in process, determined monetary losses resulting from the cancellation of orders or redistribution of materials, and maintained liaison relations with the War, Navy, and Treasury Departments and the Maritime Commission.

Records of this Division other than those described below, are among the records of the Bureau of Supplies of the Foreign Economic Administration described elsewhere in this inventory.

"FOLLOW-UP" FILE ON LEND-LEASE REQUISITIONS. June 1942-May 1943. 2 ft.

Correspondence with the Treasury Department, the War Department, lend-lease missions, and other representatives of foreign governments, together with related memoranda and reports, concerning the follow-up of, expediting action on, and status of requisitions in procurement agencies. MINUTES AND AGENDA OF THE JOINT AIRCRAFT COMMITTEE. Jan. 1943-Jan. 1944. 18 in. 69

Processed copies of minutes and agenda of meetings of the Committee. Arranged chronologically.

RECORDS OF THE FINANCE AND STATISTICS DIVISION

This Division upon its establishment early in 1943 inherited the functions of the Records and Reports Division and those of the Program Manager. Its responsibilities included the preparation of and adherence to a fiscal program, the supervision of record-keeping policies and procedures of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration and of cooperating Government agencies, the staffing of the Administration with adequate personnel, the administration of personnel policy, and housekeeping functions (among which were the maintenance of central files of the agency; see entries 4-7). These functions were divided among its Statistics, Procedures and Planning, Finance, and Administrative Branches.

Records of the Office of the Assistant Administrator

GENERAL FILE. Oct. 1941-May 1942. 3 ft. 70

Correspondence, memoranda, and reports of C. L. Terrel, Assistant Administrator, pertaining mainly to the organization of the Division's predecessor, the Records and Reports Division, and reporting procedures for requisitions and preliminary negotiation reports. Included are progress reports of sections, reports on fiscal operations, and memoranda dealing with administrative matters and the budget. Arranged alphabetically by subject. A folder list for this file is available in the National Archives.

Correspondence, memoranda, and copies of cables regarding foreign service personnel of the Administration and pertaining to such matters as their appointment and bond, travel expenses and vouchers, the shipping of personal effects, and funds for missions. Arranged alphabetically by country. A folder list for this file is available in the National Archives.

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES FILE. 1941-43. 3 ft. 81

Correspondence, memoranda, and reports relating to the administration of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration. The records deal largely with general personnel matters but also pertain to such subjects as functions, organization, procedure, and general services. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

RECORDS OF THE OVERSEAS MISSIONS DIVISION

A Missions Section was organized as part of the Office of the Lend-Lease Administrator on November 10, 1942, and this became a separate division in 1943. This Division organized and coordinated overseas mission activities for the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, administered the mission personnel, and served as the liaison unit between the missions and the offices of the agency. The foreign missions supervised by the Division performed functions for their respective areas similar to those performed in Washington by the divisions of the Office of Foreign Liaison and the Office of Operations. In Great Britain and the Soviet Union the lend-lease foreign missions succeeded the Special Mission of the President headed by W. A. Harriman in 1941 described below. Other foreign missions in Australia, New Zealand, Turkey, Egypt and the Middle East, North Africa, Iran, Iraq, India, and China were established in 1942. The North African Mission was the largest of all (until it was reduced in August 1943), because it was concerned not only with coordinating lend-lease activities in the area but also was responsible for operational activities after the lend-lease materials had reached the North African ports, since these materials were not delivered to the French provisional authorities at shipside.

Separate bodies of records for this Division have not been found among the files of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration transferred to the National Archives. The records have perhaps been interfiled with records of the Bureau of Areas of the Foreign Economic Administration described elsewhere in this inventory. Records of the Harriman Mission to London and the Special Mission to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics are described below under those headings. The records of the Imports Division of the North African Economic Board, consisting of correspondence, memoranda, reports, cargo manifests, French receipts, pay vouchers, card records on commodities unloaded from convoys, and other papers, have been received by the Department of State from the North African Mission.

RECORDS OF THE REVERSE LEND-LEASE AND GOVERNMENT LIAISON DIVISION

Like the Overseas Missions Division, this Division was an outgrowth of a unit in the Office of the Lend-Lease Administrator, the Government Liaison Branch, which was established in January 1943. It directed reverse lend-lease operations and maintained liaison with the State Department and the Board of Economic Warfare for the whole Office of Lend-Lease Administration. In September 1943 it was transferred to the Office of Economic Programs of the Foreign Economic Administration. Its records are among the records received and retained by the Department of State. There are no separate records of the Division among the records of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration in the National Archives.

RECORDS OF THE HARRIMAN MISSION TO LONDON AND MISSION FOR ECONOMIC AFFAIRS (1941-44)

This Mission was established pursuant to a letter from the President to W. Averell Harriman of March 6, 1941, appointing him as personal representative of the President in London with the rank of Minister, to expedite the furnishing of supplies to Great Britain. Other responsibilities added during the period 1941 to October 1943 included the representation of United States agencies on London committees of the Combined Boards and the gathering of information on British supply and production problems. The Mission was responsible primarily to the President and then to the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, the Maritime Commission, the War Production Board, the Petroleum Administration for War, and other United States agencies that it represented in London.

On October 23, 1943, upon the appointment of Harriman as Ambassador to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Philip D. Reed was appointed as Chief of the Mission, which was renamed the Mission for Economic Affairs in London. This Mission inherited all of the functions and responsibilities of the Harriman Mission and assumed additional duties, chiefly those relating to the supply of civilian needs of countries expected to be liberated with the occupation of Europe. In this connection, it represented the United States on the Combined Civil Affairs Committee, the London Coordinating Committee, the Economic Liaison Group, and the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration committees. Other responsibilities included the management of surplus property disposal in the United Kingdom.

The records described below are all of the records of the Missions found among the records of the Foreign Economic Administration now in the National Archives. Those described for the Mission for Economic Affairs in London are records of its Washington Office only. Other records of the Mission are now in the custody of the Department of State.

GENERAL FILE OF THE SECRETARY TO THE CHAIRMAN. Mar. 1941-44. 15 in. 82

File of R. P. Meiklejohn, secretary to W. A. Harriman, consisting of correspondence, memoranda, reports, press releases, administrative and personnel data, and other materials pertaining to the operations of the Mission in facilitating lend-lease aid to Great Britain, representation of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration on intergovernmental boards and committees in London, British economic conditions, and requirements of Great Britain for United States material. Included are reports on expenditures, budget, and personnel of the Mission and copies of some letters addressed to Harry Hopkins by British officials. Arranged alphabetically by subject, and occasionally thereunder by name of correspondent.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER TO LONDON. Dec. 1941-Nov. 1943. 10 in. 83

Weekly letters (usually copies), from the Lend-Lease Administrator, E. R. Stettinius, Jr., to W. A. Harriman, Chief of the Mission to London, outlining major developments of lend-lease for each week and enclosing copies of pertinent correspondence, memoranda, and other papers of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration as exhibits. The letters are arranged chronologically; a number of the exhibits are detached from the letters and filed in folders alphabetically by subject; partly disarranged.

RECORDS PERTAINING TO PERSONNEL. 1941-44. 20 in. 84

Individual folders for personnel of the Mission containing copies of letters sent, cables, travel vouchers, and other papers pertaining to applications for employment, pay, travel, resignations, and the like, together with some reports, minutes of meetings, and memoranda of the individuals in connection with their activities on behalf of the Mission. Arranged alphabetically by name of employee.

CABLES AND AIRGRAMS. May 1943-Aug. 1944. 3 ft.

Copies of messages exchanged through State Department channels by various agencies in Washington and the Mission in London regarding rush orders for items urgently needed by the British, shipping matters, priorities, policy, political aspects of lend-lease, administrative and personnel problems of the Mission, and other aspects of Mission operations. Arranged in part by Government agency and thereunder chronologically; the remainder of the airgrams and cables are unarranged.

RECORDS OF THE SPECIAL MISSION TO THE UNION OF SOVIET SOCIALIST REPUBLICS (1941)

On August 29, 1941, President Roosevelt appointed W. Averell Harriman as Chairman of the Special Mission to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. The members of this Mission proceeded to Moscow, where they met with representatives of Great Britain and the Soviet Union and negotiated an agreement for supplying Soviet requirements from British and United States sources. The Mission returned to the United States in October 1941. Records of this Mission other than those described below may be in the custody of the Department of State.

GENERAL FILE OF THE SECRETARY TO THE CHAIRMAN. Sept. 1941-June 1942.
5 in.

Incoming and outgoing cables and letters exchanged by the Mission with the President, the Soviet Embassy, and other Government agencies regarding the negotiation of the Russian supply protocol at meetings of representatives of Great Britain, the United States, and Russia in Moscow, September 29-October 1, 1941. Included are copies of the protocol, a chronological file of letters of Harriman's Secretary, R. P. Meiklejohn, and vouchers and other papers regarding Mission personnel. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

The headings of the folders in this file are as follows: Accommodations, Cables (London, Sept. 12-Nov. 12, 1941; Moscow, Sept. 20-Oct. 4, 1941), Chronological (Sept. 10, 1941-Jan. 19, 1942), Finances, General, Information, Job Applicants, Personnel, Press Releases, and Protocol (Aircraft, Digest, English Text, Materials, Military Supplies, Naval, Protocol Correspondence, Religion, Russian Text, Shipments to Russia, Status of Moscow Protocol as of Dec. 24, 1941, Tanks, Transportation, and Trucks).

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF THE ADMINISTRATOR OF EXPORT CONTROL

By an act of July 2, 1940 (54 Stat. 714), Congress provided that whenever the President should deem it necessary in the interest of national defense, he might prohibit or curtail the exportation of any military equipment or munitions, or materials or supplies necessary for the manufacture thereof. In a proclamation of the same date the President put an export control program into effect by listing the articles and commodities that could not be exported except when authorized in each case by a license (the list was expanded from time to time) and by vesting responsibility for the administration of the program in an Administrator of Export Control and the Department of State. The licenses were to be issued by the Department of State (the work was handled by its Division of Controls), in accordance with directives issued by the Administrator of Export Control. By a military order, also dated July 2, 1940, the President stated that the administration of the export control program was essentially a military function and designated an Army officer, Lt. Col. (later Brig. Gen.) Russell L. Maxwell, as the Administrator.

In order to make available for defense purposes the materials that could not be exported, an act of October 10, 1940 (54 Stat. 1090), authorized the President to requisition such materials. By an Executive order of October 15, 1940, the Office of the Administrator of Export Control was made responsible for the administration of regulations issued under this authority. Determination of the necessity of requisitioning was to be made by the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy acting through the Joint Army and Navy Munitions Board, and disposition of the requisitioned items was to be handled in similar fashion by that Board.

From July to September 1940 the Administrator of Export Control and a small staff organized the agency, obtained the expansion of the original export control list, and entered into liaison arrangements with various agencies of the Government concerned with exports. On September 5, 1940, the first formal organization order of the Office provided for the establishment of three divisions; in November 1940 two more were added; and a sixth was created on December 23, 1940. Field offices were established in New York on February 1, 1941, and in San Francisco and Los Angeles in June 1941. General administrative services for the office were performed by the War Department until July 1941, and thereafter by the Division of the Central Administrative Services of the Office for Emergency Management.

On September 15, 1941, the Office of the Administrator of Export Control was abolished and its functions, personnel, and records were transferred to the Economic Defense Board. The Office of the Administrator of Export Control became, in effect, the Office of Export Control of the Economic Defense Board.

The central files of the Office, containing correspondence, directives, regulations, and other records, were continued and added to by the successor agencies, the Economic Defense Board and the Board of Economic Warfare, until July 1, 1942. After that date no material was added to the files and they were retired to storage in the Board of Economic Warfare. They are described in entries 97-99 of this inventory.

Other files of the Office were also continued by the successor agencies and are described with their records. Five series of records that were not added to by successor agencies have been found and are described below under the units of the Office that created them. Historical accounts of the organization and operations of the Office of the Administrator of Export Control, compiled by the Foreign Economic Administration's Historian, together with supporting documents, are among the files of the Historian described under the Records Analysis Division in this inventory.

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF THE ADMINISTRATOR

This Office included the Administrator, the Deputy Administrator, the General Counsel, and the Policy, Reviews, and Appeal Committees. As head of the agency, the Administrator executed policies relating to export control as approved by the President and supervised generally the activities of the agency. His deputy coordinated the operations of the divisions and served as Acting Administrator whenever necessary. The General Counsel, first appointed on March 31, 1941, handled all legal problems for the agency.

No separate records of the Administrator, the Deputy Administrator, or the General Counsel have been found among the records transferred to the National Archives. Correspondence, copies of memoranda, and administrative issuances, however, are in the central files of the Administrator of Export Control and successor agencies described in entry 97 of this inventory.

Records of the Policy Committee

Under the chairmanship of the Administrator, the Policy Committee (originally the Advisory Committee) was concerned with matters of general policy pertaining to all aspects of export control. Its members included the representatives of 18 Federal agencies, among which were the State Department, the Joint Army and Navy Munitions Board, the Treasury, Commerce, Agriculture, Justice, and Interior Departments, the Office of Production Management, the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply, and the Division of Defense Aid Reports. Three subcommittees of the Policy Committee prepared proposals for the imposition by the President of control over the exportation of specified articles, recommendations for new regulations for control and quotas, and lists of consignees abroad to whom exports were prohibited or curtailed. The Chief of the Planning Division was the Secretary of the Policy Committee. Records relating to the Committee's work in addition to those described below are in the central files of the Office of the Administrator of Export Control and successor agencies described in entry 97.

MINUTES OF MEETINGS. 1940-41. 10 in.

Copies of minutes of meetings of the Policy Committee of the Office of the Administrator of Export Control and of its Subcommittee on Legis- 87 lation, Procurement, and Regulations. The minutes relate to policies concerning commodity exports, licenses, export regulations, and legislation. Arranged by date of meeting.

Records of the Reviews Committee

This Committee was composed of representatives of the State Department, the Joint Army and Navy Munitions Board, and Office of Production Management. It met daily to consider export license applications not covered by generally applicable directives or instructions. A representative of the Administrator was the Chairman of the Committee, and its Secretary was the Chief of the Licensing Division. Minutes, decisions, and correspondence of or relating to this Committee are in the central files of the Office of the Administrator of Export Control and successor agencies described in entry 97.

Records of the Appeals Committee

This Committee, which also had an interagency membership, considered appeals on rejected export license applications and requests for revocation of licenses. Its Chairman was the Chief of the Executive Division, and its Secretary was a member of the Licensing Division. Decisions and other records of this Committee are in the central files of the Office of the Administrator of Export Control and successor agencies described in entry 97.

RECORDS OF THE PLANNING DIVISION

Planning problems were submitted by the Administrator in September 1940 to certain committees of the Army Industrial College. As a result of the recommendations of these committees, the Planning Division was established in November 1940. The work of this Division was performed by three sections and by special consultants on petroleum products and on other basic commodities. The Programs Section drafted Presidential proclamations, regulations, Executive orders, and administrative orders pertaining to the export control program. It initiated directives and specific rulings for issuance by the Administrator to the State Department's Division of Controls. The Procedures Section assembled data on imports, exports, and the production of commodities and materials essential to national defense and, after it was determined to place a commodity under control, prepared the instructions for licensing. The Projects Section conducted investigations and made comprehensive plans for the coordination of economic power as an effective instrument of national policy. In that connection, it collected data on trade, agriculture, finance, shipping, and international affairs and integrated this material into concrete proposals. In February 1941 it was organized into 16 committees of experts on particular commodities, headed by an interdepartmental steering committee.

Most of the correspondence and other records of the Division are in the central files of the Office of the Administrator of Export Control and successor agencies described in entry 97. Two separately maintained files of the Projects Section are described below.

GENERAL FILE OF THE CHIEF, PROJECTS SECTION. 1940-41. 15 in. 88

File of Thomas Hewes, consisting of interagency and intra-agency memoranda, lists, and other materials regarding projects; and reports of the Section and of other agencies.

RECORDS OF THE LICENSING DIVISION

One of the first three divisions to be established in the Office of Export Control, on September 5, 1940, was the Licensing Division (originally named the Technical Division). Its primary function was to pass upon applications for licenses referred to it by the Division of Controls of the State Department. Its Operations Section handled individual license applications, except those involving technical data. Its Technical Data Section, organized on April 8, 1941, processed applications to export technical data in accordance with a Presidential proclamation of March 4, 1941. This proclamation had added to the list of controlled exports any photograph, document, or other material containing a plan, specification, or information of any kind that could be used in connection with the production of any of the materials on that list. Its Statistical Section, established in April 1941, maintained a record of items exported under the Lend-Lease Act of March 11, 1941 (55 Stat. 31). This Section cooperated chiefly with the Division of Defense Aid Reports, a predecessor of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration. The Division also included a Training Section, which conducted training for all officers and men of professional rating newly assigned to the Office of the Administrator of Export Control and for officers being reassigned within the agency.

Most of the records of this Division, other than those described below, are among the files of the Office of Exports, Board of Economic Warfare, and of the Requirements and Supply Branch of the Bureau of Supplies, Foreign Economic Administration, and are described with the records of those agencies. The records of the Statistics Section are among those of the Statistics Division of the Office of Finance of the latter agency.

