1. Chlorophyll a (Chl a) is the primary photosynthetic pigment in most plants and algae. It is responsible for capturing light energy and converting it into chemical energy through the process of photosynthesis. Chl a is a green pigment and is found in the chloroplasts of plant cells.

2. Chlorophyll b (Chl b) is an accessory pigment that works in conjunction with Chl a. It helps in capturing light energy and transferring it to Chl a for the photosynthetic process. Chl b is a yellow-green pigment and is also found in the chloroplasts of plant cells.

3. Carotenoids are a group of pigments that include carotenes and xanthophylls. They are responsible for capturing light energy and transferring it to Chl a. Carotenoids are found in the chloroplasts of plant cells and are responsible for the yellow, orange, and red colors seen in autumn foliage.

4. Xanthophylls are a type of carotenoid that are involved in the light-harvesting process. They help in capturing light energy and transferring it to Chl a. Xanthophylls are found in the chloroplasts of plant cells and are responsible for the yellow color seen in autumn foliage.

5. Anthocyanins are water-soluble pigments that are responsible for the red, purple, and blue colors seen in many plants. They are not involved in the light-harvesting process but are produced by plants in response to various environmental factors, such as low temperatures and high light intensity.
