(g) "GEORG(E)" (Russian)
DONNELL saw GEORG for the first and last time in March 1954 at MAGDEBURG when he was briefly interrogated by him (see FIIIT III para 3 sub para (e)). He dressed, spoke and looked like an American. He appeared to be regarded with considerable importance by the Russian officers and men. He is fairly tall, dark and slightly bald.

(h) "ALEX" (Russian)

during the winter of 1954. He came to BAUTZEN stayed for periods of two days, and made three or four visits in all.

(j) PEET, John
An English journalist who is suspected of editing a newspaper in the BDE, written in English, in favour of Communism, and originating from BERLIN.
The name was familiar to DONNELL though he cannot remember how. DONNELL did state that BAUTZEN residents could get a paper written in English originating from East BERLIN. This paper was headed THE GERMAN REPORT and underneath this title in smaller print was the word 'DEMOCRATIC'.
The contents of the newspaper amounted to a superficial intelligence summary of what was happening in the West Zone, and West Sector of BERLIN.

(k) Mr SHEPHERD (re Sunday Pictorial dated 1 Jan 56
page seven)
No person of this name was ever heard of by DONNELL during his stay in BAUTZEN.
6. Comments on civilian population

(a) During DONNELL’s stay in BAUTZEN he observed KOREAN students from DRESDEN who used to go to dances in BAUTZEN, they were studying politics, economy, etc. There were also 20 - 30 Crooks, including girls and boys, in BAUTZEN, going to the Engineering school. Charles LUCAS, US defector, and Russian ‘trusty’ who is allowed to travel, also told DONNELL of Chinese studying at LEIPZIG. All the a/n foreigners were Communists, though it is noteworthy that many were merely young boys and girls.

(b) In the course of associating with civilians, Russians and KVP in BAUTZEN, DONNELL formed the opinion from conversations, and from observations that the Russians were hated by the majority of the civilian population. There were incidents i.e., a Russian officer was found murdered with a hatchet, there was sabotage in the factories, i.e. LOBE and EFA, and various other acts of resistance. The KVP with whom DONNELL conversed, expressed the resolution that if the Eastern powers declared war on AMERICA one day, the KVP would leave them the next.

(c) Civilians regarded the KVP and FDJ as similar movements to the EZ and 'Hitlerism' and consequently hated the organisation, but not the members of it, as they realised that they were practically forced to enlist in one or the other. The civilians hated the Russians for what they did on entering the district towards the end of the war, one incident quoted was when a Russian soldier commandeered an alarm clock from a civilian; the alarm rang some time later and the soldier thinking it a booby trap shot the civilian dead.