RECORDS OF THE REQUISITIONING DIVISION

The administration of that portion of the Requisitioning Act of 1940 that was vested in the Office of the Administrator of Export Control was assigned to the Requisitioning Division, which was established in November 1940 to issue and service requisitions for property denied export licenses and seized by the Government. Within this Division a Compensation Board made recommendations to the Administrator as to fair and just compensation for materials requisitioned, and he in turn referred them to the President. The records of the Division are among those of the Requirements and Supply Branch of the Bureau of Supplies, Foreign Economic Administration, and are described elsewhere in this inventory.

RECORDS OF THE INFORMATION DIVISION

Established on September 5, 1940, this Division gathered and dispensed information on the export control system through its Reports, Intelligence, and Public Relations Sections. The Reports Section prepared and published statistical reports on export control, maintained a register of all licenses granted, and prepared periodic and special reports on all shipments. The Intelligence Section gathered intelligence from other Governmental intelligence organizations pertaining to the relationships of foreign and domestic firms to the Axis powers.

A general file of this Division, which was continued by its successor in the Economic Defense Board to December 1941, is described under the Office of the Executive Director of the Board of Economic Warfare (see entry 100).

RECORDS OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE DIVISION

The third of the original divisions established on September 5, 1940, was the Administrative Division. At first this Division was responsible for liaison with the White House and the Division of Controls of the State Department. It was relieved of this function toward the end of 1940, and thereafter it performed only personnel, budget, and other housekeeping functions for the Office.

Some records of this Division are in the central files of the Office of the Administrator of Export Control and successor agencies described in entry 97. Others are among the records of the Offices of Personnel, Budget and Administrative Planning, and Management Services of the Foreign Economic Administration described elsewhere in this inventory.

RECORDS OF THE EXECUTIVE DIVISION

On December 23, 1940, the Executive Division was established to coordinate the work of the other divisions and to handle duties not assigned to those divisions. To control the overseas activities of the Office, units were established on a geographic basis for Latin America, the Far East, Europe, and Africa. In June 1941 a foreign representative of the Office was sent to the United Kingdom, and the establishment of other foreign posts was planned. The Division was abolished before the Office of the Administrator of Export Control was transferred to the Economic Defense Board on July 30, 1941, and its functions were distributed among the other divisions of the Office. Some records of this Division are in the central files of the Office of the Administrator of Export Control and successor agencies described in entry 97.

RECORDS OF THE ECONOMIC DEFENSE BOARD (1941)

The Economic Defense Board was established by an Executive order of July 30, 1941, "for the purpose of developing and coordinating policies, plans, and programs designed to protect and strengthen the international economic relations of the United States in the interest of national defense." The order defined "economic defense" as "the conduct, in the interest of national defense, of international activities including those relating to exports, imports, the acquisition and disposition of materials and commodities from foreign countries including preclusive buying, transactions in foreign exchange and foreign-owned or foreign-controlled property, international investments and extensions of credit, shipping and transportation of goods among countries, the international aspects of patents, international communications pertaining to commerce, and other foreign economic matters."

The Board consisted of the Vice President of the United States, Henry A. Wallace, as Chairman, and of the following officials or their alternates: The Secretaries of State, the Treasury, War, the Navy, Agriculture, and Commerce, the Attorney General, and (after November 1941) the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs. At first the Board functioned chiefly in an advisory, coordinating, and fact-finding capacity; responsibility for the various operations pertaining to economic defense remained with the agencies previously charged with such responsibility, but their operations were required to conform to policies formulated or approved by the Board. By an Executive order of September 15, 1941, however, the responsibilities for administration of the export control program that had previously been vested in the Office of the Administrator of Export Control and the Yellow License Unit of the State Department's Division of Control were transferred, together with the personnel and records of those agencies, to the Economic Defense Board. The order also designated the Board as the agency to determine over-all estimates of materials and commodities required for export purposes in the interest of economic defense, exclusive of lend-lease operations, and directed that it advise the Supply Priorities and Allocations Board of these requirements and the Office of Production Management of all priorities needed for their delivery.

An Executive order of October 28, 1941, specified that the Board was to advise the State Department in the negotiation by the latter of lend-lease master agreements and gave to the Board authority to review and clear "those lend-lease transactions which in the judgement of the Board affect the economic defense of the United States." When the over-all supervision of property requisitioning by the Government was vested in the Office of Production Management by an Executive order of November 19, 1941, the Economic Defense Board was designated as one of the agencies authorized to initiate action for requisitioning and disposing of property under the priorities and allocations program and the general production and supply plan of the Office of Production Management.

During the period of the Board's existence as a "defense" agency, it was reorganized several times. The initial organization was provided for after the Executive Director had been formally appointed on September 9, 1941. In addition to the Chairman, his interdepartmental committee, and the Executive Director, the Board included the Legal, Administrative Management, Economic Development, Liaison, and Intelligence Divisions. After the transfer to the Board on September 15, 1941, of the Office of the Administrator of Export Control, which became the Office of Export Control, and the State Department's Yellow License Unit, and after the establishment of four geographic divisions in November 1941, the major units of the Board remained unchanged (in fact, until a reorganization of the successor Board of Economic Warfare took place in April 1942).

In December 1941 the Economic Defense Board included the following organizational units: (1) The Office of the Chairman, including the Board proper (seven Cabinet members and the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs or their alternates), which met frequently to determine general policy; (2) the Office of the Executive Director and the Legal and Administrative Divisions, which were directly responsible to the Executive Director; (3) the Office of the Assistant Director, with its Policy Committee and Public Relations Section; (4) the Office of Export Control and its Commodity License, Technical Data License, Policy, Clearance, and Requisitioning Divisions; and (5) the four geographic divisions for the American Hemisphere, the British Empire, Europe and Africa, and the Far East.

The top offices of the Board and their units performed the general supervisory functions of the organization, both planning and administrative. The duties of the divisions of the Office of Export Control remained substantially as they were before September 15, 1941. The geographic divisions absorbed the functions of the Economic Development, Liaison, and Intelligence Divisions of the Board in November 1941. Each geographic division obtained and analyzed information available to Government agencies (especially the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce) and to private commercial enterprises concerning the economic organization, capacities, and requirements of the foreign countries in the area, in order to integrate the economies of those countries with that of the United States. By special arrangement with the Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs, the personnel of that Office engaged in commercial and financial planning were amalgamated with the personnel of the American Hemisphere Division of the Board.

By an Executive order of December 17, 1941, the name of the Economic Defense Board was changed to Board of Economic Warfare. No changes in its functions or organization, however, were made at that time.

The records of the Economic Defense Board, for the most part, were continued by and interfiled with the records of its successor agencies and are described elsewhere in this inventory as records of the Board of Economic Warfare or of the Foreign Economic Administration. Separable records of the Economic Defense Board in the National Archives include the export license applications and related correspondence and indexes described below. These series were begun by the Yellow License Unit of the Department of State's Division of Controls. Related records and the functions of the Unit are described elsewhere in this inventory (see entries 120-123). For later export license applications and related correspondence of the Board of Economic Warfare's Operations Branch, see entries 110-114.

Historical accounts of the Board's organization and operations, together with supporting documents, are among the records of the Foreign Economic Administration's Records Analysis Division described elsewhere in this inventory. Some papers kept by Henry A. Wallace while Chairman of the Board are in the National Archives with materials relating to his wartime activities in other capacities.

RECORDS OF THE BOARD OF ECONOMIC WARFARE (1941-43)

On December 17, 1941, the Economic Defense Board became, by a change of name, the Board of Economic Warfare. For about four months thereafter there were no major changes in the functions and no significant changes in administrative organization. By an Executive order of April 13, 1942, however, the Board's powers, which hitherto had been limited chiefly to the control of exports, were significantly increased by giving to the Board a large measure of control over imports. It was authorized to "receive and be responsible for executing directives from the Chairman of the War Production Board as to quantities, specifications, delivery time schedules, and priorities of materials and commodities" that were "required to be imported for the war production effort and civilian economy." More importantly, the Board was given power to "determine the policies, plans, procedures, and methods of the several Federal departments, establishments, and agencies with respect to the procurement and production of such materials and commodities, including the financing thereof; and issue such directives, or initiate such proposals in respect thereto as it may deem necessary." In order to obtain materials, supplies, and commodities from foreign sources, the Board was authorized to establish corporations of the type existing under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act, but it did not exercise this authority.

The Board was also directed to "advise the State Department with respect to the terms and conditions to be included in the master agreement with each nation receiving lend-lease aid"; to "provide and arrange for the receipt by the United States of reciprocal aid and benefits" from the governments receiving lend-lease; and to "represent the United States Government in dealing with the economic warfare agencies of the United Nations for the purpose of relating the Government's economic warfare program and facilities to those of such nations." To carry out the added responsibilities regarding the importation of strategic and critical materials, the Board was permitted to arrange through the State Department to send abroad technical, engineering, and economic representatives.

As a result of the April directive the Board was reorganized, and to the existing membership of the Board proper, presided over by the Vice President of the United States, Henry A. Wallace, there were added the Chairman of the War Production Board (May 18, 1942) and the Administrator of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration (June 11, 1942), or their alternates. The Offices of Exports, Imports, Economic Warfare Analysis, the General Counsel, and Administrative Management, established at that time, remained in existence during the life of the agency, although, as described below, the branches and divisions of the offices underwent a number of changes. By an Executive order of July 15, 1943, the Board of Economic Warfare was terminated and its functions, personnel, and records were transferred to the Office of Economic Warfare.

The various centralized and decentralized files of the Board, which were taken over and maintained practically intact by the Office of Economic Warfare, were later distributed to various units of the Foreign Economic Administration. A number of series of records, including classified subject and geographic central files, were not added to by the Foreign Economic Administration but were kept at central records-keeping stations. These series of records are described below under "General Records" or under the units that last maintained them. Other series of the Board's records, continued and added to by the successor agencies, are described under the Foreign Economic Administration. Historical accounts of the organization and operations of various divisions of the Board, compiled by the Historian of the Foreign Economic Administration, together with a quantity of documentary materials of the Board, are among the files of the Historian, which are described under the Records Analysis Division in this inventory.

GENERAL RECORDS

CLASSIFIED SUBJECT CENTRAL FILE. July 1940-June 1942. 116 ft. 97

Records of the Board of Economic Warfare and of its predecessors, the Economic Defense Board and the Office of the Administrator of Export Control, consisting mainly of copies of letters, memoranda, reports, minutes of meetings of committees, and other materials relating to all phases of export control and economic warfare and to the organization, administration, policies, and procedures of the agencies. The materials of this file are arranged in accordance with a subject-numeric classification system, the classification manual for which is available in the National Archives.

The main classes of the file are as follows:

- Class 000 - General. Correspondence, memoranda, reports, administrative issuances, and other papers on the organization of the Board and its predecessor agencies, export licenses, and general matters.
- Class 100 - Finance and Accounting. Materials pertaining mainly to export license revocations, export priorities, bonds and bonding, property and supplies, and allotments.
- Class 200 - Personnel. Records relating to the assignment, separation, retirement, transfer, promotion, leave, and regulation of both civilian and military personnel.
- Class 300 - Administration. Materials on the administration of the Board and export control legislation, covering such subjects as laws and regulations, security matters, procedures of the policy committee, appeals committee decisions, export license applications, office procedures, rulings on export requests, and the organization and functions of the Board.
- Class 400 - Supplies, Equipment, Services, and Commodities. Materials relating to the weekly balance of commodities available for export licenses, foreign negotiations for the purchase of supplies in the United States, license directives and appeals, export control schedules, and the Proclaimed List of Blocked Nationals.
- Class 500 - Transportation. Materials pertaining to the transportation of persons or supplies by land, water, or air. It also covers such subjects as transportation rates, tariffs, contracts, and maintenance of records.
- Class 600 - Buildings and Grounds. Materials relating to United States and foreign buildings, manufacturing plants, and railroads.

Class 700 - Medicine, Hygiene, and Sanitation. Materials relating primarily to inoculations and physical examinations of personnel.

Class 800 - Rivers and Harbors, Oceans and Seas. Materials relating to rivers, export control, licenses, and revocations.

GEOGRAPHIC CENTRAL FILE. July 1940-June 1942. 16 ft. 98

Letters and memoranda, mainly copies, relating to export control matters involving specific countries and covering subjects similar to those described under the previous entry, with the exception of matters relating to administration and personnel. Arranged alphabetically by country and thereunder by the same subject-numeric system used in the Classified Subject Central File described above. Numerous cross-reference sheets are present.

ADDRESSEE FILE OF LETTERS SENT. July 1940-May 1942. 31 ft. 99

Addressee or "white copy" file of the Board of Economic Warfare and its predecessors, composed of duplicate copies of outgoing letters to the general public and other Government agencies, with related copies of internal correspondence and memoranda. The material pertains primarily to export license matters. Arranged alphabetically by name of addressee, first by general public, then by Government agency. Cross-reference numbers on the correspondence refer to identical copies with related materials in the subject and/or geographic central files described above, making this file a supplemental finding aid to those files.

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

The administrative head of the Board of Economic Warfare, as in the case of the predecessor Economic Defense Board, was the Executive Director, Milo Perkins. His Office supervised and coordinated the work of the Board's organizational units and conducted major liaison activities relative to policy and jurisdiction. Among the more important of these activities were those concerning relations with the War Production Board and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation relative to jurisdiction over policy with regard to exports and imports; with the Department of State relative to all major aspects of foreign economic policy and the authority of the Board's representatives abroad; with the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce relative to the exchange of personnel and statistical trade data on exports and imports; with the Department of Agriculture relative to purchase by the Government of food and facilities necessary for the war effort and civilian economy; with the Geological Survey relative to cooperative missions that were sent abroad to examine, appraise, and investigate strategic foreign mineral resources and to stimulate the production of metals and minerals; with the Office of Lend-Lease Administration relative to the presentation of claims to supply agencies of the Government for commercial and lend-lease exports; with the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations relative to relief in liberated areas; and with other governments at war with the Axis powers relative to neutral trade and various aspects of economic warfare.

As the Board's activities and staff grew in size during 1942 and 1943, several small divisions that had their inception in the Office of the Executive Director became full-grown offices or large divisions of operating offices of the Board. Thus in April 1942 the Legal and Administrative Management Divisions became respectively the Office of the General Counsel and the Office of Administrative Management; and toward the end of 1942 the Field Supervisory and the Equipment Exports Staffs became divisions of the Foreign Trade Technical Services Branch. The Executive Director, however, during the existence of the agency retained in his office the Information Staff (known in 1943 as the Information Division).

With the exception of the records of the Information Division described below, the separately maintained files of the Office of the Executive Director of the Board of Economic Warfare were continued by the offices of his successors, the Executive Director of the Office of Economic Warfare and the Administrator of the Foreign Economic Administration. They are described in this inventory under the latter office. Correspondence, memoranda, and other records of the Executive Director relating to the policies and organization of the Board are in the central file described in entry 97.

GENERAL FILE OF THE INFORMATION DIVISION. Dec. 1940-Dec. 1941. 2 ft.

Copies of memoranda, reports, press releases, Executive orders, proclamations, and other materials, mainly of the Information Division of the Economic Defense Board and of its predecessor, the Office of the Administrator of Export Control, pertaining to activities of the Division in the preparation of studies, reports, press releases, and other informational materials on the activities of the respective agencies in response to requests of the Executive Director or Administrator and their staff. Included are some papers relating to the personnel of the Division. Arranged alphabetically by subject. 100

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE MANAGEMENT

This Office, through its Personnel, Service, Foreign Administrative Services, and Fiscal Divisions and its Administrative Analysis Section handled most of the "housekeeping" functions of the Board, including the recruitment and classification of personnel, the maintenance of central files (except files in the Office of Economic Warfare Analysis), and the preparation of the budget. It also included the Board Historian, who was responsible for the writing of branch and divisional histories.

The records of the office are described with the records of the Office of Budget and Administrative Planning, Office of Management Services, and Office of Personnel of the Foreign Economic Administration, among which they were absorbed. Central files of the Board maintained by the Communications and Records Section and left intact by the Board's successors are described above under "General Records" (see entries 97-99).

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF THE GENERAL COUNSEL

This Office continued the legal functions performed by the Legal Division before April 1942. At first it was concerned with general problems of policy on economic warfare and with establishing an organization to solve the problems of economic warfare, but during the greater part of the existence of the Board of Economic Warfare the Office primarily performed legal functions. Among the matters dealt with by the Exports, Imports, Economic Warfare Analysis, and Projects Divisions of the Office were the citizenship and draft status of men in missions being sent abroad; the legal status of operations being carried on abroad by the United States public corporations; the detailed formulation of import contracts for purchasing strategic and critical materials; the taking over of Axis properties in Latin America to make them available for war production by friendly foreign producers; negotiations of changes in legislation pertaining to economic warfare and foreign trade; and enforcement of the Board's regulations controlling private commercial imports.

Part of the records of the Office are described below. Other records not separable from those of the successor offices in the Office of Economic Warfare and the Foreign Economic Administration, are described under the latter agency elsewhere in this inventory. A small collection of copies of records of the Office of the General Counsel are among the records of the Historian of the Foreign Economic Administration described under the Records Analysis Division.

