- born Antonio Angelo Annaloro in Villalba, Sicily on 5-21-10

- arrived in the U.S. less than 15 months after birth

- granted derivative citizenship through his father in 1946. Imm. officials were curious, however, as to how Bruno was born in 1910 when his father claimed to have been in the U.S. since 1906 (his mother did not go to the U.S. prior to his birth). Thus, with the choice of being declared illegitimate or illegally naturalized, Bruno said that his father secretly returned to Sicily in 1907 or 1908 & then had to flee back to the U.S. to avoid prosecution.

Bruno has avoided involving any of his family in Commission operations.
When his daughter, Jean, was married in 1962, Bruno sent invitations to Carlo Gambino and Alex. Magaddino but recommended that they not show 1935 - 15 month suspended sentence and 3 yr probation for manufacturing illegal liquor.

1937 - $10 fine for disorderly conduct 1954 $600 fine and 2 yr probation for operating an illegal lottery.

By 1963 Bruno was described as the biggest numbers man in Phil.

Bruno entered the La Cosa Nostra sometime during the 1950's. His rise was rapid ever since.

Joseph Ida - head of the Philly mob from 1946 to 1959; fled to Italy on
