Re Bureau airtel to Albany dated 6/19/59.

Enclosed hereto are original and three copies of letterhead memoranda captioned with the name and address of prospective witnesses, whose interviews are set out in requested form.

It is to be noted data enclosed contains letterhead memorandum of interview with PAUL RENNARD, who was listed on enclosure to referenced communication as a prospective witness. PAUL RENNARD is identical to PH 525-C who is currently furnishing information to this Office. RENNARD had previously been instructed by his employer, LOUIS PAGNOTTI, SR., to clear with him before furnishing any information to any law enforcement agency. He has expressed concern in the past that he would be in danger of losing his job as a pilot for LOUIS PAGNOTTI, SR., should his identity as a source of information for this office become known.

A review of appropriate files of the Philadelphia Office concerning captioned case failed to locate any interviews conducted with prospective witnesses, FRANK SILVA, JOSEPH CAPOZZI and WICK BONFANTE and representatives of Calamat Grocery or Roma Wholesale Grocery. Identities of persons interviewed at Hotel Casey and Hotel Sterling

Interview with Mr. WARREN MYERS on 3/17/58 by ✓
SA (A) GEORGE R. JOHNSON.SANTO VOLPE, SR.

Files of the Philadelphia office reflected JOSEPH LA TORRE, a former PCI of this Division, advised on 3/10/55 his father, STEVE LA TORRE, deceased, was the head of the Mafia in the Pittston, Pa., area during the first part of the 1900s, and while he was head of the Mafia, he sent money to SANTO VOLPE, SR., in Italy to finance his trip to the United States. LA TORRE said after VOLPE's arrival in the United States, he gradually took over the Number 1 position in the Mafia which position he held until 1942 when he was eased out for putting his personal business ahead of that of the Mafia. ✓

An article in the "Times Leader, The Evening News", Wilkes-Barre, Pa., dated 12/3/58 reflected SANTO VOLPE, age 79, prominent independent coal operator, died last night in his home, 215 Wyoming Avenue, West Pittston, Pa., following a long illness.

ANDRIANO LIBERATO

In connection with an investigation of a case captioned "JOSEPH PROFACI, aka; AR" information was developed that family name of above listed person is LIBERTO ANDRIANO. ✓ Subsequent investigation revealed ANDRIANO died in 1958 at the age of 53.

Person Interviewed: PAUL RENNARD

Address: 1143 Springbrook Avenue
Moosic, Pa.

Date of Interview: January 3, 1958

Place of Interview: Avoca, Pa.

Interviewed by: SA GEORGE R. JOHNSON

PAUL RENNARD advised he was employed as a pilot by the Sullivan Trail Coal Company in March 1957 after he answered a blind ad in a newspaper for a licensed commercial pilot. He said he formerly worked for the Joy Manufacturing Company. He said he was asked by LOUIS PAGNOTTI to take a party of several people to Binghamton, N. Y., on June 24, 1957. He recalled he was told a man and wife would arrive at the Avoca Airport from Detroit via Allegheny Airlines that date and that the man was too sick to travel by automobile from Avoca to Binghamton. He stated he did meet the plane upon arrival from Detroit and the passenger and his wife and their baggage were transferred to the Sullivan Trail plane. He further advised other passengers on this flight included WILLIAM MEDICO and two other men, one of whom he thinks was RUSSELL BUFALINO. He did not know the third man. LOUIS PAGNOTTI did not accompany these people.

RENNARD stated he flew the plane to the Tri-City airport at Endicott, N. Y., and since there was no record of the flight in the Avoca airport log, he probably made the flight on instruments after filing an IFP with the local CAA office. He said that between June 24, 1957 and the date of the next incident, September 13, 1957, he was told by LOUIS PAGNOTTI that the sick man he took to Endicott had died. He stated that upon arrival at Endicott, the plane was met by a young, stocky Italian appearing man in his early twenties driving a Cadillac Sedan. He said the five passengers were driven away, but he remained at the airport with the plane. He added, MEDICO, the man whom he believes was BUFALINO, and the unknown man returned to the airport and they flew back to Avoca the same day.

RENNARD explained the reason he thinks one of the passengers on this flight was BUFALINO is that BUFALINO was definitely involved in the September 13, 1957 incident and he is positive he recognized him as having been on the June 24, 1957 flight. He also recalled that PAGNOTTI told him the sick man from Detroit was a "big shot" but he did not recall the name, and when the name ANGELO POLIZZI was mentioned, he was not sure this was the name he heard.

With regard to the September 13, 1957 incident, RENNARD related as follows:

PAGNOTTI called him in the late afternoon of this day and told him "they" had asked him if his plane could be used for a flight to Detroit. PAGNOTTI did not further identify "they."

RENNARD went to the airport and upon checking the weather, found numerous thunderstorms existed or were forming between Avoca and Detroit. He said RUSSEL BUFALINO was already at the airport waiting for him, and he was accompanied by several other men, names not known since all but one remained in their car.