GENERAL SUBJECT FILE OF THE GENERAL COUNSEL. Dec. 1941-July 1943. 20 in.

File of Monroe Oppenheimer, General Counsel of the Board of Economic Warfare and predecessor agencies, consisting of copies of letters to Government agencies, Congress, and private individuals, together with Executive orders, reports, and other materials, pertaining to the work of the General Counsel on development agreements with Latin-American countries, interagency agreements, appropriations for the Board of Economic Warfare, the classification of employees under the Ramspeck Act, a report to the Byrd Committee on the Board of Economic Warfare, labor clauses in Board of Economic Warfare contracts, representation on interdepartmental committees, personnel investigations, and other matters in connection with the organization and operations of the Board. Arranged for the most part alphabetically by subject and occasionally by name of agency.

GENERAL FILE OF THE PRINCIPAL ATTORNEY FOR THE PROJECTS DIVISION. July 1942-June 1943. 5 in.

File of Roy W. McDonald, consisting of correspondence, memoranda, and other papers, chiefly pertaining to legal opinions on administrative matters, economic activities of the Board, and projects. Arranged alphabetically by subject and thereunder chronologically.

RECORDS OF THE COMPLIANCE COMMISSIONER, EXPORT CONTROL DIVISION. 1942-43.
7 in. 103

Copies of orders and other papers of William Butz, Compliance Commissioner, relating to proceedings and findings in cases before the Commissioner for the denial of export license privileges to companies charged with violating export regulations. Arranged alphabetically by name of company.

RECORDS OF KELLY KASH, ATTORNEY FOR THE IMPORTS DIVISION. Apr. 1942-
Dec. 1943. 8 in. 104

Correspondence, memoranda, reports, and other papers relating to the legal work of Kelly Kash in connection with the purchase and inspection of commodities by the United States, the organization of the Board of Economic Warfare, representation on interagency committees, law briefs on fair and just compensation for property taken under the Requisitioning Act, compliance cases, corporations, and a proposed contract of the American Cyanamide Company. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF EXPORTS

The Office of Exports, organized about April 16, 1942, was largely a continuation, greatly expanded, of the Office of Export Control, which had been set up within the Economic Defense Board to administer the export control functions transferred to it from the Office of the Administrator of Export Control and from the Division of Controls of the State Department. By determining whether export licenses should be granted or denied, the Office sought to prevent the depletion of supplies of materials in the United States needed for war purposes, to prevent shipments that would benefit the enemy, and to make critical materials available to other nations when such action would support the war effort.

From April until November 1942 the Office was composed of three branches, the largest of which was the Export Control Branch. On November 18, 1942, that Branch and the Projects and Requirements Branches were abolished and their functions regrouped among four new branches. These branches and their divisions, as shown below, remained in existence with minor changes until October 1943. The Assistant Director in charge of the Office of Exports supervised, in addition to the activities of the branches, the activities of smaller units directly responsible to him. By February 1943 these included the Statistics and Reports Division, the Exporters' Service Division, the Appeals Committee, and the Trade Relations Advisor's unit. Before November 1942 all except the last were elements of the Export Control Branch of the Board. The New York Office of the Board was an extension of the Exporters Service Division in that area.

The records of the Office of Exports were transferred to the Foreign Economic Administration upon its establishment. Part of the records transferred were integrated with those of that agency, but others were not added to and remained as separately identifiable series. Described below are records that were almost entirely the work of the Board of Economic Warfare and its predecessors. Notations concerning records integrated with those of the Foreign Economic Administration have been entered below under the appropriate branches of this Office.

Records of the Country Program Branch

This Branch worked out, in collaboration with the Board's foreign missions, a program of exports to each friendly country, served as the focal point in the Board and later in the Office of Economic Warfare for the study of all problems relating to the internal economies of the importing countries, and advised the other branches as to the over-all needs and facilities of the countries concerned. It included two geographic and two operating divisions. The former, known as the Latin-American Exports Division and the Eastern Hemisphere Exports Division, were responsible for carrying out the mission of the Branch in their respective areas. Of the latter two divisions, the Trade Intelligence Division (before November 1942 under the Export Control Branch) collected intelligence material from every source on commercial firms and reviewed licenses, freight space, and transportation priority applications for the purpose of preventing American exports from falling into the hands of Axis sympathizers; and the Field Coordination Division coordinated the operations of the field missions of the Office of Exports and acted as a clearing center for all information originating in the foreign field offices.

The records of this Branch were transferred to and maintained by the Office of Economic Warfare and later the Foreign Economic Administration. Except for the three files described below, they are among the records of the Bureau of Areas of the Foreign Economic Administration described elsewhere in this inventory.

RECORDS OF THE DEPUTY CHIEF. Dec. 1942-Oct. 1943. 5 in. 105

Interoffice memoranda, copies of import recommendation forms of Latin-American countries, and other papers of Rene A. Mays, Deputy Chief of the Country Programs Branch, pertaining mainly to the Decentralization Plan of export control and to functions of the Import Recommendation Section and Release Certificate Section of the Board. Included are résumés of the meetings of the Overall Advisory Committee of the Office of Exports. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

MEMORANDA OF THE DEPUTY CHIEF. 1943. 5 in. 106

Copies of memoranda of George V. Parkhurst exchanged with members of the staff of the Board of Economic Warfare and others on such subjects as office procedures, export controls, field representatives, and other matters. Included are copies of informational memoranda received and processed and printed circulars, administrative issuances, and bulletins on export control. Arranged alphabetically by subject or country.

CABLES. 1943. 10 in. 107

Copies of incoming and outgoing cables exchanged by the Branch with representatives of the Board of Economic Warfare in foreign countries concerning export licenses, requirements, shipping, supplies of materials, shipments, and various other matters in connection with trade between the United States and various foreign countries. Arranged alphabetically by country and thereunder chronologically.

Records of the Requirements Branch

Unlike the Country Programs Branch, which worked from a geographic viewpoint, this Branch (also known for a few months after November 1942 as the Program Supply Branch) determined the requirements of friendly countries from the commodity point of view. It obtained from the War Production Board allocations of or priorities on materials required for export and furnished the divisions of the Operations Branch with the information necessary to guide them in their work. The Raw Material and Semi-Fabricated Division, the Fabricated Division, and the Industrial Projects Division performed the functions of the Branch within their commodity assignments; and the Program Implementation Division, established about February 1943, served as the "materials control office" to the War Production Board, regulating the presentation of requirements data to that agency. Also under the direction of the Branch was the Requisitioning Division and its Compensation Board (units that had existed since November 1940 under predecessor agencies), which located unused critical and strategic materials and placed such materials wherever they would further the war effort, affording the owners just compensation in case of involuntary requisitioning.

Two general files of this Branch are described below. Other records are among those of the Requirements and Supply Branch of the Bureau of Supplies, Foreign Economic Administration, described elsewhere in this inventory.

108

Mainly correspondence with exporters regarding export license applications, export regulations, and export procedures, and with other Government agencies regarding export policy, interagency cooperation, censorship, and representation on committees. Included are weekly activity reports of divisions of the Branch and some materials on office administration. Most of the materials are dated in June and July 1942. Arranged in accordance with a subject-numeric filing system, a classification manual for which is available in the National Archives.

GENERAL FILE. Dec. 1941-Jan. 1942. 2 ft.

Interoffice memoranda, reports, and correspondence pertaining mainly to applications for export licenses and related matters such as license revocations, license amendments, and shipments. Included are some memoranda on administrative matters and office organization. Arranged in accordance with a subject-numeric filing system, a classification manual for which is available in the National Archives. The file appears to be incomplete.

Records of the Operations Branch

Utilizing the information supplied by the Country Programs and Requirements Branches, the divisions of this Branch (the principal inheritor of the functions of the Export Control Branch) examined applications for export licenses pertaining to the commodities assigned to them, and determined whether to approve or deny the licenses. The divisions that were in the Branch from November 1942 through October 1943 were the Machinery and Equipment, Metals and Minerals, Health Supplies and Chemicals, General Products, and Technical Data Divisions. The Rubber Division was established about February 1943.

The records of this Branch and its successor in the Office of Economic Warfare were taken over by the Requirements and Supply Branch of the Bureau of Supplies, Foreign Economic Administration. Those consolidated with records of the Foreign Economic Administration are described under that agency. Described below are files that were mainly created by this Branch.

GENERAL FILE OF THE TECHNICAL DATA LICENSE DIVISION (NEW YORK OFFICE).
1942-43. 15 in. 117

Copies of outgoing letters, interoffice memoranda, and reports of the New York office of the Technical Data License Division, all relating to the issuance of unlimited licenses for the export of technical data. Arranged by subject and thereunder chronologically.

Records of the Transportation Branch

This Branch, an outgrowth of the Transportation Controls Division of the Export Control Branch, provided a general transportation service for other branches. It obtained shipping space from the War Shipping Administration and arranged priorities for particular shipments in terms of the urgency indicated by the license issuing units.

The National Archives has a small quantity of records of James B. Herzog, Chief of the Transportation Controls Division. Other records of the Branch were integrated with those of the Transportation and Storage Branch of the Bureau of Supplies, Foreign Economic Administration, described elsewhere in this inventory.

RECORDS OF JAMES B. HERZOG. 1941-42. 1 ft. 118

Correspondence, memoranda, special reports, and statistical data of James B. Herzog, Chief of the Transportation Branch's predecessor, the Transportation Controls Division, dealing with shipping, port facilities, and other transportation problems of concern to the Board of Economic Warfare and its predecessor agencies. Arranged at one time by subject but now disarranged.

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF IMPORTS

See page 49A.

This Office was established on April 16, 1942, to administer the control over imports vested in the Board of Economic Warfare on April 13, 1942. It issued directives to the Metals Reserve Company, the Commodity Credit Corporation, the Defense Supplies Corporation, the Defense Plants Corporation, and the United States Commercial Company (all subsidiaries of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation) to purchase strategic and critical materials abroad. The Office was also responsible for the receipt from foreign governments of commodities constituting reciprocal aid (reverse lend-lease); and it served as liaison between the Board of Economic Warfare and the Combined Raw Materials Board.

Staff officers in this Office included an Economic Adviser and an Agricultural Adviser. The major subdivisions of the Office in April 1942 were the Development, Industrial Engineering, and Procurement Branches. By October 1942 the Industrial Engineering Branch had been transferred to the Office of Economic Research Analysis and the Foreign Trade Technical Services Branch had been established. The name of the Procurement Branch was changed to General Commodities Branch before March 1943, with the newly established Areas Branch receiving the Preclusive Buying Division from the former Branch; and the Development Branch became the Metals and Minerals Branch when the Rubber Division under it was abolished on February 19, 1943, and the functions pertaining to rubber imports were turned over to the Rubber Development Corporation created at that time. The branches and divisions discussed below remained in existence until the reorganization under the Foreign Economic Administration in October 1943.

The National Archives has in its custody one small series of records of the Economic Adviser of the Office of Imports. Other records of the Office of Imports were incorporated into the files of the Foreign Procurement and Development Branch of the Bureau of Supplies, Foreign Economic Administration, described elsewhere in this inventory.

RECORDS OF THE ECONOMIC ADVISER. 1942-43. 10 in. 119

Correspondence, memoranda, reports, and other papers of T. J. Kreps, Chief Economic Adviser of the Office of Imports, dealing with import programs and development projects with respect to various foreign countries. Arranged at one time by subject but now disarranged.

Records of the Metals and Minerals Branch

This Branch was responsible for the procurement of strategic metals and minerals and the development of new sources. Among the metals, it was most concerned with tin, copper, chrome, tantalum, mica, lead, and zinc. The Branch included three commodity divisions, the Non-Ferrous Metals,

Board of Economic Warfare.
Office of Exports.
Project Branch.

RECORDS RELATING TO PROJECTS, 1942-1943.

the Ferrous-Alloy Metals, and the Industrial Minerals Divisions, and also the Technical Services Division. The directives issued by the Branch regarding procurement of metals and minerals were directed chiefly to the Metals Reserve Company.

The records of this Branch were inherited by the Foreign Procurement and Development Branch of the Bureau of Supplies, Foreign Economic Administration; following the termination of the latter agency, they were allocated to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Records of the General Commodities Branch

This Branch was established to have primary jurisdiction over the importation of most commodities other than metals, minerals, and rubber. Among its commodity programs were those for textiles, hides, skins, balsa wood, mahogany, cinchona (for quinine), red squill, fats and oils, carbon black, sisal, henequen, abaca, and jute. The Branch initiated directives chiefly to the Defense Supplies Corporation and the Commodity Credit Corporation. It comprised the Foodstuffs, Textiles, and Miscellaneous Commodities Divisions. Among the activities of the Branch were the stimulation of fiber production in Central America, the bulk buying of jute in India, the stimulation of cinchona bark importing from South America, and participation by the United States in the Joint Hide Control Office, which handled hide purchases for the United Nations.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation received the records of this Branch. A small collection of progress reports of the Branch, assembled by the Historian of the Foreign Economic Administration, are described under the Administration's Records Analysis Division.

Records of the Area Branch

Organized for the most part into geographic divisions rather than commodity divisions, this Branch was concerned not only with import activities but also with the coordination of the over-all policies of the Board of Economic Warfare in its areas of operation. Its South Pacific Division assisted the Navy Department in the administration of a program to increase food production for the benefit of the armed forces of the United States in that area and also to produce certain vital metals and other commodities on the islands. The African Division cleared communications from all offices of the Board with respect to exports, imports, and other aspects of economic warfare in Africa, especially in North Africa. Although organized and ready to go into operation, the Far Eastern Division was largely a "paper" organization during the life of the Board of Economic Warfare. The General Areas Division serviced the needs of foreign field offices of the Board with respect to imports and also coordinated import activities in Central America, China, and Mexico. The Preclusive Operations Division (known before 1943 as the Preclusive Buying Division), established in May 1942, engaged in preclusive buying abroad, chiefly in Spain, Portugal, and Turkey. It worked closely with the United States

Commercial Company, the field agents of which did the actual buying. The Division was advised by the Office of Economic Warfare Analysis, which made studies to determine what commodities should be bought preclusively in neutral and enemy countries.

The records of this Branch were incorporated with the records of the Foreign Economic Administration. They were transferred to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation when the Administration was terminated in 1945. Some records relating to the Branch's preclusive buying operations in Turkey, South America, and elsewhere are among the records of the Bureau of Areas of the Foreign Economic Administration.

Records of the Foreign Trade Technical Service Branch

To provide services for the above branches, certain staff divisions and units were taken from the office of the Assistant Director in charge of the Office of Imports and the office of the Chief of that Office and established as divisions in this Branch. Thus the Transportation Division and the Materials Statistics Division (the name of which was changed to Central Analysis and Reports Division) were transferred to the Branch from the office of the Chief between July and September 1942; and the Field Supervision Staff of the Assistant Director's office became the Field Supervisory Division during that period. By February 1943 the Equipment Exports Staff of the Assistant Director's office had become the Equipment Exports Division. These divisions were responsible for the recruitment, instruction, and supervision of persons sent on missions abroad and the assembling of statistics on sources of raw materials, contracts, and shipments and deliveries. The Transportation Division arranged for the movement of materials between foreign inland areas and foreign ports, obtained shipping space from the War Shipping Administration, and performed the functions of a transportation agent in facilitating the movement of Government imports within the United States. In order to promote the production of imports by foreign companies, the Equipment Exports Division provided these companies with the necessary equipment to produce the strategic materials contracted for by the United States. To this end the Division worked closely with the War Production Board in obtaining supplies for American manufacturers of the needed equipment. Moreover, it was instrumental in the establishment in several countries of Mine Supply Control Districts to distribute supplies needed by mines that were producing ore for the United States.

The records of this Branch were integrated with records of the Transportation and Storage Branch and the Foreign Procurement and Development Branch of the Foreign Economic Administration's Bureau of Supplies. When the Administration was abolished, part of the records were allocated to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the remainder went to the Departments of State and Commerce.

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF ECONOMIC WARFARE ANALYSIS

In April 1942 the four geographic divisions established in November 1941 under the Economic Defense Board were placed under the newly created Office of Economic Warfare Analysis. Within the Office were also established an Economic Intelligence Division and several administrative units. Toward the end of 1942 the Office was reorganized, and in place of the five divisions there were established three branches with divisions thereunder as explained below. During the period of its existence the Office had four main objectives: (1) to direct the use of American economic weapons in tightening the British-American blockade of the European continent; (2) to analyze and provide economic information for the Armed Forces in connection with bombing objectives, the economic potential of the enemy, overseas supply sources, and the economic administration of re-occupied territories; (3) to supply all elements of the Board of Economic Warfare with technical services in the fields of industrial engineering, petroleum, economic intelligence, and cartographic work; and (4) to recommend to the Executive Director ways of dealing with questions of major economic warfare policy referred to the Board proper under the chairmanship of the Vice President and the several agencies represented thereon.

The records of this Office were consolidated with records of several offices of the Foreign Economic Administration, among them the Enemy Branch of the Bureau of Areas, the Office of Economic Programs, and the Requirements and Supply Branch of the Bureau of Supplies, described elsewhere in this inventory. Other information regarding records of the Office is given below in the descriptions of the branches and divisions of the Office.

Records of the Blockade and Supply Branch

This Branch was responsible for the first objective of the Office and part of the second mentioned above. Through its Blockade, Reoccupation, and Supply and Resources Divisions, the Branch made trade agreements with neutral countries (in close cooperation with the State Department), and passed on applications for permission to export to them. It made studies of and recommendations relative to such problems as Axis cartel connections, the reconstruction of areas liberated from the Axis, and foreign sources of supply for the armed forces.

Most of the records of this Branch were integrated with records of the Enemy Branch of the Bureau of Areas and Office of Economic Programs of the Foreign Economic Administration, which are described elsewhere in this inventory.

Records of the Enemy Branch

This Branch provided assistance in war planning by making studies of the economy of enemy countries for use in estimating the enemy's war potential and in determining bombing objectives that were most vulnerable from an economic viewpoint. In order to supply the Branch's Economic Objectives and Economic Potential Divisions with new sources of intelligence, its Economic Intelligence Division interviewed refugees, returned travelers, American business firms, and representatives of various Allied agencies (as did the Division of Foreign Activity Correlation of the State Department and the Foreign Nationalities Branch of the Office of Strategic Services for their agencies).

The records of this Branch were incorporated with the records of the Enemy Branch of the Bureau of Areas, Foreign Economic Administration. Following the termination of the Foreign Economic Administration, they were transferred to the Department of State.

Records of the Technical Branch

The third objective of the Office mentioned above was the concern of the two divisions of this Branch and of the Industrial Engineering Division, the Project Operations Staff (formerly the Cartographic Section), and the War Trade Staff of the Office of the Assistant Director of Economic Warfare Analysis. The records of the Branch were transferred to and made a part of the records of the Bureau of Supplies and the Office of Management Services of the Foreign Economic Administration described elsewhere in this inventory.

International Air Transport Division

This Division of the Technical Branch surveyed air routes, arranged with the Army Air Forces to use its facilities to fly strategic imports to the United States, cooperated with the War Production Board in establishing priorities for airborne imports, and directed agents acting as cargo expeditors at airports abroad. The Miami Office of the Board of Economic Warfare handled the work of the Division in that area. All records of the Division were transferred to and made a part of the records of the Bureau of Supplies of the Foreign Economic Administration described elsewhere in this inventory.

Petroleum Division

The second division of the Branch, the Petroleum Division, was a substantially autonomous unit of the Board of Economic Warfare, handling as a whole the economic warfare aspects of petroleum. It made studies of the enemy's estimated oil production, provided advice on methods of destroying enemy refineries and otherwise limiting enemy oil supplies, directed United States cooperation with interallied oil committees, approved oil export licenses and licenses for the export of oil-producing machinery for friendly producers abroad, and facilitated oil purchases for the United Nations.

The records of the Petroleum Division are described with those of its successor, the Petroleum Division of the Requirements and Supply Branch, Bureau of Supplies, Foreign Economic Administration.

Industrial Engineering Division

Related to the activities of the Technical Branch were those of the Industrial Engineering Division, which was directly under the Assistant Director of the Office. This Division secured information about Allied and enemy industry, production, transportation, power, and power distribution; aided in forming technical missions to foreign countries and assisted technical missions from the United Nations to the United States in locating themselves in American industry; and encouraged and assisted private research foundations and other Government agencies in developing substitutes to replace critical materials.

The records of this Division were consolidated with the records of the Engineering Service of the Requirements and Supply Branch, Bureau of Supplies, Foreign Economic Administration, and following the termination of the Foreign Economic Administration were transferred to the Department of Commerce.

RECORDS OF FOREIGN FIELD MISSIONS

The functions relating to imports assigned to the Board of Economic Warfare on April 13, 1942, necessitated the dispatch of technical representatives abroad. At first the Board worked through and utilized the facilities, including capital and personnel, of the subsidiary corporations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The representatives sent abroad by the Board itself were under the direct supervision of the chiefs of the diplomatic missions of the State Department in their respective areas.

On January 19, 1943, the Board divided the functions relating to the procurement and production of imported commodities between corporate subsidiaries of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (the Defense Supplies and Defense Plant Corporations, the Metals Reserve Company, and the United States Commercial Company) and the foreign representatives of the Board. The Board order stated that, effective February 25, 1943, "the negotiation, preparation, supervision, and administration both in the United States and abroad of all existing or future imported materials contracts financed by any of the above-named agencies, including development, preclusive operations and related activities, but not including the corporate execution of contracts, the disbursement of funds, the necessary accounting with respect to such disbursements, or the acceptance of delivery of commodities and materials, shall be carried on by the Office of Imports"; and that all correspondence and communications relating thereto should be conducted by the foreign representatives of the Office.

The work of the field representatives, after February 1943, included the development and procurement of foodstuffs, metals and minerals, textiles, and miscellaneous commodities; the effectuation of the blockade and preclusive operations activities of the Board as described above; the prosecution of the cargo-forwarding program once procurement had been accomplished; and the supervision of the decentralized licensing program carried on by the representatives of the American republics in their countries with the assistance of the State Department foreign service personnel.

The records of the foreign field missions of the Board of Economic Warfare were integrated with the mission files of the Office of Economic Warfare and later of the Foreign Economic Administration. When the latter agency was terminated, the mission files were turned over to the nearest United States consulate or embassy.

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF ECONOMIC WARFARE (1943)

By an Executive order of July 15, 1943, the Office of Economic Warfare, headed by a Director, Leo T. Crowley, was established in the Office for Emergency Management. To it were transferred the functions, personnel, and records of the Board of Economic Warfare, which was abolished by the order. No part of the funds of the Office were to be used for the procurement of services, supplies, or equipment outside the United States except in execution of general economic programs or policies approved by the War Mobilization Committee, headed by the Director of War Mobilization. This Executive order also transferred from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the Office of Economic Warfare the United States Commercial Company, the Rubber Development Corporation, the Petroleum Reserves Corporation, and the Export-Import Bank of Washington, together with their personnel and records and also such personnel and records of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as were used in the administration of these corporations, to be determined by the Director of the Bureau of the Budget. (These corporations are described in this inventory under the Foreign Economic Administration.) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation was directed, at the request of the Director of the Office of Economic Warfare, to supply funds to the transferred corporations on such terms and in such amounts as the Director of War Mobilization might determine.

The Office of Economic Warfare was in existence for only about six weeks; its functions and administrative organization were substantially those of its predecessors. By an Executive order of September 25, 1943, the Office of Economic Warfare and certain other agencies, together with their personnel and records, were transferred to and consolidated in the Foreign Economic Administration, which was established by that order. The records of the Office were later absorbed into the records of various units of the Foreign Economic Administration and are described as such elsewhere in this inventory. Those of the Executive Director of the Office are with those of the Office of the Administrator of the Foreign Economic Administration.

RECORDS CREATED IN THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE (1940-43)

The subordinate units of the Department of State that are described below are those that were among the predecessors of the Foreign Economic Administration.

RECORDS OF THE DIVISION OF CONTROLS

On November 22, 1938, the Division of Controls was established as the successor to the Office of Arms and Munitions Control. The Division handled problems relating to the international traffic in arms for which the Secretary of State was responsible. It registered agents in the United States of foreign principals as provided by an act of June 8, 1938; registered manufacturers, exporters, and importers of arms, ammunition, and implements of war; and issued licenses required for the exportation of these materials and tin-plate scrap and helium gas. The Chief of the Division served as Executive Secretary of the National Munitions Control Board and performed for the Secretary of State his functions as Chairman of the Board. From July 2, 1940, to September 15, 1941, the Yellow License Unit of the Division, in accordance with directives from the Office of the Administrator of Export Control, issued licenses for the export of defense materials subjected to export control by a Presidential proclamation of July 2, 1940, and later proclamations. On September 15, 1941, that function was transferred to the Economic Defense Board. The Division was abolished on October 8, 1941, and its remaining functions, except for those relating to the registration of alien agents (which were placed in the Division of Foreign Activity Correlation), were transferred to the Board of Economic Operations, which was established on that date.

RECORDS OF THE BOARD OF ECONOMIC OPERATIONS

The Board of Economic Operations, established in the Department of State on October 8, 1941, was composed of two Assistant Secretaries of State, the Adviser of International Economic Affairs, and "other officers of the Department" designated by the Secretary of State. Assistant Secretaries Dean Acheson and Adolf A. Berle, Jr., were Chairman and Vice Chairman respectively. The Board was concerned with the responsibilities of the Department that related to foreign economic affairs. These included the conduct of the "foreign policy aspects" of the Export Control Act of July 2, 1940, and the acts of June 28, 1940, and May 31, 1941, "insofar as priorities and allocations for exports were concerned," and the Lend-Lease Act of March 11, 1941. It performed for the Secretary of State his functions as Chairman of the National Munitions Control Board, and was responsible for registering manufacturers, exporters, and importers of arms, ammunition, and implements of war and for issuing export licenses for those materials and for tin-plate scrap and helium gas. In connection with those duties, the Board maintained contact, through various divisions of the State Department, with the representatives of the Department abroad and with the representatives of foreign countries in the United States. It also maintained "liaison with other departments and agencies of the Government concerned with the administration of the above-mentioned acts." The following divisions of the Department of State were "component parts" of the Board of Economic Operations: the Division of Commercial Policy and Agreements, the Division of Exports and Defense Aid, the Division of Defense Materials, the Division of Foreign Funds Control, the Financial Division, the Division of World Trade Intelligence, the Studies and Statistics Division, and the Division of Exports and Requirements.

On June 24, 1943, the Board of Economic Operations was abolished and was succeeded by the Office of Foreign Economic Coordination. The records of the Board and of its divisions remained a part of the general records of the Department of State.

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF FOREIGN ECONOMIC COORDINATION

The Office of Foreign Economic Coordination was established in the Department of State on June 24, 1943, in accordance with a letter from the President of June 3, 1943, to the Secretary of State, for the coordination of "(1) activities related to economic affairs in liberated areas and the facilitation of military civilian cooperation in regard thereto, and of (2) the foreign policy aspects of wartime economic controls and operations." It inherited from the Board of Economic Operations the four divisions that were concerned with carrying out its second objective (the Division of Defense Materials, Foreign Funds Control, Exports and Requirements, and World Trade Intelligence), and it created several committees and other units to accomplish the first.

The plan of the President, enclosed in the letter of June 3, 1943, was followed in establishing the organization of the Office. Under a Director (an Assistant Secretary of State) and an Executive Director, there were three Deputy Directors, one each to plan (1) activities related to liberated areas, (2) the recruitment and training of personnel for services in liberated areas, and (3) the coordination of foreign policy aspects of wartime economic controls and operations. The Director of the Office was the Chairman of the Interdepartmental Policy Committee for Liberated Areas, which included representatives from the State, Treasury, War, and Navy Departments; the Board of Economic Warfare (after July 15, 1943, the Office of Economic Warfare); the Office of Lend-Lease Administration; and the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations of the Department of State. The Committee determined high policy for all agencies operating in liberated areas, and it established a Coordinating Committee consisting of representatives from the same agencies for operational purposes. In addition there were area subcommittees and other subcommittees under the Chairman of the Coordinating Committee, including the Subcommittee on Recruiting and Training. These committees were engaged in establishing a plan or standard operating procedure under which the activities of agencies concerned with liberated areas could be carried out when the Office was abolished.

By an Executive order of September 25, 1943, such personnel and functions of the Office of Foreign Economic Coordination as the Bureau of the Budget determined to be related to areas liberated from Axis control were transferred to the Foreign Economic Administration.

The records relating to the "liberated areas activities" of the Office were transferred to the Foreign Economic Administration and are described as part of the records of the Administration elsewhere in this inventory. The other records of the Office remained in the Department; some are in its central files and others were dispersed among the records of successor offices and divisions in the Department.

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF FOREIGN RELIEF AND REHABILITATION OPERATIONS

This Office (OFRRO) was established in the Department of State on December 4, 1942, pursuant to a Presidential letter of December 3, 1942, allocating funds to the Department "for reconstruction and rehabilitation of territories occupied by the armed forces." The functions of the Office, as conceived by the President, were stated in his two letters of March 19, 1943, and of June 3, 1943, to the Director of the Office and the Secretary of State respectively. In liberated areas the Office was to distribute relief goods and goods for the production of basic civilian necessities; to provide technical advice and services with respect to relief and civilian economy; and to facilitate the restoration of agriculture, housing, and transportation. It was authorized to issue directives to the Government agencies that were equipped to aid in relief work and to utilize the facilities of private organizations and individuals. In the field, the foreign missions of the Office were to be under the control of the military authorities, and in matters of foreign policy they were to be guided by the directives of the Secretary of State. Contemplating the establishment of a United Nations relief organization, the President further instructed that the work of the Office in the field be "geared to that of our allies." To accomplish these objectives the Office was authorized to draw funds from the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, much in the same manner as did a foreign lend-lease mission.

On the same day that the Office was established Herbert H. Lehman was appointed as its Director. Shortly thereafter various divisions were established, and by March 1943 the agency consisted of (1) the Office of the Director, including the Division of Public Information and the General Counsel's Office; (2) the Office of the First Deputy Director, responsible through its Division of International Relations and its Division of Special Relief Problems for formulating plans for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration and special relief problems; (3) the Office of the Second Deputy Director, which handled budgetary, fiscal, and administrative matters; and (4) the Office of the Executive Officer. Under the last named office were five major units: The Division of Studies and Progress Reports, which compiled data for operational and historical use and maintained the records of the agency; the Division of Program and Requirement, which planned relief requirements for the liberated areas; the Division of Field Operations; the Division of Supply and Transport; and the Division of Personnel and Training. The agency remained, throughout its existence under the State Department, a "higher-policy determining, planning and administrative office," preparing itself for the role its officials were to play in the establishment of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

By an Executive order of September 25, 1943, the Office was merged with other agencies to form the Foreign Economic Administration, and its records were transferred to the Administration. In November 1943, when the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration was established, the former officials of the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations who were transferred to that agency took with them a portion of the records. Most of the records that remained with the Foreign Economic Administration became part of the records of its bureaus and offices and are described elsewhere in this inventory. Described below are records that were mainly the work of the Office.

Correspondence, memoranda, reports, copies of minutes of meetings, and other materials dealing with such subjects as supplies, travel, relief, communications, interrelations with other agencies, refugees, and program planning with respect to assistance to liberated areas. Included are administrative orders and memoranda and materials on the budget and appropriations. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

ADDRESSEE FILE OF LETTERS SENT. 1943-Jan. 1944. 2 ft. 125

Copies of letters sent, most of which are replies to individuals seeking employment with the Office, and others to private firms in reply to requests for information concerning specifications, procurement, and shipment of commodities to overseas areas. Arranged alphabetically by name of addressee.

LETTERS SENT TO GOVERNMENT AGENCIES. 1943-Jan. 1944. 7 in. 126

Copies of letters sent to other Government agencies regarding programs of the Office and interagency liaison relations in regard to planning, procuring, and shipping supplies to liberated and other areas abroad. Arranged alphabetically by Government agency and thereunder chronologically.

INTEROFFICE MEMORANDA. 1943. 1 ft. 127

Copies of interoffice memoranda sent to various personnel of the Office and to other offices of the Department of State pertaining to all activities of the Office. Arranged alphabetically by code letters that were assigned to personnel. A copy of this code index is filed with the records.

RECORDS OF THE FOREIGN ECONOMIC ADMINISTRATION (1943-45)

In order to unify and consolidate governmental activities relating to foreign economic affairs, the Foreign Economic Administration, known also as FEA, was established by an Executive order of September 25, 1943. The functions, personnel, and records of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, the Office of Economic Warfare (together with the four corporations attached thereto), the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations of the Department of State, and the foreign economic operations of the Office of Foreign Economic Coordination of the Department of State were transferred to the Administration. By an Executive order of October 6, 1943, "the functions of the War Food Administration and the Commodity Credit Corporation with respect to procurement and development of food, food machinery, and other food facilities, in foreign countries" were transferred to the Foreign Economic Administration. Furthermore, as military operations permitted, the Administration assumed "responsibility for and control of all activities of the United States Government in liberated areas with respect to supplying the requirements of and procuring materials in such areas."

The Foreign Economic Administration was thus responsible for the wartime functions of export control, foreign procurement, lend-lease, reverse lend-lease, participation in foreign relief and rehabilitation, and economic warfare including foreign economic intelligence. It was required to conform to the foreign policy of the United States as defined by the Secretary of State in exercising its functions and to obtain from the War Mobilization Committee approval of general economic programs or policies for which it desired to procure services, supplies, or equipment outside the United States.

During the first four or five months after the Foreign Economic Administration was established, a consolidation was effected of the agencies transferred to it. By April 1945, the organization shown below had been established, and remained unchanged except in relatively minor detail. On September 27, 1945, the Foreign Economic Administration was abolished by Executive order (effective October 20) and its functions, personnel, and records were divided among five other agencies. The introductory statement at the beginning of this inventory contains information concerning the distribution of its functions and records.

Upon the creation of the Foreign Economic Administration the records of its predecessors were distributed among the organizational units having responsibility for the functions concerned. Information concerning this distribution and description of series of records in the National Archives that were not interfiled with records created by the Administration have been given earlier in this inventory. Records of predecessor agencies that were interfiled with records created by the Administration are described hereafter with those of the units that maintained the records.