RENNARD was not anxious to make this flight due to the weather, and informed BUFALINO he would not make the flight. BUFALINO responded he had to be in Detroit by 8:30 p.m. that night and remarked he had a ticket on the Allegheny Airline, but the flight had been canceled because of engine trouble in the plane. RENNARD suggested they go to Binghamton and take a commercial flight from there. BUFALINO accepted this suggestion under the impression RENNARD was going to fly them there. However, RENNARD asked him how long it would take to drive to Binghamton and when he found out they could make it in 50 minutes, he suggested they drive since it would take him at least 50 minutes to get the plane ready to fly and since there were storms there also, he might have difficulty landing, and they might miss their commercial plane. He said BUFALINO was visibly offended that RENNARD would not fly them to either Detroit or Binghamton, and left without shaking hands.

Concerning the November 14, 1957 flight, RENNARD stated he flew JAMES TEDESCO, an officer in the Sullivan Trail Company and WILLIAM MEDICO to Bridgeport, Conn., that day. He said that MEDICO owns a factory in the Bridgeport area and was trying to sell it to LOUIS PAGNOTTI. He said he flew on instrument that day, and remained at the Bridgeport airport while MEDICO and TEDESCO went about their business. He stated he did not fly to either Endicott or Binghamton on November 14, 1957. He also stated his own private log reflected the same departure and arrival times as reflected in the CAA records.

RENNARD stated he flew the Sullivan Trail plane to Wilmington, Del., on October 28, 1957, to have a 1,000 hour checkup made on the plane. He said that on October 30, 1957, MYRTHE MACK, pilot for the Correale Construction Company, flew that company's Twin-Beech in for the same purpose. He said he knew MACK personally and that they roomed together the night of October 30, 1957. At that time, MACK told him about a flight he had had the previous day and remarked that if he, RENNARD, had been home he would probably have made the trip himself. He said MACK went on to tell him that on October 29, 1957, he flew one of his bosses, PALMER CORREALE, to Avoca where they picked up LOUIS PAGNOTTI, WILLIAM MEDICO, and a third individual, unknown to him, and they flew on to Endicott, N. Y. MACK told RENNARD they were met at the airport by a driver with a Cadillac sedan, and driven to a very palatial home in Apalachin, N. Y., owned by one JOSEPH BARBARA. MACK told RENNARD they were served a very sumptuous meal and the wine and scotch flowed "like water." After eating, the party was shown around the home and the estate, after which they were driven back to the airport and returned home.

RENNARD said MACK described the affair as "MEDICO's Party," and that MEDICO had invited both CORREALE and PAGNOTTI to go along. RENNARD said both PAGNOTTI and CORREALE like to fly and like to party and that they would go on a pleasure trip upon instant's notice.

RENNARD said after both he and MACK had been interviewed by MC GROARTY of the Pennsylvania State Police, MACK called him to discuss the interview. He said MACK told him at the time he had lied to MC GROARTY about the fact PALMER CORREALE was on the trip because of the publicity regarding BARBARA since that time. At that time he had been interviewed. RENNARD said he told MACK to tell CORREALE of the interview which he did and later MACK told RENNARD that CORREALE instructed him to recontact MC GROARTY and tell him the full facts regarding the flight and who the passengers were.

RENNARD said he did not tell either PAGNOTTI or TEDESCO of his interview, and that when discussing it with PAGNOTTI's private secretary, she told him he should at least tell TEDESCO and that TEDESCO would in turn inform PAGNOTTI. He said she further remarked to him that since he, RENNARD, was new in the area, he did not know the background of "these people." He said she told him that she had been employed by PAGNOTTI for many years, and that she knew positively he had no connection with "these people" meaning BARBARA and others. She told RENNARD it was true that PAGNOTTI had loaned money to BARBARA, but it was not true that BARBARA had at one time been PAGNOTTI's chauffeur.

RENNARD said that MEDICO has made numerous flights in the Sullivan Trail Company plane. He said many of the trips were on business for Sullivan Trail but there were times when it appeared MEDICO had arranged the trip for his own convenience. He said recently he flew MEDICO and LOUIS PAGNOTTI, JR., to Saginaw, Mich., to buy some machinery. PAGNOTTI bought two lathes, after which MEDICO tried to get him to sell one of them to him. RENNARD said he misrepresented to PAGNOTTI that one of the lathes was not complete and when he, RENNARD, pointed out it was complete, MEDICO dropped the subject in a huff.

RENNARD further related another incident which occurred recently. This time he flew TEDESCO, PAGNOTTI, JR., and MEDICO to Baltimore to look at machinery. En route they picked up a man at Reading, Pa., and after looking at the machinery in Baltimore, flew on to Washington, D. C., where MEDICO had an appointment. While waiting for MEDICO to return to the National Airport, RENNARD received a call from PAGNOTTI, SR., inquiring when he expected to return to Avoca. When RENNARD informed him of MEDICO's appointment, PAGNOTTI, SR., appeared to be somewhat angry and he told RENNARD he had some people he wanted flown from Avoca to Philadelphia and then on to Washington the same day. RENNARD said when MEDICO finally returned to the airport, he mentioned his call from PAGNOTTI, SR., and MEDICO immediately inquired who the people were. His question was overheard by PAGNOTTI, JR. RENNARD said he knew who his passengers were to be, but he did not tell MEDICO, and the following day when he spoke to PAGNOTTI about it, the latter said he was right in not disclosing the identities of the passengers to MEDICO, and went on to say that he should not tell MEDICO anything under any circumstances concerning business of the Sullivan Trail Coal Company.