The maintenance of central files of official correspondence and documents of the Foreign Economic Administration and the servicing, retirement, and disposal of records was the responsibility of the Records Division of the Office of Management Services. Because of the fact that offices of the Administration were housed in a number of widely separated buildings, some 30 or more "records stations" (central files units) were established adjacent to or within space occupied by the offices served. Over 15 of these stations serviced records of the Bureau of Supplies, 9 the Bureau of Areas, and 6 the staff offices.

As a general rule, each of these filing stations classified and maintained records according to a subject-numeric classification system, although there were exceptions made to meet the requirements of the office served. In addition to the classified central files in which records were arranged according to the "Filing Manual Instructions and Rules for Alphabetizing," each records station also maintained auxiliary files, generally of carbon copies of outgoing letters and memoranda of the office served, as follows:

- (1) A Government agency file containing copies of letters sent to other Government agencies and filed alphabetically by agency.
- (2) A mission or field office file of letters sent to the Administration's missions and field representatives in foreign countries, filed alphabetically by geographic designations.
- (3) A general file containing copies of all other outgoing communications not in the above two categories, filed alphabetically by name of individual, company, firm, etc.
- (4) A file of copies of intra-agency memoranda arranged alphabetically by name of person to whom addressed.

Most records stations also prepared control slips for each letter, memorandum, report, or other piece of mail received by the office served and maintained them in one or more series. These slips (Correspondence Record Form, FEA-80) provided a control and correspondence record of all incoming communications. For each piece of mail received, there was listed on this form the name of the originating individual or firm, the date of communication, the date received, the person and office to whom it was routed for action, and a brief digest of subject matter. These forms were also used for incoming cables and airgrams.

For some time after the establishment of the Foreign Economic Administration, security-classified materials were not maintained by the Records Division, although this Division did have certain security functions. The security-classified documents were maintained by the Document Security Section of the Special Areas Branch, Bureau of Areas, until March 7, 1945, when this Section was transferred to the Office of Management Services.

In addition to the above-described central files of the agency, files of correspondence, memoranda, reports, and other papers were maintained by the various officials and offices of the Administration. For these personal and office files there was no established filing arrangement throughout the agency. Most of them, however, are arranged by subject.

The records of the Foreign Economic Administration now in the National Archives include central files (maintained by records stations) for the immediate Office of the Administrator, the Office of Economic Programs, the Office of the General Counsel, the Requirements and Supply Branch (and subordinate divisions thereof), and the Pan American Branch; individual files for various officials of the above-mentioned offices and of the Division of Statistics of the Office of Finance, the Northern European Division of the European Branch, and the British Empire and Middle East Branch; monographs on the Foreign Economic Administration and its predecessors and copies of records assembled by its Historian; and miscellaneous small bodies of records of the Enemy Branch and Transportation and Storage Branch. Other information on records of each major organizational unit of the Foreign Economic Administration, including information concerning the whereabouts of records retained by other agencies, is given below under the organizational units concerned.

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF THE ADMINISTRATOR

This Office included the Administrator, Leo T. Crowley, his immediate assistants, and the six planning and administrative offices described below. As head of the agency the Administrator determined the policies and directed the activities of the Foreign Economic Administration. Directly under him was one assistant in charge of the Office of Public Information, which handled the consolidated functions pertaining to public information transferred to it from the public information divisions of the predecessor agencies; and another assistant, who was in charge of the Clearing Office for Foreign Transactions and Reports, which served the Administrator as his planning and procedures, reporting, and liaison unit.

The National Archives has in its custody the records of the immediate Office of the Administrator and correspondence control slips, which were maintained by the Executive Files Station; newspaper clippings on the Foreign Economic Administration and its predecessors assembled by the Office of Public Information; personnel folders maintained by the Office of Personnel; historical monographs and supporting documents of the Historian of the agency (Office of Budget and Administrative Planning); central files and files of individuals of the Office of Economic Programs and the Office of the General Counsel; statistical registers and records of the statistician of the Office of Finance; and copies of telegrams, economic reports, and correspondence control forms maintained by the Office of Management Services. Other records of the immediate Office of the Administrator are in the Department of Commerce. The files of Henry W. Riley, Deputy Administrator, were transferred by him to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Statements concerning the whereabouts of records of subordinate offices of the Office of the Administrator are given below under the offices concerned.

General Records

SUBJECT FILE OF THE ADMINISTRATOR. Jan. 1942-Oct. 1945. 26 ft. 128

Correspondence of Leo T. Crowley, FEA Administrator, and of Milo Perkins, Executive Director of the Board of Economic Warfare and Office of Economic Warfare, with members of Congress, other Government agencies, private industry, and the general public regarding policy matters in connection with the administration and operations of the above-mentioned agencies, cooperation with other Government agencies on foreign economic operations, legislation, and other matters requiring the attention of the Administrator (or his predecessor). Included are interoffice memoranda, copies of minutes of meetings of intradepartmental and interdepartmental committees, and reports. One part of this file, covering the period January 1942-July 1944, is arranged according to a modified Dewey decimal classification scheme, a copy of which is in the National Archives. The second part of the file, covering the period August 1944-October 1945, is arranged according to a subject-numeric classification scheme, a copy of which is also in the National Archives.

The major classes of the decimal file are as follows:

- Class 000 - General. Material relating to the organization of and cooperation with other Government agencies; conferences, committees, and meetings; FEA missions abroad; and plans and proposals submitted by the general public.
- Class 100 - Administration and services. Materials covering organization, procedures and instructions, budget and fiscal matters, and personnel and personnel actions and administrative and progress reports.
- Class 200 - Land acquisition and reclamation.
- Class 300 - Legislation, corporations, and legal standards. Materials relating to legislation and Executive orders affecting the Foreign Economic Administration and its predecessors, congressional hearings, corporations, and cartels.
- Class 400 - Public finance. Materials relating to appropriations and allotments, the budget and budget hearings, and foreign and domestic currency.
- Class 500 - Internal politics and welfare and civilian defense measures. Materials relating to censorship, politics and propaganda, professional and technical training, labor, and educational institutions.
- Class 600 - Military, naval, and post-war operations. Materials pertaining to supplies for liberated areas, prisoners of war, reconstruction in war areas, and postwar plans.
- Class 700 - Transportation and communications. Materials of a general character relating primarily to shipping and air and rail transportation.
- Class 800 - Manufacturing and production. Materials pertaining to factories and plants, agriculture, livestock, forestry, and public utilities.

RECORDS RELATING TO SECURITY, INTELLIGENCE, AND ORGANIZATION, 1941-1945.

P-13

This series consists of reports, correspondence, memorandums, and other types of documents concerning document security, economic intelligence, and proposals regarding reorganization to achieve better control of communications. Other documents pertain to coordination of the field service and Washington Office of the Board of Economic Warfare (BEW), coordination of the BEW field service with the Foreign Service, personnel, and travel, as well as to exports, imports, lend-lease, war materials requirements, and general economic conditions.

Documentation pre-dating the establishment of the FEA in September 1943 reflects the activities of predecessor organizations. [1 box]

Records of the Office of the Budget and Administrative Planning

The budgetary and administrative planning units of the Office of Economic Warfare, the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, and the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations were transferred to and consolidated in this Office. Through its Records Analysis, Budget, Staff Offices, Areas, and Supplies Divisions, the Office assisted the Administrator on problems of organization, operating responsibilities, management methods and procedures, financial planning, and budgetary analysis.

The National Archives has the records of only one division of this Office, the Records Analysis Division, which are described below. Other records of the Office have been retained by the Departments of State and Commerce, the agencies that inherited them.

Records Analysis Division

This Division was established in December 1943 in the Office of the Budget and Administrative Planning to be responsible for the preparation of a history or histories of the Foreign Economic Administration. It took over and continued historical activities that had been begun as early as 1942 in both the Office of Lend-Lease Administration and the Board of Economic Warfare. At first these activities were primarily those of assembling documents or copies of documents considered to be of outstanding historical value, and some information was obtained in interviews. Later, the writing of a series of histories was undertaken.

When the Foreign Economic Administration was terminated in November 1945 the lend-lease historical project was transferred to the Office of the Foreign Liquidation Commissioner of the Department of State, where the work of writing the "History of Lend-Lease" was continued until, with a few chapters not yet completed, the project was terminated in February 1947 (see the last section of this inventory for a description of the "History of Lend-Lease" and its supporting documents). The other history-writing activities of the Records Analysis Division were transferred to the State Department's Division of Research and Publication. They were terminated in June 1946.

All known records of the Records Analysis Division, including its administrative records, histories prepared by it or its predecessors or successors or prepared for it in other organizational units of the Administration, and extensive collections of documents copied or removed from the records of other organizational units, are in the National Archives.

REPORTS, STUDIES, AND HANDBOOKS, 1943-1945.

P-11

This series consists of processed and typescript reports, studies, and handbooks created by the Board of Economic Warfare, Lend-Lease Administration, Foreign Economic Administration, and collaborating United States Government agencies concerning economic issues in allied, occupied, and enemy countries. Also among the records are manuals, newsletters, glossaries, and organizational charts, as well as memorandums and weekly operations reports. Many of the reports originated within units of the Bureau of Areas of the Foreign Economic Administration. The records cover the entire range of war-related economic matters, including oil and other raw materials, imports and exports, civilian populations, occupation issues, economic structure, resources, allocation and consumption, trade, vulnerabilities of enemy states, and post-war objectives. [49 boxes]

Records of the Office of Finance

Accounting, auditing, financial, statistical, and related activities were the concern of this Office. It represented a consolidation of the units that had performed those functions in the predecessor agencies. The Office performed its duties through its Appropriation Accounts Division, Lend-Lease and United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration Fiscal Division, Statistics Division, Corporation Accounts Division, and Audit Division.

The records of the Office, consisting of bookkeeping and accounting files, correspondence, and the like, were distributed after the termination of the Foreign Economic Administration to other agencies as follows: (1) The records of the Appropriation Accounts Division were transferred to the Department of Commerce in connection with liquidation activities; (2) the records of the Corporation Accounts Division and Audit Division were transferred to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; (3) the records of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration and Lend-Lease Fiscal Division were transferred to the Department of State; and (4) parts of the records of the Statistics Division were transferred to the Department of State and Department of Commerce. Records of the Statistics Division now in the National Archives are described below.

GENERAL FILE OF THE CHIEF STATISTICIAN. 1941-46. 5 ft. 193

Correspondence, memoranda, administrative memoranda, and other papers of John Miles, pertaining to activities and procedures of the Division and its predecessors with respect to the preparation of statistical data on lend-lease exports, the functions and organization of the Statistics Division, and requests for and the transmittal of statistical reports on exports of the United States and licensing activities of the Foreign Economic Administration and its predecessors. Included are a number of reports and graphs on lend-lease exports, United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration exports, analyses of the dollar value of items transferred, and related subjects. Arranged at one time alphabetically by subject but now badly disarranged.

REFERENCE FILE OF THE STATISTICS DIVISION. 1941-45. 5 ft. 194

Copies of printed and processed tables of conversion units, lists of conversion factors, code lists of shipping parts and commodity classifications, samples of reporting forms, standard density and volumetric tables, technical manuals, revisions of lend-lease statistical codes, country codes, and similar materials used by the Division in the preparation of statistical reports and graphs for the Division of Defense Aid Reports, the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, and the Foreign Economic Administration. No arrangement.

Included are some notes on staff meetings of the Office of Economic Programs and reports on staff assignments and progress. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

Records of the Office of Management Services

The housekeeping units of the four agencies that were merged to form the Foreign Economic Administration contributed to the establishment of this Office. It included Procurement and Supply, Field Management, Maintenance and Operations, Communications, and Maps and Graphics Divisions. Its Records Division was responsible for the administration of the several semi-independent filing sections and units engaged in the maintenance and servicing of the records of the Administration; prepared and recommended file procedures for domestic and foreign use; trained certain foreign field personnel in the establishment and maintenance of files; and planned, directed, and carried out a records retirement program for the agency. The security-classified documents of the Foreign Economic Administration were handled by the Intelligence Documents Control Division.

The records of this Office other than those described below are in the custody of the Department of Commerce and the Department of State. The Department of Commerce has the bulk of the records, with the exception of those of the Intelligence Documents Control Division, which are in the Department of State. The Records Division had only 69 feet of housekeeping records. The central files of the Foreign Economic Administration, which were maintained by "records stations" for the offices served, are described elsewhere in the appropriate sections of this inventory.

RECORDS OF THE INTELLIGENCE CLEARANCE OFFICER. 1943-44. 15 in. 223

File of Joran Birkeland, head of the Economic Programs Clearance Unit of the Document Security Section of the Foreign Economic Administration and its predecessors, consisting mainly of memoranda exchanged with individuals within the agency and with other Government agencies in regard to security-classified materials and information for researchers of the Office of Economic Programs and its predecessor organizational unit, the War Trade Staff. Included are copies of reports of the unit and some memoranda on the divisions and procedures of the Administration's intelligence organization. Arranged alphabetically by subject or office and occasionally thereunder by name of correspondent.

The Enemy Branch performed an intelligence gathering function during World War II which passed through a number of organizational parents before finally ending up in the Foreign Economic Administration, Bureau of Areas. The intelligence gathering function continued as the rest of the organization was in transition between September 25, 1943 and November 13, 1943. During this period the Enemy Branch functioned under the control of the Foreign Economics Administration. In November of 1943, the Office of Emergency Management was reorganized and the Bureau of Areas was created. The Enemy Branch was then placed under the Bureau of Areas administrative jurisdiction. The Enemy Branch performing an intelligence function and its existence was administratively clouded within a variety of Office of Emergency Management agency functions. [1 box]

NUMBERED INTELLIGENCE SUBJECT FILES ("DOCUMENT SECURITY FILES"), 1942-1945.

This series consists of reports, memorandums, publications, charts, tables, maps and photographs that include information on a variety of subjects relating to the economic conditions in specific countries, mostly Axis and Axis-dominated. The reports cover topics such as production capabilities, the flow of goods and commodities, strategic war material, captured enemy equipment and weapons, the availability of foodstuff for specific locations, the extent that exportable commodities exist in a region or country, the establishment of economic assistance programs in selected countries, annual economic assessments, and agricultural conditions.

The majority of the reports come from U.S. and Allied agencies including field offices of the BEW and FEA, the Department of State, the Department of Justice, the War Department, the Navy Department, the Department of Commerce, the Office of Strategic Services (OSS), the War Production Board (WPB), the Office of War Information (OWI), the (British) Ministry of Economic Warfare, British intelligence organizations, the French Committee of National Liberation, and others. Also included are correspondence from United States companies reporting on their trade activities with individual foreign nations and providing insights into economic conditions observed by these company representatives in these foreign countries.

These files were handled by the Document Security Section (DSS) and were known within the FEA and predecessor organizations as the "Document Security files," the "DSS files" or the "Economic Intelligence File."

Correspondence, memoranda, copies of agreements, contracts, audit reports, statements of claims, cargo lists, ships manifests, and other documents relating to claims filed by the owners of cargoes aboard Dutch ships diverted to Australia and to the consequent negotiations and settlements of the claims. A part of this series is the work of the Legal Division of the Office of the Foreign Liquidation Commissioner, Department of State. Arranged in part by subject and in part by name of vessel, but largely unarranged.

MISCELLANEOUS PAPERS OF THE OFFICE OF THE GENERAL COUNSEL. 1945. 246
10 in.

Correspondence, memoranda, reports, export licenses, and other materials relating to legal activities of the Office. No arrangement.

RECORDS OF THE BUREAU OF SUPPLIES

This Bureau was established in November 1943 as a consolidation of the following organizational units of the predecessors of the Foreign Economic Administration: (1) The Office of Exports (except the area divisions of the Country Program Branch), the Office of Imports (including the South Pacific Division but excluding the other four divisions of the Area Branch), and the Industrial Engineering Division and the Technical Branch of the Office of Economic Warfare Analysis of the Office of Economic Warfare; (2) the Office of Operations, the Planning and Development Staff, the Requisitions Control Section of the Office of Foreign Liaison, and the Statistics Branch of the Finance and Statistics Division of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration; (3) the Transport and Warehousing Branch of the Supply and Transport Division of the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations; and (4) the Washington offices transferred from the War Food Administration. The new Bureau cooperated closely with the Bureau of Areas of the Administration, directing its programs within the framework of area determinations.

The Bureau was responsible for the procurement abroad of strategic and critical raw materials; the direction and control of the activities of the United States Commercial Company; the sale of certain surplus materials; the allocation of commodities and the control of licensing for the export of allocated commodities; certain phases of relief and rehabilitation work in foreign countries; investigations and recommendations on engineering problems relating to industrial development in foreign countries, and other engineering services; the performance of certain functions pertaining to the Foreign Economic Administration's food programs; and the flow by air of strategic and critical materials, and many phases of the movement of materials by other carriers.

Most of the records of the Requirements and Supply Branch and part of the records of the Transportation and Storage Branch of the Bureau are now in the National Archives. Information regarding other records and the agencies having custody of them is entered in this inventory, under the appropriate parts of the Bureau's organization.

Records of the Office of the Executive Director

This Office planned and directed the operations of the branches of the Bureau, prepared economic studies pertaining to the Bureau's activities, and administered its subordinate units. It included the Engineering Service and three staff units. The Engineering Service provided technical engineering counsel and services to the Administration on problems of accelerating the production abroad of strategic and critical commodities, and it aided in planning the industrial rehabilitation of Allied countries. Commercial operations on transactions financed by the United States Commercial Company, except the foreign procurement of strategic commodities, were performed by the Commercial Transactions Staff of the Office. The Trade Relations Staff served as the adviser to the Administrator and other high officials of the Foreign Economic Administration on problems relating to foreign trade and handled responsibilities for the Bureau's trade advisory committees. The Program Control Staff informed the branches of the Bureau regarding the status of various procurement programs; provided the Board of Directors of the United States Commercial Company and other officials with current information on authorizations, commitments, contract deliveries, sales, and inventories; and supervised the procurement control records of the agency.

The records of the Office include correspondence, reports, studies, exports compensation status materials, and other papers relating to its activities; data relative to the formation and operation of the various trade advisory committees and the minutes of their meetings; correspondence with individuals engaged in foreign trade; cables and correspondence relating to the purchasing and sales activities of the Commercial Transactions

Staff; invoices, warehouse papers, and other commercial documents; and technical data on problems considered by the Engineering Service. These records were transferred to the Department of Commerce, with the exception of those of the Commercial Transactions Staff, which went to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Records that have been received in the National Archives are described below.

GENERAL FILE OF THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR. 1943-45. 5 ft. 247

Correspondence, memoranda, reports, and other materials of Sidney Scheuer pertaining to the activities and problems of the various units of the Bureau of Supplies, policies of the Foreign Economic Administration with respect to international trade, interagency working agreements, relations with other agencies of the Government, lend-lease, FEA trade missions, trade controls, transportation, surplus property, and other economic matters. Included are activities reports of divisions of the Bureau. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

GENERAL FILE OF THE DEPUTY DIRECTOR. 1944-45. 3 ft. 248

Correspondence, memoranda, reports, copies of minutes of meetings, and other materials of Kurt Lowenstein, dealing with the trade and economy of various foreign countries, FEA economic policies and commodity programs, the licensing of exports, reciprocal aid, post-war trade, economic agreements, cartels, export policy committees, and other matters involved in the operations of the Foreign Economic Administration. Arranged alphabetically, in part by subject and in part by country.

GENERAL FILE OF THE ECONOMIC ADVISER. 1942-45. 2 ft. 249

Correspondence, memoranda, reports, copies of minutes of meetings, and other materials of Lewis Lorwin, dealing with his work in analyzing, evaluating, reviewing, and reporting trade problems, international economic negotiations, post-war readjustments, surplus property disposal, the terms of reference of international economic committees and boards, the resumption of private trade, and other economic matters as they related to the activities, policies, and operations of the Foreign Economic Administration. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

COUNTRY FILE OF THE ECONOMIC ADVISER. 1943-45. 1 ft. 250

Correspondence, memoranda, copies of minutes of meetings, and reports of Lewis Lorwin, dealing with the evaluation, formulation, review, and analysis of the plans, policies, and operations of the Bureau of Supplies as they related to general commercial policy, trade barriers, stockpiles, commodities, production, trade quotas, export control, and the like with respect to foreign countries. Arranged alphabetically by country.

REPORTS AND MEMORANDA OF THE ASSISTANT ECONOMIC ADVISER. 1943-45. 1 ft. 251

Reports and memoranda with related background materials, of David L. Glickman, concerning economic problems and activities as they related to FEA operations and policies which were investigated and reported upon to Lewis Lorwin, the Economic Adviser of the Bureau of Supplies, and others in the Foreign Economic Administration. Some of the subjects discussed in the memoranda and reports are cash reimbursement procedure, the Combined Boards, procurement contracts, economic programs, foreign aid budget, import problems, labor availability and utilization, lend-lease, export licenses, export controls and trade, committees, and tariffs. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

REPORTS AND RELATED SOURCE MATERIALS OF THE ASSISTANT ECONOMIC ADVISER.

1943-45. 2 ft.

Reports, with related materials used in the preparation, of David L. Glickman regarding capital goods industries, budget and finance, production controls, distribution of goods, trade controls, exports, lend-lease, manpower and labor, commodities, price controls and inflation, reciprocal aid, substitute fuels, and other subjects of an economic nature as they related to foreign countries. Arranged alphabetically by country.

GENERAL RECORDS OF THE ENGINEERING SERVICE. 1943-45. 8 in.

Correspondence, memoranda, and reports dealing with investigations, and reports on engineering problems relating to industrial development in foreign countries, the work of technical missions, manufacturing processes, the processing of requisitions for equipment, and related matters such as industrial equipment costs and technical personnel. Included is some material on the organization and personnel of the Service. Arranged alphabetically, in part by country and in part by subject.

REPORTS ON MANUFACTURING PLANTS AND PROCESSES. 1943-45. 3 in.

Records of the Engineering Service, consisting chiefly of reports on manufacturing plants and processes for metals, chemicals, and other products, together with some related memoranda, drawings, and blueprints. Arranged alphabetically by product.

RECORDS CONCERNING EXPORT AND IMPORT TRADE ADVISORY COMMITTEES. 1943-46.

6 ft.

255

A file of the Trade Relations Staff, consisting of copies of minutes of meetings of advisory committees whose membership included representatives of the various industries and trade associations in the United States, with some related correspondence, memoranda, and reports pertaining to committee meetings, recommendations, and membership. Arranged alphabetically, in part by country and in part by subject.

See pages 92A-C.

Records of the Requirements and Supply Branch

This Branch, established in October 1943, presented consolidated foreign, commercial, and lend-lease requirements to the War Production Board or the Combined Petroleum Board in order to obtain allocations; processed individual applications for licenses to export and applications for licenses for the development of special projects abroad (mines, mills, plants, factories, and the like), and reviewed appeals for licenses initially rejected; assisted the Trade Relations Staff of the Bureau in advising the Administra-

Foreign Economic Administration.
Bureau of Supplies.
Office of the Executive Director.
Engineering Service.

SUBJECT AND COUNTRY FILES, 1943-1945

This series consists of letters, memorandums, general reports, historical monographs, regional industrialization studies and technical project reports designed to provide technical analysis of the broad production requirements, needed raw materials, equipment needs, and to provide engineering consultation and services to the Foreign Economic Administration (FEA). The series includes materials on the industrialization in specific fields for quick development in friendly nations with the goal of assisting the Allied cause in supplementing the processing of food and other goods urgently needed for the war effort. Also included are records that document the FEA's activities with regard to economic warfare and for post liberation planning for the restoration of basic services such as providing electrical power, restoring clean drinking water, supplying coal and other fuels, and restoring major transportation arteries.

The records also include correspondence and reports relating to various technical missions to foreign countries. These missions were requested by the country and the records deal with organizing these missions, creating useful technical plans, preparing "Handbooks of Economic Information" on the subject area or country, and providing technical advice on the utilization of local resources to assist in the reconstruction. Some of the countries covered by these records include Ethiopia, Cuba, and China, along with most of the countries formerly under Axis control.

In addition, the series includes reports and correspondence on engineering services surveys conducted by the FEA. These surveys studied the damage to local industry done by the war and furnished a yardstick of the devastation left as once occupied areas were liberated. These reports cataloged the systematic industrial demolition carried out and identified damage to machinery critical to the restoration of essential services.

The records also include letters, memorandums and project reports relating to the development of specifications for the production of a locomotive for general use in continental Europe.

Also included are research materials on a project to find and develop substitute and alternative power fuels. These fuels and alternative power sources include gas generators, the distillation and hydrogenation of coal, the use of oil shale and the fermentation of agricultural, vegetable and fruit products. The records include correspondence and reports on the production of high grade hydrocarbon fuels from such materials as grains, sugar cane, beets, potatoes, grapes, bananas, palms, timber and associated products that contain sugars and starches.

The records also include reports, memorandums, and correspondence relating to efforts to obtain a reliable source of quinine from Western Hemisphere sources to replace that formerly imported from the East Indies. The project focused on cinchona bark and focused on technical problems involved in drying the bark and determining the correct chemical changes that occur between harvesting the bark, drying the bark, and storing the bark for shipment.

Also included are correspondence and reports created by the Engineering Service of the FEA relating to efforts to establish a program for training both foreign and American engineers and equip them with the skills necessary for service in foreign nations. The records include proposed objectives for the training program, both practical and academic, to participate in the industrialization expected after the war.

The records also include reports, memorandums and correspondence relating to a study made by the Engineering Service on the use of composite wood and sheet steel tanks for the effective transportation of liquids, including petroleum products. The study was aimed at assisting to secure scarce strategic materials and to conserve both men and machines for the labor needed to construct conventional storage tanks. [148 boxes] tor on foreign trade; and represented the Bureau on various requirements committees of the War Production Board. The Branch had six commodity divisions: Projects, General Products, Health Supplies and Chemicals, Machinery, the Metals and Minerals, and Petroleum Divisions. Its Operations Division, which inherited functions of the Office of the Administrator of Export Control and its successors in the Economic Defense Board and the Board of Economic Warfare, expedited licenses applications; maintained liaison with the lend-lease missions; exercised requisitioning powers with respect to essential commodities not used to a maximum in war production; investigated cases of violations of export regulations; screened applications for export licenses to determine the commercial and political reliability of the consignee; and maintained an information service for exporters in Washington and in New York. In addition to these divisions, the Branch had Procedures and Publications, Procurement Liaison, and Program Coordination Staffs and an Appeals Committee.

CENTRAL FILE. 1942-44. 30 ft.

A small part of the file relates to interagency liaison, the work of interagency committees on export problems, and administration of the Branch. Arranged according to the Administration's subject-numeric classification system. A copy of the classification manual for this file is available in the National Archives.

GEOGRAPHIC CENTRAL FILE. 1942-44. 8 ft.

257

Correspondence, with related interoffice memoranda, of the Branch and its predecessor, the Office of Exports of the Board of Economic Warfare and Office of Economic Warfare, exchanged with exporters, the Administration's representatives in foreign countries, other Government agencies, and others regarding exports from the United States, projects, and procedures. A large part of the file consists of replies of the Branch to inquiries from exporters concerning cargo priorities and export license information. Arranged alphabetically by country, and thereunder according to the Administration's subject-numeric classification system. A copy of the classification manual for this file is available in the National Archives.

CENTRAL FILE. 1943-45. 20 ft.

Records of the Branch and its predecessor, the Office of Exports of the Board of Economic Warfare and Office of Economic Warfare, consisting of correspondence, interoffice memoranda, reports, copies of minutes of meetings and conferences, and other materials pertaining to Branch administration and procedure, liaison relations with the Office of Lend-Lease Administration on matters of mutual interest, export license applications, violations of export regulations and their investigation, and other subjects pertaining to export control. Arranged according to the Administration's subject-numeric classification system. A copy of the classification manual for this file is available in the National Archives. This file is a continuation of that described in entry 256.

GEOGRAPHIC CENTRAL FILE. 1944-45. 6 ft. 259

Correspondence and telegrams, with related interoffice memoranda attached, exchanged with exporters in regard to applications for the export of commodities; commodity control measures; and transportation. For each country, there is a file in which the papers are filed alphabetically by commodity, and a second file in which the papers are filed alphabetically by subject. Arranged alphabetically by country and thereunder in two separate files: the first, an alphabetical commodity file; and the second, an alphabetical subject file. This file is a continuation of that described in entry 257.

LETTERS TO GOVERNMENT AGENCIES. 1942-45. 6 ft. 260

Copies of letters of the Branch to other Government agencies regarding representation on various interagency committees, interagency working agreements, and liaison activities in connection with the issuance of export licenses. Arranged alphabetically by Government agency, thereunder by division of the agency, and thereunder chronologically by date of letter.

LETTERS TO COLLECTORS OF CUSTOMS. 1942-45. 5 ft. 261

Copies of letters of the Branch to the collectors of customs, the Commissioner of Customs, and the Bureau of Customs regarding export licenses, export license clearance, violations of export regulations, revision of export schedules, extension of the validity of licenses, the denial of license privileges, and related matters. Arranged for the most part alphabetically by State, thereunder by city, and thereunder chronologically by date of letter.

INTEROFFICE MEMORANDA. 1942-45. 20 in. 262

Copies of interoffice memoranda dealing with all phases of activity of the Branch. Arranged alphabetically by name of individual, and thereunder chronologically.

INTRAOFFICE MEMORANDA. 1942-45. 12 ft. 263

Copies of intraoffice memoranda directed to members of the staff of the Branch and its predecessor, the Office of Exports of the Board of Economic Warfare and Office of Economic Warfare, relating to policies, operations, and administrative matters. Arranged alphabetically by name of addressee, and thereunder chronologically.

Office of the Director

SUBJECT FILE OF THE DIRECTOR. Apr. 1944-Sept. 1945. 18 in. 268

Interoffice memoranda, copies of minutes and agenda of committee meetings, information copies of FEA letters, activity reports of divisions of the Branch, and other materials of L. H. Lebensburger, Director, pertaining to export policy, trade relations, requirements problems, and operations of the Branch. The file includes committee minutes for the Joint Committee on Export Policy, the Commodity Assignments Committee, the Executive Policy Committee, the Export Advisory Committee, the Export Tonnage Committee, and the Requirements Committee. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

GENERAL FILE OF THE DIRECTOR. Jan. 1944-Sept. 1945. 1 ft. 269

Interoffice memoranda, copies of minutes of meetings, activity reports of divisions of the Branch, budget estimates, informational copies of letters from other FEA offices, and other materials dealing with export procedures and policies, relations with other agencies on requirements matters, the actions of requirements committees, and the budget and operations of divisions of the Branch. Included among the minutes of committee meetings are minutes of the United States Committee on Mutual Lend-Lease Aid (between the United States and the United Kingdom) and of the French Area Committee. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

DIVISION PROGRESS REPORTS. Oct. 1944-June 1946. 10 in. 270
Weekly progress reports of divisions of the Branch. Arranged chronologically.

SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES' REPORTS ON COUNTRY REQUIREMENTS. Apr. 1944-Sept. 1945. 18 in. 271
Reports and excerpts from reports of the Administration's special representatives in foreign countries regarding country requirements for various commodities and economic conditions and developments in foreign countries. Included are related interoffice memoranda. Arranged alphabetically by country.

SUBJECT FILE OF THE DEPUTY DIRECTOR. 1942-Apr. 1946. 3 ft. 272
Interagency correspondence, interoffice memoranda, copies of minutes and agenda of interagency requirements and policy meetings, reports on interagency conferences, economic reports on foreign countries, drafts of Federal Register orders, and other papers of Walter Freedman, Deputy Director, dealing with the determination of export policies and procedures, requirements programs of foreign countries, and the organization and budget of the Branch. Among the copies of minutes of committee meetings are those of the Commodity Assignments Committee, the Export Policy Committee, the Export Tonnage Committee, and the Lend-Lease Clearance Committee. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

REFERENCE FILE OF THE DEPUTY DIRECTOR. Apr. 1943-Dec. 1945. 8 in. 273
Mainly copies of FEA memoranda, reports, minutes of meetings, statistical data, and other papers pertaining to the Administration's export policies, decentralization of export control, procedures, post-war trade controls and relaxation of controls, and related subjects. Included are a list of licenses, statistical data, and a digest of memoranda regarding the export of iron, steel, and oil products to Japan in 1941. Arranged alphabetically by country and thereunder by subject.

GENERAL FILE OF THE ASSISTANT TO THE DIRECTOR. 1944. 10 in. 274
File of P. W. Bradford, consisting of copies of letters sent, interoffice memoranda, copies of minutes of meetings, and progress reports pertaining to his duties as Assistant to the Director and Chief Program Officer of the Branch. Part of the file relates to the organization, functions, and procedures of the Branch and the remainder to its policies with regard to licensing and allocations and special requests of private firms and agencies. Included are weekly progress reports of the Branch for the period May-Oct. 1944. Arranged in accordance with the Administration's subject-numeric classification scheme. A folder list for this file is available in the National Archives.

Records of the Office of Food Programs

This Office, an outgrowth of the Requirements and Supply Branch, was established in the Bureau of Supplies in January 1944. It developed and planned the food programs for the Administration and served as its liaison arm regarding all phases of food activities with the War Food Administration, the appropriate committees of the Combined Food Board, the State, War, and Navy Departments, and various international and private relief agencies. It included Supply Analysis, Operations Control, Food Allocations, Agricultural Supplies and Equipment Allocations, and Food Production and Procurement Divisions. Through these divisions it approved requirements and submitted allocation requests to the War Food Administration and the War Production Board; reviewed and cleared applications for export licenses covering food and agricultural products; allocated foods under lend-lease; initiated programs for the acquisition and management of stock piles of food; assigned priority ratings; directed the Foreign Economic Administration's participation in relief and rehabilitation programs; and developed and operated programs for the procurement of food abroad and its importation into the United States.

The records of the Office include correspondence, licensing records, and records relating to commodity requirements; purchase and sale confirmations, commodity files, photostats of agreements made with foreign countries for the procurement of food, and purchase and sales contracts; and papers prepared by the Combined Working Party of the Supply Analysis Division in relation to programming foreign food requirements, accompanied by ready reference tables on food commodity situations in European countries. In 1946 the records were divided among all four successor agencies, with the Department of Commerce and the Department of Agriculture receiving the major shares. Described below are records of the Office that the National Archives has received from the Department of Commerce.

Property Disposal Branch.

SUBJECT FILES, 1944-1945.

P-41

This series consists of correspondence, memorandums, reports, minutes of meetings, organization charts, and other types of documents concerning the disposal of Government surplus property abroad, a duty assigned to the Foreign Economic Administration by an Executive order of February 19, 1944. Records document policy and procedure regarding property disposal, including procedures governing the work of the Office of the Army-Navy Liquidation Commissioner, the Surplus Disposal Policy Committee, and the Surplus Property Board. [2 boxes]

The records of the Branch include correspondence, research data, reports, and a wide variety of materials relating to purchase and development contracts for specific commodities; directives for procurement by the Government; correspondence and cables with the Administration's field personnel engaged in the foreign procurement and development program; and minutes of meetings of interagency committees concerned with procurement and development problems and intergovernmental agreements. In 1946 records of certain "closed" programs relating to commodities were transferred to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, while those relating to "open" programs were transferred to the Agriculture Department's Commodity Credit Corporation or to the appropriate commodity branch of the Department's Production and Marketing Administration. Described below is a small quantity of records that were received in the National Archives from the Department of Commerce.

RECORDS OF THE BUREAU OF AREAS

The Bureau of Areas was established on November 13, 1943, by a consolidation of those units of the predecessors of the Foreign Economic Administration that were not assigned to the Bureau of Supplies or to the Office of the Administrator. The units of the Office of Economic Warfare that were transferred to the Bureau of Areas included the area divisions of the Country Programs Branch of the Office of Exports; the Area Branch, excluding the South Pacific Division, of the Office of Imports; and the Enemy and the Blockade and Supply Branches of the Office of Economic Warfare Analysis. From the Office of Lend-Lease Administration the Bureau received the geographic divisions of the Office of Foreign Liaison, the Office of Soviet Supply, and the Overseas Missions Division; and from the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations there were transferred to the Bureau the Divisions of Field Operations, Supply and Transport, Progress Reports, and Program and Requirements. The Bureau also inherited the "liberated areas" activities of the Office of Foreign Economic Coordination of the Department of State. These offices, branches, and divisions were merged into the Bureau of Areas, and the functions they performed were assigned to the six branches of the Bureau.

Records of the Office of the Executive Director

This Office planned and directed the programs and policies of the Bureau of Areas pertaining to foreign countries, maintained liaison with the Bureau of Supplies, the staff units of the Office of the Administrator, and various interdepartmental and intergovernmental committees; and supervised the activities of the foreign field missions of the Foreign Economic Administration, working closely in that connection with the diplomatic missions of the Department of State. Its Area Program Coordination Staff reviewed the economic policies of the Administration for each country and coordinated these with the over-all supply program, served as a clearance office for instructions from the branches of the Bureau of Supplies to the branches of the Bureau of Areas, and acted as the secretariat for the Administration's Allocations Committee. The Field Operations Staff was the administrative unit in the Bureau that served the foreign field missions by coordinating the activities of these missions with those of the operating branches of the Administration in Washington, supplying the field with digests and news-letters of economic information, and expediting the exchange of reports between the branches in Washington and the offices in the field. Matters relating to lend-lease, reverse lend-lease, and the British White Paper were handled by the Lend-Lease Staff of the Office of the Executive Director; and administrative duties for the branches and staffs of the Bureau were performed by the Executive Officer.

The records of the Office include materials regarding field personnel, minutes and agenda of committee meetings, and geographic files of foreign representatives and area programs; files of the Field Operations Staff, including housekeeping and personnel data; materials used in the Information Division in connection with the preparation of the "FEA Newsletter"; and policy and administrative materials relating to the functions of the Lend-Lease Staff. In 1946 these records were divided between the Department of Commerce and the Department of State.

Records of the Pan American Branch

This Branch maintained liaison with the embassies of the United States in Latin America, supervised the operations of the missions in that area, directed the decentralized plan of export control whereby every country receiving controlled exports aided the authorities of the United States abroad in preventing any diversion of the items into unauthorized channels, and represented the Foreign Economic Administration on interagency committees concerned with inter-American affairs. Its functions were performed by its divisions for Central America and the West Indies, the northern and western coast of South America, the River Plate, Mexico, and Brazil.

The records of the Branch include operating materials relating to the preparation of reports on Latin-American requirements and to conditions in Latin-American countries. More specifically, they include the minutes of committee meetings, allocation circulars, field dispatches, requirements studies, and cable files. The bulk of the records were given to the Commerce Department, while the Department of State received a small share. Described below are records received by the National Archives from the Department of Commerce.

Office of the Executive Director.

ADMINISTRATIVE RECORDS, 1944-1945.

UD-1

This series consists of the administrative records of Arthur Paul and James L. McCamy. The files are in two segments covering the tenure of each incumbent. The records document the committee participation of the Executive Directors as well as the activities of the programs that the Bureau of Areas oversaw. Paul's records include Lend-Lease agreements, records of various advisory committees, and meetings, reports and written procedures of the programs and activities of the Bureau of Areas during its first months in the newly established Foreign Economic Administration (FEA). McCamy's records reflect more established organization within the Foreign Economic Administration, and are more substantive. Records filed under "Country File" document the activities of the Bureau of Areas within each area in which it operated. Country files include correspondence with local leadership as well as with the American Ambassador to that country; interdepartmental correspondence, especially with the Foreign Economic Administration's Bureau of Supplies; reports; policy statements; project updates; and maps and charts. Records filed under "Organization File" are general administrative records including agency consolidation and reorganization records that document the formation of the Foreign Economic Administration. These records also document jurisdictional issues between the new FEA and other Cabinet agencies, including the Department of State and the Department of Agriculture. Also included are testimonies from House Appropriations Committee hearings as well as from the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency. The records filed under "Bureau of Areas - Organization" relate to the establishment of the primary subdivisions of the Bureau of Areas: the General Areas Branch, the Liberated Areas Branch, the Pan American Branch and the Special Areas Branch, as well as an assignment of each country to a branch. Records filed under "Government" document the activities of other agencies whose actions affected the work of the Foreign Economic Administration as well as coordinated efforts between agencies, particularly including the Department of the Navy and the Department of State. Finally, the general records that complete the series include copies of government reports and white papers from non-governmental organizations, as well as notes on the establishment of field offices, licensing procedures, and the disposal of surplus war property. [9 boxes]

ADMINISTRATIVE RECORDS OF DEPUTY DIRECTOR
ARTHUR PAUL, 1944-1945.

UD-2

The records are filed under five subjects: Committees, Country Programs, General Records, Organization Records and Government

Records. The records filed under "Committees" relate to policy and procedures for the activities of the Bureau of Areas, and include documentation of changes and amendments to policy, and memorandums and correspondence related to those changes. They relate to projects of the Foreign Economic Administration (FEA) that the Bureau of Areas participated in, or inter-agency projects that involved the FEA. Also filed within the "Committee" files is the "Kitchen Cabinet Committee" file, which relates to a committee that was composed of senior members of all major departments in the FEA who met regularly to discuss informally the ongoing problems of administering a large, suddenly-assembled government agency. The records filed under "Country Programs" primarily relate to implementation of procedures in each of the countries or areas where FEA operated. These records relate to the monitoring of commodity levels available for domestic consumption as well as for export, the relative successes of local agricultural efforts, and which parts of the world needed lend-lease or other assistance to support or recover from war efforts. The "Country Programs" files include information relating to rubber, petroleum and food supplies, as well as other supplies. The records filed under "General Records" are administrative files, consisting of cables, correspondence and memorandums as well as policy statements and reading files on various subjects. The records filed under "Organization Records" relate to the makeup of the Bureau of Areas, and contain records relating to each branch and division and its activities and administrative and personnel needs. Finally, the records filed under "Government" concern the relevant policies and activities of outside government agencies and corporations, as relate to FEA efforts. [17 boxes]

GENERAL ADMINISTRATIVE RECORDS, 1944-1945.

UD-4

This series consists of records that document the coordination of the general administrative supervision of and services to the foreign field office staffs. The records additionally document the coordinated activities and communication of the Bureau of Areas and any visiting field staff with the Department of State through meeting minutes, memorandums and cables. The records also include some files on the activities of specific field offices. [1 box]

ADMINISTRATIVE RECORDS OF CARLILE BOLTON-SMITH, 1944-1945.

UD-3

This series consists of records that document review of FEA economic policies relating to each country and coordination with the overall supply program. The records consist of agendas, minutes of meetings, documents, correspondence, memorandums, reports, telegrams, airgrams, directives and other documentation. The files are arranged in four broad categories: committees, countries & regions, Lend-Lease, and general. [19 boxes]

Foreign Economic Administration.
Bureau of Areas.
Reverse Lend-Lease Staff.

SUBJECT AND COUNTRY FILES RELATING TO REVERSE
LEND-LEASE, 1942-1946.

This series consists of memorandums, correspondence, reports, written guidance and procedures, handwritten notes, and other types of documents concerning lend-lease and reverse lend-lease, otherwise known as reciprocal aid, as well as the termination of reverse lend-lease agreements. As the lend-lease and reverse lend-lease programs were administered by multiple predecessor and successor United States government organizations and were of vital concern to allied countries, the records include correspondence with representatives of foreign governments as well as with the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, Office of Economic Warfare, Bureau of Areas and other units within the Foreign Economic Administration, War Shipping Administration, and the Office of Foreign Liquidation Commissioner.

Documentation pre-dating the establishment of the FEA in September 1943 reflects the activities of predecessor organizations. Records post-dating termination of the FEA in September 1945 document residual activities, primarily those relating to the liquidation activities of the Office of the Foreign Liquidation Commission (OFLC), an organization within the Department of State. #### Records of the British Empire and Middle East Branch

All aspects of the Foreign Economic Administration's relations with the British Empire and countries in the Middle East were handled by this Branch. Its representatives conferred with those of the British Empire on joint aspects of economic warfare and provided for an interchange of economic, political, and military information about lend-lease activities and foreign trade. The Branch was responsible for the field activities of the Foreign Economic Administration in the areas indicated by the names of its divisions: The Dominions, India and Southeast Asia, Middle East, United Kingdom and British Colonies, and Turkish Divisions. Its Shipping Control Staff coordinated all shipping activities between the United States and the British Empire, maintaining liaison with the British Ministry of Transport and the United States shipping authorities. The Reciprocal Aid Requirements Staff presented the requirements of the United States for reverse lend-lease to foreign governments, and the Program Staff prepared the final requirements program for the British Empire.

The records of the Branch include files containing general correspondence and other materials pertaining to policy, records of committee meetings, and cables; requisitions and other operational data broken down by commodity and area; materials relating to requirements, economic programs, and to the Middle East Supply Center; British Empire storage records dealing with lend-lease matters originating in the Office of Lend-Lease Administration; and materials on requirements, economic programs, and lend-lease supplies of the Turkish Division. The records were divided between the Department of Commerce and the Department of State. Described below are those parts of the records that have been received by the National Archives.

Office of the Director

READING FILE OF THE DIRECTOR. July 4, 1942-Dec. 30, 1944. 2 ft. 411

Copies of outgoing letters, cables, memoranda, and reports of W. V. Griffin, Chief of this Branch and former Chief of the British Empire Division of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, covering all phases of the activities of the Branch and of its predecessor. Included are materials on policies, shipping matters, commodity allocations, and the recruiting of personnel. Many of the letters are to British agencies in the United States, other Government agencies, and private firms concerned in lend-lease operations with respect to the British Empire. Arranged chronologically.

INCOMING MAIL RECORD. Feb. 2, 1943-Apr. 29, 1944; Aug. 1, 1944-July 1, 1945. 10 in. 412

Incoming mail record sheets recording communications received by W. V. Griffin during the periods covered by the above dates. For each piece of incoming mail there is entered on the sheets the following information: Date received, subject, name of sender, person to whom routed for action, and remarks regarding disposition. Entries on these sheets are arranged in chronological order by date of receipt of communication.

REPORTS ON STATUS OF REQUISITIONS AND DIVISION ACTIVITIES. Jan. 1944-Feb. 1945. 15 in. 413

Copies of summary reports on the status of requisitions processed by the Branch and reports of activities of its divisions. Arranged chronologically by date of report.

SUBJECT FILE OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICER. 1942-45. 2 ft. 414

Interoffice memoranda, copies of letters sent, charts, and other materials dealing with internal administration of the Branch and its predecessor, the British Empire Division of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration. Included are materials on personnel matters such as efficiency ratings, attendance, and pay roll; the budget for field personnel; and office supplies, equipment, and space. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

SUBJECT FILE OF THE CONTROL OFFICE. 1944-46. 12 ft. 415

Correspondence, statistical data, and copies of reports relating to budget estimates, lend-lease appropriations, personnel matters, requisitions, and contracts. The material on personnel includes job descriptions, transfers of personnel, and administrative expenses. There are copies of weekly activities reports, monthly progress reports, and copies of minutes of combined committees. Included also is a reading file, 1944-46, and statistical data and copies of reports on Middle East exports and imports and on the British Food Mission. Arranged roughly alphabetically by subject and thereunder chronologically. Much of the material, particularly the reports, is unarranged.

GENERAL RECORDS, 1944-1945.

UD-5

This series consists of three subseries: records relating to the directorate of Forrest Warren (part of 1944), records relating to the directorate of Max J. Wasserman (1944-1945), and records relating to Warren's supervision of the Program Staff (1944-1945). The records were maintained in the Office of the Director. They include correspondence, memorandums and charts, but consist primarily of commodities reports. The records primarily relate to lend-lease and foreign trade, and document coordination of political, economic and military efforts in those areas between the United States and the foreign governments of the countries in the British Empire and Middle East Branch's jurisdiction, as well as the activities of FEA field offices within those countries. The bulk of this series chronicles the status of various commodities: what quantities the commodities were available in and where available, projected availability, projected needs, contemporary and projected costs, and, in some instances, how or under what formula or rationale the commodities were to be rationed or withheld. Records of the Far East and Other Territories Branch

The area included in this Branch was world-wide, covering China, Korea, the Philippine Islands, Thailand (formerly Siam), French Indo-China, Liberia, Ireland, Greenland, and Afghanistan. In China the Branch was responsible for aiding the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration in relief, rehabilitation, and reconstruction activities, for carrying on lend-lease operations, and for helping the Chinese solve their economic problems. The program for the Philippines included relief and rehabilitation, and the Branch worked with the authorities of the Philippine Government in solving these problems. Activities regarding Korea, Thailand, and French Indo-China were in the planning stage until after VJ-Day.

The records of the Branch contain materials relating to lend-lease requisitions and shipments; materials on the China training programs; policy correspondence and other operating materials relating to lend-lease programs; data on various projects and on the economies of the areas dealt with by the Branch; and a large amount of special economic data and reports collected and prepared by the research staffs. In 1946 about three-fourths of the records were transferred to the State Department and the remainder to the Commerce Department.

See pages 141B-E.

Records of the Enemy Branch

This Branch was responsible for planning the economic program to be put into effect when the enemy countries should be occupied. It prepared studies and reports for the industrial disarmament of the enemy to prevent future wars, including analyses of the entire economic structure of the Axis countries. Its staff units and divisions were functional in nature and were concerned with problems relating to industrial disarmament, external economic security, reparations and restitutions, requirements and allocations, food and agriculture, foreign trade, consumers' economy, property control, transportation and communications, and industry of the countries to be occupied. The Branch also included a Japanese and an Austrian Special Services Staff, and it cooperated closely with the Technical Industrial Intelligence Committee, a subcommittee of the Joint Intelligence Committee of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The records of the Branch were transferred to the Department of State. They include cables, reports, correspondence, statistics, research and reference materials, and other documents relating to the geographical areas and other particular functions under the jurisdiction of the Branch; mimeographed copies of reports prepared by the Branch; minutes of meetings of

Records of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics Branch

Foreign Economic Administration activities relating to the Soviet Union were carried out by this Branch. The Branch cleared with the President's Soviet Protocol Committee all questions of exports to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and with the State Department all problems relating to imports. It was organized along functional lines and included the Protocol and Area Information, Program License and Cash Purchase, Industrial Equipment, Raw Materials, and Protocol Shipping Secretariat Divisions.

The records of the Branch include operational materials relative to its functions, including materials on lend-lease requirements, cargo reports, protocol reports, and policy materials. All records of the Branch were transferred to the Department of State in 1946, with the exception of 29 feet of records of the Office of the Director, which were transferred to the Department of Commerce.

PROJECT FILES, 1943-1944.

P-31

This series consists of memorandums, correspondence, reports, and other types of documents concerning two special projects: the Survey of Foreign Experts and Project Safe Haven. The Survey of Foreign Experts sought to obtain intelligence information from refugees, returned travelers, American businessmen, and others knowledgeable regarding economic conditions in enemy countries. Project Safe Haven sought to obtain intelligence regarding the transfer of assets from enemy countries through neutral channels to other nations. A large number of memorandums contain summaries of interviews with informants. Also included among the documents are information regarding intelligence gathering, the labor movement in Japan, and information regarding various natural resources and the production of oil. Foreign Economic Administration.
Bureau of Areas.
USSR Section.

On March 11, 1941, Congress passed the Lend-Lease Act. The law authorized the President to provide assistance to any country the President deemed vital to the interests of the United States. To administer the act, the Division of Defense Aid Reports was established within the Office for Emergency Management in May 1941. Shortly after Germany invaded the USSR in June 1941, President Roosevelt authorized extending lend-lease aid to that country. In October 1941, the Office of Lend-Lease Administration (OLLA) was established within the Office for Emergency Management to administer lend-lease. Its main function was to ensure that countries authorized to receive lend-lease materials, services, and data receive them at the time and place where they would contribute most to the defeat of the Axis. Within OLLA, the Division of Soviet Supply handled those part of the program that involved aid to the USSR. In September 1943, the handling of government activities relating to foreign economic affairs, including Lend-Lease, was overhauled. The Foreign Economic Administration (FEA) was established to unify and consolidate the administration of government activities relating to foreign economic affairs. Transferred to FEA were the Office of Lend Lease Administration, the Office of Economic Warfare, the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations, certain functions of the Office of Foreign Economic Coordination, the War Food Administration, and certain functions of the Commodity Credit Corporation. Within the new FEA, the USSR Branch within the Bureau of Areas carried out FEA activities relating to the USSR. FEA was abolished in September 1945. Its functions were divided among five agencies, with the Department of State inheriting the functions and records relating to lend-lease activities.

icy" of the United States was subject to review by the State Department representatives. Disagreements between representatives of the State Department and the Foreign Economic Administration were to be referred to Washington through the regular channels, but "in any case where an immediate decision is imperative, the views of the principal State Department representative shall prevail."

The staff of a large field mission of the Foreign Economic Administration included the special representative, his legal counsel, economic adviser, technical consultant, economic intelligence staff, transportation and shipping unit, and requirements unit. The procurement activities of the United States Commercial Company were directed by the special representative through foods, textiles, metals and minerals, and general commodities sections. Within the area the special representative dispatched Foreign Economic Administration agents as needed, who supervised the activities of the mission locally. Administrative matters were handled by a business manager through fiscal, personnel, and management services units.

By 1945 representatives of the Foreign Economic Administration were on duty at almost every United States embassy and consulate-general. In these posts they executed and administered the Foreign Economic Administration's programs regarding procurement, imports, and the development of economic warfare, including blockade activities and preclusive buying. They advised the Administration on supply problems or other requirements for their area, whether these involved lend-lease procurement, the action of a Government corporation, or a commercial export license. Reverse lend-lease activities and the exchange of reciprocal aid were facilitated by the foreign representatives, and where required such representatives acted as agents for the United States Commercial Company in purchasing critical materials and commodities.

The records of the foreign field missions were transferred to the diplomatic and consular offices of the Department of State by a directive of the Bureau of the Budget dated January 8, 1946. Records of the North African Economic Board (later the North African Joint Economic Mission), consisting mainly of correspondence, reports, cargo manifests, bills of lading, pay vouchers, card records on materials unloaded from convoys, French receipts, and other materials, were received by the Department of State from its mission in North Africa. No description of records of other missions is available at the present time.

See pages 143A-C.

RECORDS OF GOVERNMENT CORPORATIONS

From the Office of Economic Warfare the Foreign Economic Administration inherited four Government corporations engaged in the procurement of critical war materials and commodities. These corporations were the United States Commercial Company, the Rubber Development Corporation, the Petroleum Reserves Corporation, and the Export-Import Bank of Washington. All except the last were wartime corporations created by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation specifically to aid in the strategic imports program of the Government. When the Foreign Economic Administration was abolished, the first three of the above corporations, with their personnel and records, were returned to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The Export-Import Bank became an independent agency under an act of July 31, 1945. These four corporations and one other, Cargoes, Incorporated, are described below. The records of the latter are in the record group covered by this preliminary inventory and are described under a separate heading.

The United States Commercial Company was incorporated on March 26, 1942, by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and engaged in preclusive buying of strategic and critical materials on a noncommercial price basis in accordance with directives from the Board of Economic Warfare. On July 15, 1943, it was transferred to the Office of Economic Warfare, being made responsible at that time for the foreign purchasing activities of the Defense Supplies Corporation, the Defense Plant Corporation, and the Metals Reserve Company. When that Office became a part of the Foreign Economic Administration on September 25, 1943, the Administrator of the Foreign Economic Administration assumed control of the Board of Directors of the Company. On October 17, 1945, the Company was returned to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The Company was organized from the beginning along a corporate pattern, with a board of directors, a president, a vice-president and assistant vice-presidents, a legal division, a treasurer, a secretary, an examiner, and an auditor. Under the Foreign Economic Administration, the key positions were assumed by officials of the Administration, who, acting as the Executive Committee of the Company, approved plans for imports and other related transactions received by it from the branches of the Foreign Economic Administration proper. In the Executive Committee were vested all the powers of the Board of Directors during periods when the Board was not in session. The Company also included a Commercial Transactions Staff to handle nonstrategic materials and several divisions synonymous with major operating branches of the Foreign Economic Administration. In the field, the Company had agents who served as members of the staffs of the special representatives of the Foreign Economic Administration.

The activities of the Company revolving around preclusive buying declined after the middle of 1943, and it became more involved in the importation of strategic and critical materials and essential foodstuffs for supply purposes. Toward the close of the war it handled the trading activities of the Government with liberated areas, acting as an agent, for example, for American importers in Italy when the purchase of commodities there was too great a risk for private enterprise.

The records of the United States Commercial Company were transferred to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation following the termination of the Foreign Economic Administration.

The Rubber Development Corporation was established by the Secretary of Commerce in February 1943 to handle the Government's program for the development and procurement of natural rubber, succeeding the Rubber Reserve Company. It acted under the directives of the Office of the Rubber Director and was managed by a Board of Directors elected by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. On July 15, 1943, it became a part of the Office of Economic Warfare, and with that Office was transferred to the Foreign Economic Administration on September 25, 1943. Upon the termination of that Administration it was returned to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, where it continued until its charter expired on June 20, 1947.

The Corporation was the chief instrument of the United States for procuring and developing natural rubber in foreign countries. The Corporation bought rubber in Ceylon and Liberia and developed and purchased rubber in a number of South American countries. Pursuant to this program it made loans and gave technical advice to rubber tappers and dealers, improved transportation facilities on rubber plantations and surrounding areas, arranged for the export of synthetic rubber from the United States in exchange for pure rubber, stimulated rubber conservation abroad, furnished machinery for rubber tapping operations, and handled commercial transactions involved in the importation of rubber.

Following the termination of the Foreign Economic Administration most of the records of the Rubber Development Corporation were transferred to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. A small quantity of its files have been received in the National Archives and are in Record Group 234.

The Petroleum Reserves Corporation was established under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation on June 30, 1943, was transferred to the Office of Economic Warfare on July 15, 1943, and was made a part of the Foreign Economic Administration on September 25, 1943. Its program of buying and otherwise acquiring reserves of crude petroleum from sources outside of the United States did not materialize because the agreements in the Middle East were not consummated during the war. On October 17, 1943, it was returned to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. On November 9, 1945, its charter was amended so as to change its name to War Assets Corporation. No records of the Corporation as the Petroleum Reserves Corporation are known to exist.

Records of the Export-Import Bank of Washington

This Bank, which was created on February 2, 1934, was transferred on July 15, 1943, from the Department of Commerce to the Office of Economic Warfare. When that Office became a part of the Foreign Economic Administration the Bank was included in the transfer. After the FEA was dissolved, provision for the continuance of the Bank as an independent agency was made by an act of July 31, 1945.

The Bank was originally created to finance and facilitate the exchange of commodities between the United States and other nations or agencies or nationals thereof. An act of September 26, 1940, assigned to it functions pertaining to developing resources, stabilizing economies, and marketing the products of the countries of the Western Hemisphere. During the war the Bank financed industrial and agricultural developments in Haiti, Brazil (Itabira Iron Mines), Bolivia (Bolivian Development Corporation), and Chile (Chile Development Corporation). Toward the close of the war the Bank was enabled by Congressional appropriations to extend loans to European countries for reconstruction and rehabilitation purposes.

The Bank retained possession of its earlier records when it became an independent agency in July 1945.

Records of Cargoes, Incorporated

This corporation was originally organized privately on October 30, 1941, under the name of Ships, Incorporated, to build an experimental cargo vessel with shallow draft and multiple engine known as the Sea Otter. The corporation became inactive when the Sea Otter project was abandoned by the Navy Department. The Office of Lend-Lease Administration took over the corporation in June 1942, under the President's directive that the Administration proceed with a redesigned Sea Otter or Seamobile. In the summer of 1943, Cargoes, Inc., also contracted for the construction of experimental helicopters adapted to protecting cargo ships against submarine attack. After the shipping situation improved, the Corporation was liquidated. The final board of directors meeting was held on March 24, 1945, and the Corporation was dissolved on April 30, 1945.

THE "HISTORY OF LEND-LEASE" AND SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS

The project for preparing a history of lend-lease operations, functions, and policies was proposed by the Lend-Lease Administrator, E. R. Stettinius, Jr., in late 1941, and was authorized by a letter from the President dated March 4, 1942. Shortly thereafter, a Lend-Lease Historian was appointed in the Office of Lend-Lease Administration who gathered materials and wrote a number of preliminary chapters of the "History of Lend-Lease." When the Office of Lend-Lease Administration was consolidated with other agencies into the Foreign Economic Administration, the Lend-Lease Historian, Letitia Lewis, and the records that had been assembled for preparing the history were transferred to the Administration's Records Analysis Division in the Office of the Budget and Administrative Planning. Upon the termination of the Foreign Economic Administration and the transfer of its functions, personnel, and records to other agencies, the Lend-Lease Historian and the lend-lease history files were transferred to the Office of the Foreign Liquidation Commissioner of the Department of State. There, under the supervision of John C. Weigel, the "History of Lend-Lease," with the exception of the chapters on lend-lease aid to Russia and to China, was completed in 1947.

The typewritten copy of the finished chapters of the "History of Lend-Lease" and the voluminous compilations of supporting documents are now in the National Archives. Described below are the "History" and the collections of supporting documents that it has been found convenient to describe as separate series. A list of selected documents from the supporting documents is available.

"HISTORY OF LEND-LEASE" AND SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS. 1939-47. 45 ft. 514

History of Lend-Lease, typewritten, with copies of supporting documents covering the development of organization, procedures, and policies; area operations; its termination; and an appraisal of its effect. There are approximately 4,000 pages. The chapters on area operations with respect to Russia and China, with their supporting documents, have been retained by the Department of State. Arranged according to an outline, the chapters of which are given below. A list of selected supporting documents for this "History" is available.

MINUTES AND NOTES OF MEETINGS OF THE LEND-LEASE POLICY COMMITTEE (OPERATIONS COMMITTEE). Apr. 29, 1942-Sept. 1943. 18 in. 515

Copies of minutes and notes of meetings of the Policy Committee (later the Operations Committee) of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, together with copies of documents such as letters and memoranda discussed at the meetings. These copies of records were assembled by the Lend-Lease History staff. Arranged chronologically by date of meeting. Part of this series is contained in loose-leaf notebooks, and the remainder is fastened together with Acco-fasteners.

MINUTES OF MEETINGS OF THE EXECUTIVE STAFF. Dec. 1942-Nov. 22, 1943. 5 in. 516

Copies of minutes of meetings of the Executive Staff of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, assembled by the Lend-Lease History staff. Arranged in three loose-leaf binders chronologically by date of meeting.

MINUTES AND AGENDA OF MEETINGS OF THE EXECUTIVE POLICY COMMITTEE. May 1944-Aug. 1945. 4 in. 517

Copies of minutes and agenda of meetings of the Executive Policy Committee, assembled by the Lend-Lease History staff. Arranged as "Policy Bulletins," "Meetings," and "Agenda," and thereunder chronologically.

MINUTES OF MEETINGS OF THE CLEARANCE COMMITTEE. Oct. 9, 1942-May 8, 1946. 10 in. 518

Drafts and processed copies of the minutes of meetings of the Clearance Committee of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration and successor agencies, the Foreign Economic Administration and Office of the Foreign Liquidation Commissioner, together with related memoranda and other papers. This set of minutes was assembled by the Lend-Lease History staff. Arranged as "Minutes of Meetings" or "Related Documents," and thereunder chronologically. For indexes to decisions of this Committee, see the following two entries.

SUBJECT INDEX TO CLEARANCE COMMITTEE DECISIONS. 1942-46. 5 in. 519

Index (5"x8" slips) to decisions of the Clearance Committee of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration and of its successor the Foreign Economic Administration in the series described in entry 518 above. The slips contain information concerning the subject of the decision, the country involved in the decision, the date of meeting of the Clearance Committee, the number of meetings, the item number of the decision on the agenda of the meeting, and a digest of the question under discussion and the Committee's decision thereon. Arranged alphabetically by subject.

GEOGRAPHIC INDEX TO CLEARANCE COMMITTEE DECISIONS. 1942-46. 5 in. 520

Index (5"x8" slips) to decisions of the Clearance Committee of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration and its successor the Foreign Economic Administration in the series described in entry 518. The slips contain entries such as those noted in entry 519. Arranged alphabetically by country.

POLICY NOTEBOOKS. 1942-45. 4 in. 521

A collection of copies of memoranda, correspondence, and other papers of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration and the Foreign Economic Administration dealing with the policies of those agencies with respect to various countries and procedures. The papers are bound in three loose-leaf notebooks and are arranged as follows: (1) "FEA Policy Notebook," alphabetically by subject and country; (2) "FEA Latin-American Policy Notebook," alphabetically by country; and (3) "Fifty Statements of Lend-Lease Policy as of May 1943," alphabetically by subject, with a subject index to its contents. These notebooks were assembled by the Lend-Lease Historian and his staff.

WEEKLY LETTERS FROM THE LEND-LEASE ADMINISTRATOR TO W. AVERELL HARRIMAN.
Dec. 1941-Dec. 1943. 20 in. 522

Photostatic copies (negative) of weekly letters from E. R. Stettinius, Jr., Lend-Lease Administrator, to W. Averell Harriman, head of the mission to London, outlining the highlights of lend-lease activities for the preceding week, and including as enclosures or exhibits copies of various memoranda and letters of lend-lease officials bearing on lend-lease policy and operations, mainly with respect to Russia and Great Britain. Arranged chronologically. These letters were assembled by the Lend-Lease Historian's staff.

ALLOCATION LETTERS. Apr. 1941-June 1946. 4 ft. 523

Copies of letters from the President, the Lend-Lease Administrator, the Administrator of the Foreign Economic Administration, and the Deputy Commissioner of the Office of the Foreign Liquidation Commissioner to other Government agencies, including the Maritime Commission, the Treasury, Navy, and Agriculture Departments, and the Office of Scientific Research and Development, allocating funds to those agencies from appropriations provided to carry out provisions of the Lend-Lease Act of March 11, 1941. Arranged in two series as "Allocation Letters" and "Defense Aid Special Fund Allocations," and thereunder numerically by number of letter. These were assembled by the Lend-Lease Historian's staff.

REPORTS ON LEND-LEASE OPERATIONS. Mar. 1941-Dec. 1946. 20 in. 524

Printed and processed copies of monthly reports on fiscal operations under the Lend-Lease Act and of the executive reports on lend-lease operations, assembled by the Lend-Lease Historian's staff. Arranged as "Reports on Fiscal Operations" and as "Executive Reports," and thereunder chronologically.

LEND-LEASE EXPORT REPORTS. Mar. 1941-Apr. 1946. 5 in. 525

Printed and processed copies of monthly reports on lend-lease exports, assembled by the Lend-Lease Historian's staff. Arranged chronologically.

LEND-LEASE PHOTOGRAPHS. 1939-45. 5 in. 526

Glossy prints (8"x10") depicting the war effort of lend-lease countries and the part played therein by materials received through lend-lease channels. There are also pictures taken at congressional hearings on lend-lease and at lend-lease meetings. The events, persons, or activities pictured are described on the back of each photograph. These photographs were assembled by the Lend-Lease Historian's staff. Arranged alphabetically by subject and country.

RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF THE FOREIGN LIQUIDATION COMMISSIONER.

Following abolishment of the Foreign Economic Administration (FEA) on September 27, 1945, the functions it had carried out in regard to lend-lease were transferred to the Department of State's Foreign Liquidation Commissioner, officially created on October 20, 1945, Lend-lease matters were handled within the Department on an interim basis until the creation of the Office of the Foreign Liquidation Commissioner.

LISTS OF FOLDER HEADINGS FOR SELECTED FILES

The following lists of folder headings are intended to supplement the brief descriptions of some of the more important general files described in this preliminary inventory by serving as guides to the subject content of the files. The number of the inventory entry in which the records are described is given for each list. In the first two lists all the "general and miscellaneous" headings are omitted except in cases where they are needed in order to show subheadings. It will be noted that the subheadings occasionally follow a logical rather than an alphabetical arrangement.
